IN THE BEGINNING ...

The insurance industry has a long and rich history dating back several centuries. In fact, the earliest forms of insurance occurred when merchants along the Yangtze River in China determined that it was too risky to put all their merchandise on a single boat and sail it down the river. Instead, they split the shipment into many pieces and placed a portion on each of several vessels. They recognized that the likelihood all the boats would sink was very small, assuring them that at least the majority of their goods would reach their destination unharmed. This informal, but very clever arrangement, eventually led to the formation of insurance organizations who also recognized that if they “spread the risk,” the chance of a loss to each unit was minimized. Indeed, if they collected a small amount of money from many individuals and pooled it, they could reimburse those few unfortunate people who suffered a loss. Voilà, the insurance industry was begun!

The more formal insurance industry had its origins at a coffee house near London, England owned by Edward Lloyd. In the late 1600s, wealthy merchants were engaged in a great deal of transoceanic shipping, particularly to the “new world.” Worried that they could be wiped out financially if a shipment was lost, they began to make arrangements with each other to share their risks of loss. When a shipment was scheduled to depart, the merchants would meet at the coffee house and pass around an agreement whereby each of them would agree to reimburse the shipper for a percentage of the value of their cargo. One by one, each person would sign his or her name beneath a description of the shipment, and set forth the percentage of loss he or she was willing to pay. When the total reached 100%, the vessel would sail. These individuals became known as underwriters, because they had pledged their financial backing by signing under the voyage description. If there was a loss, each person would reimburse the shipper for his or her percentage of the value, but if the voyage was successful, each would receive a bonus or a premium.

This, of course, was the beginning of Lloyd’s of London, which has continued to do business in almost the same way for over 300 years and upon which our American insurance industry is based. Lloyd’s is still a major participant in the insurance industry, providing policies insuring risks ranging from large ocean-going vessels carrying crude oil to Madonna’s voice, and virtually everything in between.

The U.S. insurance industry owes much of its current structure to a very familiar person in U.S. history: Benjamin Franklin. Along with bifocal lenses, the postal department, and lightning rods, Franklin is also credited as the “inventor” of the U.S. insurance industry. In 1752, he organized one of the first fire insurance companies in the country, one that is still in operation to this day. Franklin’s company, the Philadelphia Contributorship for the Insurance of Houses from Loss by Fire, has a long name, but tells the story of what fire insurance is all about.

Franklin

In the early days, each insurance company adopted its own “house mark” to identify properties it insured indicating that the property owners had purchased “insurance” from a fire company. The plaque contained the symbol, or logo, of one of the fire companies that had been formed, including Franklin’s.

Urban legend says that when a fire occurred, all the fire companies would get in their fire trucks (horse drawn, of course) and go by the house looking for the symbol. If the house had the same symbol that appeared on the truck, the fire company would stop and extinguish the fire, but if not, they would keep on going! If you visit the eastern United States, look for the symbols, called fire marks, near the doorways of older buildings. They are still there and serve as a reminder of the earliest days of fire “insurance.”

NO FIRE MARK, NO FIREFIGHTING COMPANY

The misconception that volunteer fire companies put out fires only on buildings that displayed a fire mark arises from the fact that some articles on fire marks do not make a distinction between the English and American relationship to fire marks. The early English fire insurance companies originally used fire marks to identify properties they insured because each insurance company had its own fire brigade. These private insurance brigades only fought fires on properties identified by their employers' mark or badge. In England, the insurance companies originated before the firefighting companies. In America, it was the reverse – the volunteer fire companies were in existence before the first fire insurance company was organized. They fought fires whether or not a building displayed a fire mark. Even the literature that recognizes this distinction does not always follow through. It tends to generalize and equate the American experience with the English for the sake of the story.

Research shows that it is only in the 20th century when the idea first appears that a volunteer fire company would not fight a fire if there were no fire mark. As early as 1929 the Franklin Fire Insurance Company in its 100th anniversary history states that in the early years in Philadelphia "...each insurance company maintained its own fire company." With the proliferation of insurance companies, it became difficult for each company to recognize its own fire. Each insurance company then adopted its own "house mark" to identify properties it insured. When the fire alarm sounded "...all of the fire companies would respond, but only the company whose house mark appeared on the house in danger fought the flames."

The 1938 publication "Fire Mark" by the American Reserve Insurance Company states, "The fire marks...were guides to the competing Volunteers in determining whether or not a fire was worth the effort of putting it out.....But if a piece of property bore no Fire Mark the gallant volunteers more often than not quickly left, for then as now, there was no small profit in gratuitous acts of benevolence."

In another 1938 article, W. Emmert Swigart states, "If no insurance fire mark was seen the free-lancers [volunteers] would often declare a false alarm and calmly walk away from the scene, much to the chagrin of the uninsured owner of the burning building."

All these stories about early Philadelphia are not true. There are no primary sources, either insurance company or volunteer fire company records, which indicate that volunteer fire companies would not fight a fire unless the property was insured and had a fire mark. There is also no reference to such practice in newspaper accounts of the time. A review of books on general history, fire fighting and insurance published in the 1870's and 1880's also do not mention this practice.

In a 1983 Fire Mark Circle of the America's article Dr. Glenn Holt concludes that, at least for St. Louis, there is no reference to a fire mark influencing the firefighters. A review of records of the Insurance Company of North America by Melissa Hough confirms the same conclusion for Philadelphia. To this day, writers repeat and embellish these stories with the result that readers, while entertained, are misinformed about the early volunteers.

The reality is that fire companies operated in a local area, and were organized and existed because of donations from citizens and businesses or public funding. Volunteer fire companies were prominent social organizations and membership was an honor. Having made their case for funding by proclaiming their work in the public interest, it seems unlikely they would disregard any fire.

In the 150 - year span of fire marks in America fewer than 280 known different insurance companies issued fire marks; most insurance companies did not issue fire marks. If only about one in ten insurance companies issued fire marks, it's not likely that the volunteers would let properties burn that did not have fire marks. Had this occurred, the hue and cry of the insurance industry and the public would certainly have been noted.

Benefits And Costs Of Insurance

There are many positive aspects to the products and services provided by the insurance industry. Rather than providing the direct benefit of actually putting out the fire, as we did in Ben Franklin's day, today's insurance products function primarily as a means to reimburse people when their property is damaged or they suffer some other kind of unforeseen loss.

Insurance helps individuals and business owners resume their normal standard of living and operations, which is actually a benefit to society as a whole. If your home burned down, and you had no means to pay for the repairs, it is unlikely you would have the funds to make other purchases. Not only would you be affected, but others from whom you ordinarily buy things would also be impacted. There would be a negative, ripple effect, on the economy. The proceeds of an insurance policy benefit everyone by restoring the insured person or organization to the same financial condition they were in before the loss happened—it indemnifies them.

Another way insurance benefits society is by encouraging activities and devices that will reduce the amount of losses and their economic impact. For example, it has been proven that seat belts and other passive restraints in automobiles significantly reduce the extent of injuries suffered by vehicle occupants involved in auto accidents.

Insurance companies were the major force behind requiring seat belts as standard equipment in all cars. The efforts of insurers to eliminate or reduce the amount of loss and human suffering date back to the earliest days of the insurance industry.

Of course, insurance is not without its costs.

In addition to the obvious consumption of resources, both human and otherwise, insurance can also create a situation where losses become more likely to occur. For example, who would be tempted to burn down their own house if they would have to bear the entire financial burden themselves? The fact that they have insurance has caused some unscrupulous people to commit the crime of arson, which means to intentionally burn down a building, simply to access the insurance policy proceeds. This certainly would not happen if there was no insurance policy, and so it is considered a cost of insurance.

Similarly, some people aren't as careful to prevent losses when they are insured. They don't cause the losses intentionally, as the arsonist does, but they are indifferent as to whether or not a loss occurs. These are people you may have heard say, "Oh well, if something happens to my property, so what, that's what I have insurance for!" As you will learn, this indifference to loss leads to damage and injury that could be prevented and thus is also considered a cost of insurance.

How The Insurance Industry Is Organized

Within the property and casualty industry, there exist additional divisions.

Commercial insurance (also called commercial lines insurance) involves protection for businesses and organizations.

Personal insurance (also known as personal lines insurance) provides protection to individuals and families from risks of loss to their assets. Automobile insurance is probably the form of insurance with which you are most familiar, since it is the type you must purchase for yourself.

Homeowners insurance must be purchased if you buy a home with the help of a bank or other lender in order to protect their collateral.

Additionally, you may own jet skis, a boat, or an ATV (all terrain vehicle), all of which are insured by personal insurance policies.

Where The Insurance Premium Dollar Goes

Some people think insurance is a "rip off" because they believe insurance companies charge excessive premiums and then keep the money, earning high profits. In fact, nearly 70 cents of every dollar collected in insurance premiums is returned directly to policyholders in the form of claim payments. About 28 cents is used to pay the insurance company's expenses, including the agent's commission, the salaries of their employees, and other overhead items such as utilities, rent and the like. That leaves about 2 cents for profit. Many insurance companies would be very happy with a profit of 2%, but in reality some make no profit at all by writing insurance. When an insurance company pays out more money in claims and expenses than it takes in premium, the company is considered to have suffered an underwriting loss. This can sometimes occur when unusual events take place that actuaries could not have predicted such as a major earthquake, tornado, or hurricane. If there is still money left over after paying these items, the company has experienced an underwriting profit.

How can an insurance company stay in business if they have an underwriting loss? Insurers have another source of income. Since you must pay insurance premiums in advance, the insurance company is able to invest the money until the time comes to pay your claim. In the meantime the company earns interest on the funds.

This is called the company's investment income and it can be used to offset losses if claims exceed the company's expectations.

Insurance companies sometimes earn all their profits on investments. Insurance company investments are very conservative and are regulated by law. You would not want your insurance company to take your premium and invest it all in the stock market and then be unable to pay your claim.

General Principles Of Insurance

Just like when you build a house, the study of insurance must begin with a foundation.

This foundation consists of the guiding principles that underlie all other topics we will discuss in this book.

The first guiding principle is known as the doctrine of insurable interest. Under this doctrine, or rule, an insurable interest is said to exist whenever the occurrence of a certain event, such as a fire or theft, results in a financial loss to a person or organization. In order to purchase legally valid insurance, one must possess an insurable interest in the item being insured. If you own a car, and that car is damaged in an automobile accident, the value of the car declines and you suffer a financial loss.

Therefore, you possess an insurable interest in that car and may purchase insurance to protect against the financial loss.

Another part of the foundation is called the principle of indemnity, the second guiding principle of insurance. This is similar to insurable interest, but rather than defining under what circumstances you can collect on an insurance policy, the principle of indemnity determines how much you can collect. Let's say your car is damaged in an auto accident.

While you might want the insurance company to replace your car with a new one, this would violate the principle of indemnity since a new car is more valuable than an older one in most cases. So, the insurance company determines the value of your damaged automobile (including a deduction for depreciation) and pays you that amount. You are indemnified.

Under this rule, insurance policies are considered to be contracts of indemnity, meaning they are designed to put someone back in the same general financial condition he or she was in before the loss occurred. In other words, you shouldn't be able to profit by collecting the insurance. You may have heard the phrase "insurance is to make you whole." This is a euphemism for the principle of indemnity. You're no better off than you were prior to the loss, but neither are you any worse.

Without each of these underlying principles, there is little that would separate the purchase of insurance from gambling. Think what would happen if people did not need to have an insurable interest in the houses they insured for loss by fire. You would simply drive around town, find the oldest, most rundown house you could, buy a fire insurance policy and wait for the place to burn down. It's the doctrine of insurable interest that prevents you from doing that. In order to collect the insurance, you had to have suffered a loss in the first place.

Basic Insurance Terms

Among the most fundamental insurance concepts are the meaning of the words risk, peril, hazard, loss, insurance, and insurance policy.

Risk

A risk exists whenever there is uncertainty about the outcome. "Taking a risk" means not knowing exactly what will happen. Facing risks is part of life, and it is the basic problem dealt with in insurance. Risk, however, comes in two forms, only one of which is addressed by insurance.

Pure risk exists whenever there are only two possible outcomes: loss, or no loss. This is the type of risk insurance deals with. Your home burns (loss) or it does not (no loss). Your car is damaged in an accident (loss) or it is not (no loss).

The other type of risk is called speculative risk. With speculative risk, there is a third possible outcome: gain. When you purchase a company's stock, the value of the stock could decline (loss), it could stay the same (no loss), or it could appreciate (gain). When a company comes up with a new product, it could be a flop (loss), they could break even (no loss), or they could have a huge success (gain).

Insurance does not deal with speculative risk, since the potential for gain or profit contained in these situations would be a violation of the general principles of insurable interest and indemnity.

Peril

A peril is the cause of a loss. Fire, flood, theft, and earthquake are all perils or events that can cause a loss to property and people.

Hazard

A hazard is a condition that makes a peril more likely to happen or that increases the seriousness of a loss. Leaving the door to your house unlocked when no one is there is a hazard since it increases the likelihood that a theft will take place. Building houses with wood shake roofs increases the amount of damage that the structure will suffer if there is a brush fire and is, therefore, a hazard. Some hazards are the result of the physical characteristics of property, such as old wiring in a home that could lead to a fire. Other hazards are created by people, such as when a person burns down his or her own house or when someone files a false insurance claim. This is called a moral hazard, since it arises out of a person's habits or tendencies and increases the likelihood of losses.

The person who is indifferent to loss represents a morale hazard, since it is his or her carelessness that raises the likelihood of loss.

Insurance Policy

An insurance policy is a document issued by an insurance company to its policyholder that provides details about what is covered under the contract. The type of coverage (such as automobile liability insurance), the limits (maximum amount that will be paid for a particular loss), and any deductibles (amount the insured must pay his or herself) are all stated in the policy.

Loss

Loss is simply a decline in value. When there is a reduction in the quantity, quality, or value of something, a loss is said to occur. This can occur to tangible items, such as houses, cars, or equipment (direct loss), or it can result from damage to tangible items (indirect loss). An example is when you must take up residence in a hotel (indirect loss) because your house was damaged by fire (direct loss) or when you have to rent a car (indirect loss) while yours is in the shop being repaired following a collision (direct loss).

Insurance

Insurance is a social and contractual device that transfers the risk of financial loss from individuals or businesses to an insurer. The insurer collects small amounts of money from each of the individuals or businesses (premium) and “pools” them into a large sum of money out of which losses will be paid. The organization that arranges and administers the pool of funds is generally referred to as an insurer, and the individuals or businesses that transfer their risks are called insureds. The contract that makes the transfer is referred to as the insurance policy.

Risk And Loss

Whenever you are faced with a risk, there are three possible things that can happen.

First, the outcome can be positive. When you risk your money buying a lottery ticket you could win (called a gain).

Second, the outcome could be negative and produce a loss. When you face the risks associated with driving a car, you could have an accident. The accident is a loss, because you may have to pay to have your car repaired or may be responsible to pay for the damage you cause to someone else’s car.

Third, the outcome could be neutral—neither positive nor negative. There’s no loss, but there’s no gain either.

When there are only two possible outcomes to a risk, loss or no loss, it is referred to as pure risk. When there is a third possible outcome, gain, the risk is called speculative risk.

Insurance is designed to treat pure risk exposures.

Speculative risk, because it has a potential for gain, is not the subject of insurance.

The purpose of insurance is to protect against loss. If no loss occurs or there is potential for gain, insurance usually cannot be purchased.

For example, if you start a business, it can be successful or unsuccessful ... insurance, in general, cannot be purchased to ensure the success of your business, though it can if your business is threatened by a peril (e.g., fire) where the only possible outcomes are loss or no loss.

How Can You Manage Risks?

There are five methods a person can use to manage their risks of loss.

Avoidance

This risk management technique means that you eliminate the loss exposure or never acquire it in the first place. For example, if you fear having your car stolen, you might consider not owning a vehicle. If you already own the car, you could sell it.

When used as a risk management technique, avoidance is very effective. In fact it ensures that a loss will not happen. However, it is not always practical and some loss exposures, such as death, simply can't be avoided.

Loss Control

For risks that cannot be avoided, loss control can reduce the number of losses (loss frequency) or the cost of losses that do occur (loss severity). Burglar alarms are an example of a loss control device that reduces the number of losses that occur to property. A person intent on breaking into a home may see that the house has an alarm and decide not to commit the crime (at least to that house)!

Seat belts and airbags in automobiles are examples of loss control devices that are designed to reduce the cost of a loss. While their use does not keep auto accidents from happening, when used by vehicle passengers these restraints generally result in less serious injuries.

Choosing among the risk management techniques can be a challenge. When the risks of loss are enormous, avoidance may be most appropriate. For losses that don't happen very often, but are costly when they do, insurance may be the best choice.

Loss control measures that reduce the number of losses are called loss prevention methods.

When the purpose is to reduce the cost of a loss, the device is referred to as a loss reduction technique, because the dollar amount of the loss is less than it would be otherwise.

Transfer to Others

Some risks can actually become the responsibility of someone else using a transfer such as contract or agreement. When you rent a car, the rental car company requires you to sign a contract in which you agree to pay for any damage to the vehicle. Rather than suffer the loss itself, the rental car company transfers that risk to you, the renter.

Retention

The risk management method of retention means paying some or all of the losses that occur out of your own personal current income or from a personal savings account.

An example of the individual paying for the loss or sustaining the damage without correcting the problem is in the case of small losses, such as cracks in a car windshield. The owner of the car may retain the loss (pay out of pocket) since it does not happen frequently and does not result in a large dollar amount of loss.

It is also possible that the damage will not be repaired and the person will simply have a vehicle worth less money due to the cracked windshield. Either way, the burden of the loss falls on the owner of the vehicle.

Insurance

The last risk management method to be considered is insurance, or transfer of the cost of loss to an insurance company. Understanding how insurance operates as a tool of risk management is the primary purpose of this book and will be dealt with in some detail in the following chapters.

For each of the following loss exposures, indicate the risk management technique(s) that is (are) most appropriate for treating the risks of loss.

I. TYPES OF PROPERTY POLICIES

A. Property: Personal lines

“Personal Lines” is a term used to describe insurance for individuals or families. Commercial Lines is a term used to describe insurance for businesses.

When broken down into simple terms, insurance can be considered a method for distributing risk among a group of people so that no single person feels the full effects of a loss. Defined that way, insurance has a long history. In ancient China, farmers’ crops were taken to market via water, rather than land. If a ship sank, obviously it meant great financial loss. Eventually, farmers distributed their crops across a group of ships so that the sinking of one ship wouldn’t ruin one lone farmer. Other ancient societies had similar systems of safe-guarding individual investments. In the 13th century, European merchants began insuring their ships by signing contracts with wealthy benefactors that provided compensation in case a ship was lost at sea.

In a then anonymous letter to The Pennsylvania Gazette on February 4, 1735, Benjamin Franklin coined the famous phrase “an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure” when talking about the need for a better fire fighting service in the city of Philadelphia. In December 1736, a fire fighting service was formed in Philadelphia, and in 1752, Franklin’s Union Fire Company, along with members of other fire fighting groups, formed the Philadelphia Contributionship, the first insurance company in the American colonies. Today, Franklin’s proverb remains as valuable as ever.

1. Dwelling and contents (DP forms)

A series of forms providing basic, broad, or special form coverage for dwelling buildings and contents or coverage for household contents only. Usually written for either hard to place homeowners or for owned property rented to others.

Dwelling Policy

An insurance policy that covers buildings and the personal property inside. The Insurance Services Office has a basic form, a broad form, and a special form.

The principal differences among them are the perils covered. The forms are designed to insure one- to four-family dwellings, whether owner-occupied or tenant-occupied, and can be used to insure mobile homes. Unlike homeowners’ policies, dwelling policies do not include theft, liability or medical payments coverage, but these coverages can be added by endorsement. The ISO policy forms have a standard format:

- ◆ Coverage A--Dwelling Coverage
- ◆ Coverage B--Other Structures Coverage
- ◆ Coverage C--Personal Property Coverage
- ◆ Coverage D--Fair Rental Value Coverage
- ◆ Coverage E--Additional Living Expense (except basic form)

Dwelling policy basic form

A very limited dwelling policy (ISO form DP 00 01) that only covers the perils of fire or lightning and internal explosion and does not include additional living expense coverage, though this can be added by endorsement. The form includes an "other coverages" section that extends coverage to other structures; debris removal; improvements, alterations and additions; world-wide personal property coverage; rental value; reasonable repairs; and fire department service charges. An extended coverage option adds the perils of windstorm, hail, explosion, riot, civil commotion, aircraft, vehicles, smoke, and volcanic eruption. Another option adds the perils of vandalism and malicious mischief.

Dwelling policy broad form

This dwelling policy (ISO form DP 00 02) is identical to the basic form except it includes coverage E (additional living expense) and the perils available as coverage options under the basic form. In addition, it includes the perils of damage by burglars; falling objects; weight of ice, snow or sleet; accidental discharge or overflow of water or steam; sudden and accidental tearing apart, cracking, burning or bulging; freezing; and sudden and accidental damage from artificially generated electrical current. In addition to the "other coverage" provided in the basic form, it includes coverage for trees, shrubs, and other plants; collapse; and glass or safety glazing material.

Dwelling policy special form

This dwelling policy (ISO form DP 00 03) is identical to the broad form, but it insures the dwelling and other structures on an open-perils basis and covers personal property on the same broad named-perils basis as the broad form.

Open perils

A property insurance form that insures against any risks of loss that are not specifically excluded. This term is frequently used instead of "all risks."

All-risk insurance

A property or inland marine insurance form that covers all risks of loss except risks that are specifically excluded. All-risk policies always have some exclusions or limitations regarding the insured property, persons or protected interests, and some policies may exclude certain causes of loss.

Broad form property insurance endorsement

An endorsement to a property insurance policy covering perils such as breakage of glass, falling objects, weight of snow, ice, sleet, or water damage, in addition to the basic perils.

Named perils

Specified causes of loss covered under a property insurance policy. No coverage is provided for perils not listed.

Most of today's insurance policies combine several coverages into one package. Some coverages are basic and always included in the policy others are optional and allow the insured to select additional protection for additional premiums. All of the coverages selected, with their limits and premiums, are shown on the declaration page.

Property coverage protects the dwelling, other structures on the property, and personal property. The homeowners policy also provides compensation for additional expenses after a loss. Additional payments may also be made for certain stated expenses or losses. Claim payments will not exceed the specified limit of liability for each coverage. Let's take a brief look at each individual property coverage.

Dwelling coverage covers the dwelling, structures attached to that dwelling (such as a garage, carport, or breezeway), and fixtures permanently attached to the house (such as a furnace, wood burning stove, plumbing fixtures, built-in air conditioning system, and certain kitchen appliances). As you can see in the example above, the premium for dwelling coverage includes the premiums for most of the other coverages. That premium will depend upon many factors, including the replacement value of the house, its construction, the deductibles selected, and location.

Coverage for Other Structures covers those buildings and structures that are on the insured premises but completely separated from the house or connected only with a fence or utility line. Such structures as in-ground swimming pools, fences, detached garages, tool sheds, and gazebos are included here. Structures used on a regular basis for business purposes are not covered by homeowner's policies. A builder who stores lumber and tools in a barn behind his home should cover that barn on a commercial policy.

Personal property coverage insures personal property that the insured owns or uses anywhere in the world. Property that is borrowed and damaged by the insured is also covered. Most insurance companies automatically insure furniture and personal possessions at a limit equal to 50% of the amount for which the dwelling is insured, but this amount can be increased for an additional premium.

Personal property coverage is subject to certain exclusions that restrict the limits on certain kinds of property. There are several popular options that increase protection on items not normally covered or covered only up to certain limits. Again, such optional coverages are available for additional premiums.

Personal property replacement coverage extends protection to include the actual cost to repair or replace damaged property. Generally depreciation is taken into account when determining a claim payment. With this option in the policy there is no deduction for depreciation.

Extended theft coverage insures items or property left in unattended motor vehicles or trailers.

Jewelry and fur coverage increases the limit of liability for the loss of jewelry watches, furs, precious and semiprecious stones.

Silverware coverage similarly increases the limits for the loss of silverware, silver-plated ware, gold ware, gold-plated ware, and pewter ware.

There are other options that can further customize the basic homeowner's policy to protect the personal property your customer owns or uses.

Additional expenses coverage is intended to help compensate the insured for additional living expenses after a loss. This does not cover all living expenses — only those in excess of the ones the insured normally pays.

Suppose a family is forced to live in a motel and eat in restaurants for two weeks after their home is damaged in a fire. Their normal living expenses for that period would be $500, but they spend $1200. Additional expenses coverage would reimburse them for the extra $700 expense because of the damage to their home.

Again, the purpose of this coverage is to return insureds to the financial condition they enjoyed before the loss.

Additional payments are also made for specified expenses or property losses the insured incurs. They provide reimbursement for such things as debris removal, removing property from endangered premises, fire department service charges, and glass breakage. Notice that such payments help to limit damage and the need for insurance company to pay higher claim payments.

Just going with the usual homeowner's package may neglect important coverage that your customers need. If a family's silverware worth $3500 is stolen, they will be in for a rude awakening if they have only the standard $1000 coverage. By taking the time to thoroughly determine what property must be protected, you can avoid these unpleasant surprises.

Settlement of Property Losses

The replacement cost is the actual cost of repairing or replacing the home at today's prices. For adequate protection, the amount of dwelling coverage should be based on that replacement cost. It is up to you to keep an eye on your customer's policy — especially when appreciation and improvements constantly push the replacement cost upward. You can obtain a reasonably good estimate of the replacement cost by using construction data from reputable appraisal companies.

Most insurance companies recommend full replacement coverage. This means insuring the dwelling for 100% of its replacement cost and updating that coverage as the replacement cost rises. The insurer will then pay whatever it costs to replace the damaged property or return it to its pre-loss condition—even if that cost exceeds the limit of liability

Suppose our homeowner has kept up with the growing replacement cost of the home and has now upgraded the dwelling coverage from $120,000 to $180,000. The damage will cover any damage to the home in full—even if the house is destroyed and costs more than $180,000 to rebuild.

Your customer may be tempted to save money by underinsuring or buying only the minimum coverage that is required. You can provide value-added service by keeping the homeowner aware of rising replacement costs. When it is time to decide on the amount of property insurance to carry on the home, you should encourage the customer to honestly answer one question — Can I afford to replace my home and possessions at today's prices?

Customizing the Policy

Determining your customers' insurance needs and “building” the proper policy is much like ordering from a menu. In a good restaurant the menu offers a range of courses—something for every taste. In the same way you can offer your customers a range of coverages — protection that meets their needs and circumstances.

Basic Form – DP 00 01

Basic policies provide the specified perils coverage we discussed previously. The house and possessions are covered for losses caused by those perils specifically listed in the policy. Perils not listed are not covered. Usually basic policies cover fire and lightning, windstorm and hail, explosion, riot and civil commotion, damage caused by vehicles or aircraft, smoke damage, vandalism, and theft.

Broad Form – DP 00 02

Broader policies cover all losses to the house except those specifically excluded in the policy. All the perils in the basic policy are covered and others are added—rupture of steam or hot water systems, falling objects, weight of ice, snow, or sleet, electrical damage to appliances, water damage from plumbing or heating systems, collapse of buildings, and losses to property being conveyed because of collision or upset of the vehicle carrying that property This coverage applies to the home or other buildings only. Possessions are still covered only for those perils specified in the policy.

- If an assignment is sought, the person insured must sign and deliver all related papers and cooperate with us.
11. Suit Against Us. No action can be brought unless the policy provisions have been complied with and the action is started within one year after the date of loss.
12. Our Option. If we give you written notice within 30 days after we receive your signed, sworn proof of loss, we may repair or replace any part of the damaged property with like property.
13. Loss Payment. We will adjust all losses with you. We will pay you unless some other person is named in the policy or is legally entitled to receive payment. Loss will be payable 60 days after we receive your proof of loss and:
- reach an agreement with you;

- there is an entry of a final judgment; or
 - there is a filing of an appraisal award with us.
14. Abandonment of Property. We need not accept any property abandoned by you.
15. Mortgage Clause. The word "mortgage" includes trustee.
- If a mortgagee is named in this policy, any loss payable under Coverage A or B will be paid to the mortgagee and you, as interests appear. If more than one mortgagee is named, the order of payment will be the same as the order of precedence of the mortgages.
- If we deny your claim, that denial will not apply to a valid claim of the mortgagee, if the mortgagee:
- notifies us of any change in ownership, occupancy or substantial change in risk of which the mortgagee is aware;
 - pays any premium due under this policy on demand if you have neglected to pay the premium; and
 - submits a signed, sworn statement of loss within 60 days after receiving notice from us of your failure to do so. Policy conditions relating to Appraisal, Suit Against Us and Loss Payment apply to the mortgagee.
- If we decide to cancel or not to renew this policy, the mortgagee will be notified at least 10 days before the date cancellation or nonrenewal takes effect.
- If we pay the mortgagee for any loss and deny payment to you:
- we are subrogated to all the rights of the mortgagee granted under the mortgage on the property; or
 - at our option, we may pay to the mortgagee the whole principal on the mortgage plus any accrued interest. In this event, we will receive a full assignment and transfer of the mortgage and all securities held as collateral to the mortgage debt.
- Subrogation will not impair the right of the mortgagee to recover the full amount of the mortgagee's claim.
16. No Benefit to Bailee. We will not recognize any assignment or grant any coverage that benefits a person or organization holding, storing or moving property for a fee regardless of any other provision of this policy.
17. Cancellation.
- You may cancel this policy at any time by returning it to us or by letting us know in writing of the date cancellation is to take effect.
 - We may cancel this policy only for the reasons stated below by letting you know in writing of the date cancellation takes effect. This cancellation notice may be delivered to you, or mailed to you at your mailing address shown in the Declarations.

- Proof of mailing shall be sufficient proof of notice.
- When you have not paid the premium, we may cancel at any time by letting you know at least 10 days before the date cancellation takes effect.
 - When this policy has been in effect for less than 60 days and is not a renewal with us, we may cancel for any reason by letting you know at least 10 days before the date cancellation takes effect.
 - When this policy has been in effect for 60 days or more, or at any time if it is a renewal with us, we may cancel:
 - if there has been a material misrepresentation of fact which if known to us would have caused us not to issue the policy; or
 - if the risk has changed substantially since the policy was issued.
 This can be done by letting you know at least 30 days before the date cancellation takes effect.
 - When this policy is written for a period of more than one year, we may cancel for any reason at anniversary by letting you know at least 30 days before the date cancellation takes effect.
 - When this policy is cancelled, the premium for the period from the date of cancellation to the expiration date will be refunded pro rata.
 - If the return premium is not refunded with the notice of cancellation or when this policy is returned to us, we will refund it within a reasonable time after the date cancellation takes effect.
18. Non-Renewal. We may elect not to renew this policy. We may do so by delivering to you, or mailing to you at your mailing address shown in the Declarations, written notice at least 30 days before the expiration date of this policy. Proof of mailing will be sufficient proof of notice.
19. Liberalization Clause. If we make a change which broadens coverage under this edition of our policy without additional premium charge, that charge will automatically apply to your insurance as of the date we implement the change in your state, provided that this implementation date falls within 60 days prior to or during the policy period stated in the Declarations.
- This Liberalization Clause does not apply to changes implemented through introduction of a subsequent edition of our policy.
20. Waiver or Change of Policy Provisions. A waiver or change of a provision of this policy must be in writing by us to be valid. Our request for an appraisal or examination will not waive any of our rights.
21. Assignment. Assignment of this policy will not be valid unless we give our written consent.
22. Death. If you die, we insure:

- your legal representatives but only with respect to the property of the deceased covered under the policy at the time of death;
 - with respect to your property, the person having proper temporary custody of the property until appointment and qualification of a legal representative.
23. Nuclear Hazard Clause.
- "Nuclear Hazard" means any nuclear reaction, radiation, or radioactive contamination, all whether controlled or uncontrolled or however caused, or any consequence of any of these.
 - Loss caused by the nuclear hazard will not be considered loss caused by fire, explosion, or smoke, whether these perils are specifically named in or otherwise included within the Perils Insured Against.
 - This policy does not apply to loss caused directly or indirectly by nuclear hazard, except that direct loss by fire resulting from the nuclear hazard is covered.
24. Recovered Property. If you or we recover any property for which we have made payment under this policy, you or we will notify the other of the recovery. At your option, the property will be returned to or retained by you or it will become our property. If the recovered property is returned to or retained by you, the loss payment will be adjusted based on the amount you received for the recovered property.
25. Volcanic Eruption Period. One or more volcanic eruptions that occur within a 72-hour period will be considered as one volcanic eruption.
- In Witness Whereof, the Company has caused this policy to be executed and attested, but this policy shall not be valid unless countersigned on the Declarations page by a duly authorized agent of the Company.

prior to, during or after removal, repair, restoration or replacement of covered property.

I. PROPERTY COVERAGES.

A. Insuring Agreement.

We pay for direct physical loss to property covered under Coverages A, B, C, or, if provided by this policy, the Incidental Property Coverage for improvements caused by mold pollutants, when the presence of any mold pollutants, whether collectively or any one item, is the direct result of any covered peril. All reasonable means must be used to save and preserve the property at and after the time of loss.

However, all consequential damage and subsequent cost arising from mold pollutants and its remediation, meaning any loss caused directly or indirectly by mold pollutants regardless of any other cause or event contributing concurrently or in any sequence to the loss, will be subject to the Aggregate Property Limit (herein "APL") of this endorsement unless the proximate covered cause of loss is the peril of fire or lightning. This coverage does not otherwise increase any coverage limits shown in the declarations of this policy.

B. Property Exclusions.

This coverage does not apply to damage caused by or consisting of mold pollutants that results directly or indirectly from the following:

1. Discharge or overflow.
 - a. Caused by continuous or repeated seepage or leakage, unless hidden or unknown to the insured.
 - b. From a sump, sump pump, or related equipment.
 - c. That comes from off the insured premises.
 - d. Caused by freezing while the residence is vacant, unoccupied, or under construction and unoccupied, unless you have taken reasonable care to:
 - (1) Maintain heat in the dwelling.
 - (2) Shut off the liquid supply and drain the system, heater, or domestic appliance.
2. A peril that is not covered under the terms of this policy.

C. Limits of Liability.

Aggregate Property Limit.

The APL of this endorsement is the most we pay for remediation regardless of the number of occurrences, claims or assessments made, or locations insured under this policy. The APL of this endorsement is the most that we pay for each consecutive annual policy period and for any remaining period of less than twelve months, beginning with the inception date of this policy as shown on the declarations. If, however, the policy period is extended for an additional period of less than twelve months, this additional period will be considered part of the preceding period for the purpose of determining the APL of this endorsement.

The APL is the greater of $5,000 or 5% of the Coverage A (Dwelling) limit, and is subject to a per-occurrence deductible of $250. Restoration of Limits under How Much We Pay For Loss Or Claim does not apply.

II. COVERAGE L LIABILITY COVERAGE.

A. Insuring Agreement.

Subject to the Aggregate Liability Limit (herein "ALL") of this endorsement, we pay for bodily injury or property damage that results from ingestion of inhalation of, physical contact with, or exposure to mold pollutants.

Except for claims adjustment expense and any litigation costs incurred thereunder, any coverage provided under these Incidental Liability Coverages for bodily injury, property damage, damages, or legal fees arising from ingestion of, inhalation of, physical contact with, or exposure to mold pollutants is subject to the ALL of this endorsement.

C. Limits of Liability.

Aggregate Liability Limit.

The ALL of this endorsement, as shown on the declarations, is the most we pay for loss for each occurrence covered under this endorsement. This applies regardless of the number of:

- a. Persons insured under this policy.
 - b. Parties who sustain injury or damage.
 - c. Claims made or suits brought.
- Subject to the ALL of this endorsement, the amount shown on the declarations per person for Coverage M is the most we pay for all medical expenses payable for bodily injury to one person as the result of one occurrence covered under this endorsement.

Any per occurrence limit shown on the declarations for Coverage M does not apply with respect to this endorsement. Payment under Coverage M will not be deemed as an admission of liability under Coverage L.

Our total limit of liability in any one policy year will not exceed the ALL of this endorsement, regardless of the number of:

- a. Occurrences.
- b. Insureds.
- c. Claims made or suits brought.
- d. Persons injured.
- e. Assessments made.

However, this ALL does not apply to coverage provided under Claims and Defense Cost under the Incidental Liability Coverages.

The ALL of this endorsement, is the most that we pay for each consecutive annual policy period and for any remaining period of less than twelve months, beginning with the inception date of this policy, as shown on the declarations. If, however, the policy period is extended for an additional period of less than twelve months, this additional period will be considered part of the preceding period for the purpose of determining the ALL of this endorsement.

The ALL is $50,000. Restoration of Limits under How Much We Pay For Loss Or Claim does not apply.

ENDORSEMENT No. PM11 (Ed. 2)
Increased Deductible For Loss or Damage Caused by Tenants

This endorsement changes your policy. Please read it carefully.

It is understood and agreed that if a loss occurs due to an insured peril which is caused by a deliberate act, or is a result of the abuse of the property by a present or past tenant of the property, then that loss is considered to be a "Tenant Caused Loss."

We will only be liable for that portion of a Tenant Caused Loss that exceeds $2,500.00, up to the limits of the policy as stated on the policy declarations page. However, if a policy deductible of $5,000.00 is stated on the policy declarations page, then we will only be liable for that portion of a Tenant Caused Loss that exceeds $5,000.00, up to the limits of the policy as stated on the policy declarations page.

This endorsement does not extend or expand the perils insured under this policy.

All other terms and conditions of the policy remain unchanged.

ENDORSEMENT No. PM12 (Ed. 1)
Windstorm or Hail Deductible

The Windstorm or Hail Deductible is 2% of the Coverage A limit, unless a higher percentage has otherwise been noted on the policy declarations page and a credit has been applied to the premium.

The following is added to the deductible provisions of this policy:

Windstorm or Hail Deductible – We pay only that part of the loss caused directly or indirectly by windstorm or hail which is more than the deductible amount shown in this endorsement, or on the policy declarations page, if greater than 2% of the Coverage A limit. The deductible amount is the percent shown in this endorsement, or on the policy declarations page if greater than 2% of the Coverage A limit, of the limit that applies to Coverage A.

The deductible applies per occurrence, and separately at each covered location. Only one deductible applies at each location.

The deductible applies regardless of other causes or events that contribute to or aggravate the loss, whether such causes or events occur before, at the same time as, or after the loss caused by windstorm or hail.

All other terms, conditions and exclusions of this policy remain unchanged.

ENDORSEMENT No. PM18 (Ed. 1)

Replacement Cost Coverage for Personal Property

It is agreed that, for the additional premium noted on the declarations of this policy, that the loss settlement provisions of the policy relating to losses of personal property covered under Coverage C of the policy are to be settled on a replacement cost basis and in accordance with the following provisions:

1. "Replacement cost" means the cost to repair or replace the property with new property of equivalent kind and quality to the extent practical, without deduction for depreciation.
2. The replacement cost terms set forth in this endorsement apply to the following covered property:
 - a. Coverage C – Personal Property;
 - b. appliances and window air conditioners;
 - c. carpets and window coverings;
 - d. awnings and canopies; and
 - e. antennas.
3. The replacement cost terms set forth in this endorsement do not apply to the following property:
 - a. articles of art or rarity that cannot be duplicated;
 - b. memorabilia, souvenirs, collector's items, and similar items whose age or history contribute to its value;
 - c. items not maintained in good or workable condition; or
 - d. items that are outdated or obsolete and are stored or not being used.
4. Under the Conditions of the policy, loss settlement terms, item 5 in the DP-1 policy and item 5a in the DP-3 policy, are deleted and replaced by the following with respect to the property that is subject to the terms of this endorsement:

Loss Settlement. Subject to the terms show in the Conditions – Loss Settlement portion of this policy and the terms of this endorsement, we settle losses according to the Replacement Cost Terms. If the Replacement Cost Terms do not apply, we settle losses according to the Actual Cash Value Terms.

 - a. Replacement Cost Terms
 - (1) We pay the smallest of the following amounts for each covered item:
 - (a) the replacement cost of the property as defined in this endorsement;
 - (b) the amount computed after any special limitation in this policy has been applied to the loss, or
 - (c) for loss to property covered under Coverage C, subject to the Coverage C limit.
 - (2) When the replacement cost for each occurrence is more than $500, we do not pay for more than the actual cash value of the loss until actual repair or replacement is completed. You may make a claim for the actual cash value amount of the loss before repairs are made or replacement is completed. A claim for any additional amount payable under this provision must be made within six months after the loss.

- b. Actual Cash Value Terms – Actual cash value includes a deduction for depreciation, however caused.
 - (1) The Actual Cash Value Terms apply to all property not subject to the Replacement Value Terms.
 - (2) The smaller of the following amounts is used in applying the terms under our limit:
 - (a) the cost to repair or replace the property with materials of like kind and quality to the extent practical; or
 - (b) the actual cash value of the property at the time of loss.
6. The coverage provided by this endorsement does not increase our limit. All other terms, conditions and exclusions of the policy apply.

The broadest policies cover damage to the house and possessions on an all risk basis — all perils are covered except those specifically excluded in the policy. These policies add such perils as the escape of oil from heaters or tanks, damage by certain wild animals, and the backup of water caused by the buildup of ice on roof surfaces.

Optional coverages extend protection even further. Earlier in this lesson we mentioned personal property replacement, extended theft, jewelry and fur and silverware coverage that provide extended personal property coverage. Earthquake coverage, flood coverage, and mortgage insurance (which pays the mortgage balance when the insured or spouse dies) are also examples of optional property coverages that protect the house. Optional liability coverage is available for watercraft and snowmobiles, certain business pursuits, personal injury, and the business use of the home. All of these optional coverages extend protection and are available for additional premiums.

The point is this: You have many options to choose from in developing the right homeowner's policy for your customer. The policy that is finally written is a contract between the insurance company and your customer.

It is not like a meal which can be sent back because it is under- or over-cooked. Your customers must understand what they are "ordering" when the policy is written. It's too late to customize the policy to their specific needs after a loss has occurred.

Review the following examples of DP forms then test your understanding by completing the Practice Quiz on page 51.

prior to, during or after removal, repair, restoration or replacement of covered property.

I. PROPERTY COVERAGES.

A. Insuring Agreement.

We pay for direct physical loss to property covered under Coverages A, B, C, or, if provided by this policy, the Incidental Property Coverage for improvements caused by mold pollutants, when the presence of any mold pollutants, whether collectively or any one item, is the direct result of any covered peril. All reasonable means must be used to save and preserve the property at and after the time of loss.

However, all consequential damage and subsequent cost arising from mold pollutants and its remediation, meaning any loss caused directly or indirectly by mold pollutants regardless of any other cause or event contributing concurrently or in any sequence to the loss, will be subject to the Aggregate Property Limit (herein "APL") of this endorsement unless the proximate covered cause of loss is the peril of fire or lightning. This coverage does not otherwise increase any coverage limits shown in the declarations of this policy.

B. Property Exclusions.

This coverage does not apply to damage caused by or consisting of mold pollutants that results directly or indirectly from the following:

1. Discharge or overflow.
 - a. Caused by continuous or repeated seepage or leakage, unless hidden or unknown to the insured.
 - b. From a sump, sump pump, or related equipment.
 - c. That comes from off the insured premises.
 - d. Caused by freezing while the residence is vacant, unoccupied, or under construction and unoccupied, unless you have taken reasonable care to:
 - (1) Maintain heat in the dwelling.
 - (2) Shut off the liquid supply and drain the system, heater, or domestic appliance.
2. A peril that is not covered under the terms of this policy.

C. Limits of Liability.

Aggregate Property Limit.

The APL of this endorsement is the most we pay for remediation regardless of the number of occurrences, claims or assessments made, or locations insured under this policy. The APL of this endorsement is the most that we pay for each consecutive annual policy period and for any remaining period of less than twelve months, beginning with the inception date of this policy as shown on the declarations. If, however, the policy period is extended for an additional period of less than twelve months, this additional period will be considered part of the preceding period for the purpose of determining the APL of this endorsement.

The APL is the greater of $5,000 or 5% of the Coverage A (Dwelling) limit, and is subject to a per-occurrence deductible of $250. Restoration of Limits under How Much We Pay For Loss Or Claim does not apply.

II. COVERAGE L LIABILITY COVERAGE.

A. Insuring Agreement.

Subject to the Aggregate Liability Limit (herein "ALL") of this endorsement, we pay for bodily injury or property damage that results from ingestion of inhalation of, physical contact with, or exposure to mold pollutants.

B. Except for claims adjustment expense and any litigation costs incurred thereunder, any coverage provided under these Incidental Liability Coverages for bodily injury, property damage, damages, or legal fees arising from ingestion of, inhalation of, physical contact with, or exposure to mold pollutants is subject to the ALL of this endorsement.

C. Limits of Liability.

Aggregate Liability Limit.
The ALL of this endorsement, as shown on the declarations, is the most we pay for loss for each occurrence covered under this endorsement. This applies regardless of the number of:

- a. Persons insured under this policy.
- b. Parties who sustain injury or damage.
- c. Claims made or suits brought.

Subject to the ALL of this endorsement, the amount shown on the declarations per person for Coverage M is the most we pay for all medical expenses payable for bodily injury to one person as the result of one occurrence covered under this endorsement.

Any per occurrence limit shown on the declarations for Coverage M does not apply with respect to this endorsement. Payment under Coverage M will not be deemed as an admission of liability under Coverage L.

Our total limit of liability in any one policy year will not exceed the ALL of this endorsement, regardless of the number of:

- a. Occurrences.
- b. Insureds.
- c. Claims made or suits brought.
- d. Persons injured.
- e. Assessments made.

However, this ALL does not apply to coverage provided under Claims and Defense Cost under the Incidental Liability Coverages.

The ALL of this endorsement, is the most that we pay for each consecutive annual policy period and for any remaining period of less than twelve months, beginning with the inception date of this policy, as shown on the declarations. If, however, the policy period is extended for an additional period of less than twelve months, this additional period will be considered part of the preceding period for the purpose of determining the ALL of this endorsement.

The ALL is $50,000. Restoration of Limits under How Much We Pay For Loss Or Claim does not apply.

ENDORSEMENT No. PM11 (Ed. 2)

Increased Deductible For Loss or Damage Caused by Tenants

This endorsement changes your policy. Please read it carefully.

It is understood and agreed that if a loss occurs due to an insured peril which is caused by a deliberate act, or is a result of the abuse of the property by a present or past tenant of the property, then that loss is considered to be a "Tenant Caused Loss."

We will only be liable for that portion of a Tenant Caused Loss that exceeds $2,500.00, up to the limits of the policy as stated on the policy declarations page. However, if a policy deductible of $5,000.00 is stated on the policy declarations page, then we will only be liable for that portion of a Tenant Caused Loss that exceeds $5,000.00, up to the limits of the policy as stated on the policy declarations page.

This endorsement does not extend or expand the perils insured under this policy.

All other terms and conditions of the policy remain unchanged.

ENDORSEMENT No. PM12 (Ed. 1)

Windstorm or Hail Deductible

The Windstorm or Hail Deductible is 2% of the Coverage A limit, unless a higher percentage has otherwise been noted on the policy declarations page and a credit has been applied to the premium.

The following is added to the deductible provisions of this policy:

Windstorm or Hail Deductible – We pay only that part of the loss caused directly or indirectly by windstorm or hail which is more than the deductible amount shown in this endorsement, or on the policy declarations page if greater than 2% of the Coverage A limit. The deductible amount is the percent shown in this endorsement, or on the policy declarations page if greater than 2% of the Coverage A limit, of the limit that applies to Coverage A.

The deductible applies per occurrence, and separately at each covered location. Only one deductible applies at each location.

The deductible applies regardless of other causes or events that contribute to or aggravate the loss, whether such causes or events occur before, at the same time as, or after the loss caused by windstorm or hail.

All other terms, conditions and exclusions of this policy remain unchanged.

2. Personal Liability

Protection against legal liability arising in connection with personal, non-business activities both on and off insured premises. Coverage is extended to the named insured, relatives of the named insured who reside in the named insured's home, and injuries caused by pets (e.g., a dog bite).

Forms of Protection Against Loss

Your customers own property and engage in activities that expose them to loss. Some occurrences causing loss happen on a regular basis, some happen infrequently, some are possible but have not happened yet, some could not happen. By analyzing and identifying the frequency and severity of such risks, the customers' exposure to loss can be reduced or covered.

Insurance is not the only form of protection. In prevention, property or procedures are modified to eliminate any possibility of loss. Giving up skydiving eliminates your liability of falling on someone, not to mention the consequences that fall would have on your own health.

In reduction, measures are taken to minimize the extent of loss, even if the possibility of loss cannot be entirely eliminated. A smoke alarm may not stop a fire in your home and snow tires may not stop your car from skidding, but both reduce the seriousness of accidents that might occur. The insurance company sometimes sends pamphlets and brochures to its customers to advise them on reducing loss.

In retention, the customer decides to retain those risks that are relatively inexpensive. When deciding not to carry collision coverage on an older car, the customer is retaining risk. Any losses resulting from damage to the car will come out of the customer's pocket. The customer might retain only part of that risk by carrying collision coverage but with a deductible.

Some exposures cannot be eliminated or retained, and the risk must be transferred to an insurer. Without insurance few families could afford the property or liability risks of owning a car, a home, a boat, or any other valuable personal property. In some cases the customer does not have a choice. Auto registration is not permitted without insurance, and banks require insurance on automobiles and homes that they finance.

Insurance solutions should only be suggested when there is a clear understanding of the customer's situation. Obviously the final decision about what insurance to purchase rests with the customer. But in many cases that customer is looking to you for advice. That is what an analysis of the customer's risks provides—a sound basis for recommending a program of insurance.

Certain risks must be protected against because the loss would cause severe suffering. These risks call for essential coverages. Auto coverages required by law and mortgage coverage are in this category. Some risks may result in considerable loss which might jeopardize the financial condition of the customer. These call for desirable coverages. Other risks may have only a remote chance of occurring or may cause only a financial inconvenience. These risks call for optional coverages — insurance that would be nice to have but only if the customer's budget permits.

Insurance packages today have been designed to meet the varied needs of most individuals. In many cases your customer's needs for essential, desirable, and optional coverages are available in those packaged policies which can then be customized through the use of deductibles and endorsements. Analyzing the needs of the customer and selecting the appropriate coverages and loss control measures is the first step to providing value-added service for your customers.

What Does Insurance Protect Against?

We said that insurance offers protection against the risk of financial loss. In this section we will look at the causes of such loss and the kinds of loss that can result. We will also define some frequently used insurance terms.

There are three major kinds of financial loss:

1. Property loss
2. Loss of health and earning capacity
3. Liability loss

Let's look at each a little more closely.

Property losses can involve tangible property, which includes real property and physical property, and intangible property. Real property is land and buildings, while physical property includes possessions and items found inside those buildings. Tangible property is easy to identify; these are assets that clearly exist and have value for the owner. Intangible property includes such things as copyrights, patents, or the right to use something—things that cannot be touched or seen but that still have a definite value for the owner.

Consider the following accident to see the kinds of property loss that can result:

A house that is owned by Mrs. Jones and rented to the Smith family burns to the ground. Most of the furniture is owned by Mrs. Jones, while the rest of the items in the home belong to the Smiths. All are destroyed in the fire.

In this accident, Mrs. Jones has experienced a loss to her real property—the house itself. She has also suffered a loss to her physical property—the furniture burned in the fire. The Smiths too suffered a loss to their physical property—their personal possessions—and a loss to their intangible property—the right to occupy the space they rented in the home. And the property loss goes beyond this. Mrs. Jones will lose future income—her revenues will stop because the Smiths will no longer pay rent and her expenses will increase if she decides to rebuild the house.

A direct loss results when the property comes into direct contact with the cause of the loss. An indirect loss results as a consequence of the direct loss. In the above example, the direct loss is the loss of the home, the physical property, and the right to occupy the rental space, all of which resulted directly from the fire. The indirect loss is the loss of net income that Mrs. Jones will experience as a consequence of the fire.

What then are property losses? As you can see, the answer is not as simple and straightforward as you would expect. Property losses include the obvious loss to the property itself, but also the loss of future income resulting from the loss of that property. That loss of income may result from decreased revenues or from increased expenses to repair or replace the damaged property.

Loss of health and earning capacity is the second kind of financial loss. Disability, unemployment, retirement, and death all have the potential of eliminating sources of income and draining a family's bank account. There are many forms of protection against the loss of health or earning capacity, including life and health insurance, unemployment and disability compensation, financial services (such as individual retirement accounts), and specific coverages in personal lines products.

The third category is liability loss. Such a loss results when the individual is found legally liable for the consequences of acts or omissions resulting in damages or losses to other parties. Financial losses that result can include legal fees, court costs, fines, the amount of judgments awarded by the court, the costs of out-of-court settlements, and the long-term effect that a lawsuit might have on the person's reputation and earning capacity. Negligence is the most common reason for a liability lawsuit where the defendant is charged with failing to exercise proper care in protecting others.

Property Loss

- ◆ Loss of property itself
- ◆ Loss of income from property

Loss of Health or Earning Capacity

- a. Disability
- b. Unemployment
- c. Retirement
- d. Death

Liability Loss

- ◆ If legally liable for the consequences of certain acts or omissions

The chart above summarizes the kinds of financial loss that insurance protects against. Your goal in developing a sound insurance program for your customers is to provide protection in each of these areas. As we examine various personal lines products, you will see how coverages have been included to cover potential losses in each of these areas.

Personal Liability Coverages

Where property coverage protects the insured's home and property, liability coverage provides protection when other persons claim the insured damaged their property or caused them bodily injury. The amount the insurance company will pay depends on the amount of coverage your customer selects. This amount is again shown under the Limit of Liability column on the declaration page.

Personal liability coverage applies when the insured is obligated by law to assume responsibility for an action that caused property damage or bodily injury to another party. Liability coverage does not cover damage to the insured's own property—only that of visitors, neighbors, or others in some way affected by the actions of the insured. Two examples will help illustrate personal liability coverage:

This coverage applies for the well-known confrontation between the family dog and the mail carrier. The claim will be paid if the dog bite occurs on the insured property or if the actual biting occurs after a chase down the street.

The insured is burning leaves on his property when a gust of wind sends the fire out of control. His fence and the neighbor's tool shed are damaged in the fire. In this accident only the neighbor's shed is covered by the Personal Liability coverage. The fence will be covered by the Other Structures coverage of his policy under Property Coverages.

Medical payments to others coverage pays for medical expenses of people other than the insured, when those expenses are due to an accident caused in some way by the insured. This coverage provides a way of maintaining neighborly relations without having to prove who is legally responsible for the accident. Medical payments coverage applies to accidents happening on the insured location or off that location if the accident is caused by the insured family and even the pet.

A neighbor's child breaks her arm when she falls from a sliding board in the insured's backyard. The medical expenses resulting from that accident will be covered, regardless of who was to blame for the accident

The insured's liability coverage is thus automatically extended to many locations beyond the insured premises.

As was true with property coverages, there are certain additional payments in the liability section of the homeowner's policy. These payments are made over and above the limits shown on the declaration page.

- ♦ To pay for minor damage to the property of others without regard for legal liability For example, this provides payment for accidentally throwing an object through the neighbor's window.
- ♦ To defend a claim or lawsuit against the insured but only as long as the limit of liability has not been used up in paying settlements or judgments.
- ♦ To pay premiums on appeal bonds when a judgment has gone against the insured and the judgment is appealed. Also to pay premiums on attachment bonds which guarantees payment of the original judgment if the home or property is sold.
- ♦ To reimburse the insured for wages or salary lost when attending hearings or trials at the insurer's request.
- ♦ To reimburse the insured for providing first-aid expenses at the scene of the accident.

Damages include prejudgment interest awarded against the insured on that part of the judgment we pay. We provide a defense at our expense by counsel of our choice, even if the suit is groundless, false or fraudulent. We may investigate and settle any claim or suit that we decide is appropriate. Our duty to settle or defend ends when the amount we pay for damages resulting from the occurrence equals our limit of liability.

CONDITIONS

1. Limit of Liability.
 - a. Coverage L – Personal Liability
 - (1) Our total liability under Coverage L for all damages resulting from any one occurrence will not be more than the limit of liability of Coverage L as shown in the Declarations. This limit is the same regardless of the number of insureds, claims made or persons injured.
 - (2) Our obligation under Coverage L to pay damages applies only to the amount of damages in excess of any deductible amount stated in the Declarations. The deductible amount applies to all damages because of:

- (a) bodily injury;
 - (b) personal injury;
 - (c) property damage; or
 - (d) any combination of bodily injury, personal injury, or property damage as the result of any one occurrence, regardless of the number of persons or organizations who sustain damages because of that occurrence.
- The terms of this insurance, including those with respect to:
- (a) our right and duty to defend any suits seeking those damages; and
 - (b) your Duties After Loss apply irrespective of the application of the deductible amount. We may pay any part or all of the deductible amount to effect settlement of any claim or suit and, upon notification of the action taken, you shall promptly reimburse us for such part of the deductible amount as has been paid by us.
- (3) All bodily injury or property damage resulting from any one accident or from continuous or repeated exposure to substantially the same general harmful conditions shall be considered to be the result of one occurrence. All personal injury resulting from any one offense or series of related offenses shall be considered to be the result of one occurrence.
- b. Our total liability under Coverage M for all medical expense payable for bodily injury to one person as the result of one accident will not be more than the limit of liability for Coverage M as shown in the declarations.
2. Severability of Insurance. This insurance applies separately to each insured. This condition will not increase our limit of liability for any one occurrence.
3. Duties After Loss. In case of an accident or occurrence, the insured will perform the following duties that apply. You will help us by seeing that these duties are performed:
 - a. give written notice to us or our agent as soon as is practical, which sets forth:
 - (1) the identity of the policy and insured;
 - (2) reasonably available information on the time, place and circumstances of the accident or occurrence; and
 - (3) names and addresses of any claimants and witnesses.
 - b. promptly forward to us every notice, demand, summons or other process relating to the accident or occurrence.
 - c. at our request, help us:
 - (1) to make settlement;
 - (2) to enforce any right of contribution or indemnity against any person or organization who may be liable to any insured;

(3) with the conduct of suits and attend hearings and trials:

- (4) to secure and give evidence and obtain the attendance of witnesses;
- d. under the coverage – Damage to Property of Others – submit to us within 60 days after the loss, a sworn statement of loss and show the damaged property. If in the insured's control, the insured will not, except at the insured's own cost, voluntarily make payment, assume obligation or incur expense other than for first aid to others at the time of the bodily injury;
4. Duties of an Injured Person – Coverage M – Medical Payments to Others. The injured person or someone acting for the injured person will:
 - a. give us written proof of claim, under oath if required, as soon as is practical;
 - b. authorize us to obtain copies of medical reports and records.

The injured person will submit to physical examination by a doctor of our choice when and as often as we reasonably require.
5. Payment of Claim – Coverage M – Medical Payments to Others. Payment under this coverage is not an admission of liability by any insured or us Suit Against us. No action can be brought against us unless there has been compliance with the policy provisions. No one will have any right to join us as a party to any action against any insured. Also, no action with respect to Coverage L can be brought against us until the obligation of any insured has been determined by final judgment or agreement signed by us.
7. Bankruptcy of any insured. Bankruptcy or insolvency of any insured or insured's estate will not relieve us of our obligations under this policy.
8. Other Insurance – Coverage L – Personal Liability. This insurance is excess over other valid and collectible insurance except insurance written specifically to cover as excess over the limits of liability that apply in this policy.
9. Policy Period. This policy applies only to:

 - b. property damage which occurs during the policy period; or
 - c. offenses described in the definition of personal injury which are committed during the policy period.

11. Assignment. If an assignment is sought, any insured must sign and deliver all related papers and cooperate with us. Subrogation does not apply to Medical Payments to Others or Damage to Property of Others.

assignee. In the event of your death during the period of insurance, this policy shall continue in force for the benefit of your legal representative for sixty (60) days from noon on the date of such death, but in no event shall the period of this policy be extended.

12. Cancellation.
 - a. You may cancel this policy by mailing to us written notice stating when thereafter the cancellation shall be effective.
 - b. We may cancel this policy by mailing you at the address shown in this policy written notice stating when, not less than 30 days thereafter, such cancellation shall become effective.

The mailing of notice aforesaid shall be sufficient proof of notice. The effective date and hour stated in the notice shall be the end of the policy period. Delivery of such written notice either by you or by us shall be the equivalent of mailing.

If you cancel, earned premium shall be computed in accordance with the customary short rate table and procedure. If we cancel, earned premium shall be calculated pro rata. Premium adjustment may be made either at the time cancellation is afforded or as soon as practicable after cancellation becomes effective, but payment or tender of unearned premium is not a condition of cancellation.

13. Changes. This policy contains all the agreements between you and us regarding the insurance afforded. This policy's terms can be amended or waived only by endorsement issued by us and made a part of this policy.
14. Representations. By acceptance of this policy, you agree that the statements in the Declarations are your agreements and representations, that this policy is issued in reliance upon the truth of such representations, and that this policy contains all agreements existing between us and you relating to this insurance.

Our President and Secretary have signed this policy as witness to its provisions, but this policy shall not be valid unless also signed by a duly authorized representative of us.

This endorsement changes the policy. Please read it carefully.

Exclusions.

Exclusion a. is replaced with the following:
 a. To bodily injury, personal injury, or property damage which is a foreseeable result of an intentional or criminal act of any insured or which in fact intended by any insured. However, this exclusion does not apply to "bodily injury" or "property damage" that arises out of the use of reasonable force to protect people or property.

Exclusion j. is replaced with the following:
 j. To bodily injury or personal injury arising out of the use, sale, manufacture, delivery, transfer or possession by any person of a Controlled Substance(s) as defined by the Federal Food and Drug Law at 21 U.S.C.A. Sections 811 and 812. Controlled Substances include but are not limited to cocaine, LSD, marijuana and all narcotic drugs. However, this exclusion does not apply to the legitimate use of prescription drugs by a person following the orders of a licensed physician. In addition, this exclusion does not apply if an insured did not have knowledge of the involvement of the Controlled Substance.

Exclusion l. is replaced with the following:
 l. To bodily injury or property damage or expense arising out of the existence or control of the hazardous properties of lead, irrespective of the form or source of such lead. This exclusion applies, but is not limited to the following:

- (1) To liability assumed under any contract or agreement;
- (2) To any obligation to pay or indemnify any person, organization, or governmental agency for any portion of the injury, damage, or expense; and
- (3) To any supervision, instructions, recommendations, requests, warranties or representations (express or implied), warnings, or advice given or which should have been given regarding the existence or control of the lead.

When used in this exclusion:

- (1) "Control" includes, but is not limited to, testing, monitoring, abatement, clean up, removal, containment, treatment or disposal.
- (2) "Expense" includes any expense, fine, penalty, or assessment.
- (3) "Form" means anything containing lead, including, but not limited to air, water, earth, dust, paint, plumbing solder, and pipes and fixtures.

However, this exclusion does not apply to owner-occupied dwellings.

Exclusion m. is replaced with the following:

- To bodily injury or property damage or expense arising out of:
- (1) Inhaling, ingesting, or prolonged physical exposure to asbestos, or goods or products containing asbestos; or
 - (2) The use of asbestos in construction or manufacturing any goods, products or structure; or
 - (3) The removal of asbestos from any goods, products, or structure; or
 - (4) The manufacture, transportation, storage, or disposal of asbestos or goods or products containing asbestos.

When used in this exclusion, expense includes any expense, fine, penalty or assessment. However, this exclusion does not apply to owner-occupied dwellings.

It is hereby agreed that Exclusion p. is deleted.

All other terms and conditions of this policy remain unchanged.

Endorsement No. LM3 (Ed. 1)
Home Day Care Business Exclusion

This endorsement changes the policy. Please read it carefully.

If an insured regularly provides home day care services to a person or persons other than the insureds and receives monetary or other compensation for such services, that enterprise is a business. Mutual exchange of home day care services, however, is not considered compensation. The rendering of home day care services by an insured to a relative of an insured is not considered a business. Therefore, with respect to a home day care enterprise, which is considered to be a "business", this policy does not provide coverage because a business of an insured is excluded under Exclusion 1.b. (1).

This endorsement does not constitute a reduction of coverage.

Endorsement No. LM4 (Ed. 1)
Personal Injury Exclusion

This endorsement changes the policy. Please read it carefully.

It is agreed that Coverage L does not apply to personal injury, as defined in your policy. In your policy, Coverage L is Personal Liability.

All other terms and conditions of this policy remain unchanged.

Endorsement No. LM11 (Ed. 1)

In your policy, Coverage L is Personal Liability and Coverage M is Medical Payments to Others. "Subsidence" is defined as any earth movement, including but not limited to earth sinking, earth rising, or earth shifting.

All other terms and conditions of this policy remain unchanged.

3. Homeowner's (HO Forms)

Policy Choices - read your policy very carefully

While each insurance company prepares its own contracts, most sell policies that are similar. The form number on a typical policy usually includes one of these labels:

HO-2 & HO-4 The Broad Form

These policies list EVERY covered peril. The policy will not pay for any peril not listed!

HO-3 The Special Form

The HO-3 is the most common homeowner's policy today. Instead of listing the perils it does cover, the HO-3 policy lists the perils it does not cover. The policy will pay when the building damage is caused by any peril (subject to limitations in the policy) that is not on the list of exclusions. The HO-3 coverage for contents (personal property rather than the structure) is identical to the HO-2.

HO-4 Tenant (or "renters insurance") The Broad Form

The HO-4 policy insures the contents of your rented home but not the building itself. It lists every covered peril.

HO-5 Comprehensive Form

HO-6 Condominium

The HO-6 policy insures your condo contents and only the portion of the building you own (such as the interior walls) independent of other owners.

Know what part of the building your insurance covers and compare it to the parts covered by the condo association - make sure the gaps are filled.

Typical exclusions for the HO-2, -3, -4, -5 and -6 forms

Typical exclusions include earthquake, flood, water damage (sewer backup or a basement leak), power failure off your premises, poor home maintenance, war collapse, nuclear hazard, intentional acts of an insured, laws and ordinance enforcement (such as building codes). Be sure to review your policy's exclusions and limitations so that you know what is not covered. You can usually purchase additional coverage for most items that are excluded under the policy.

HO-8 Market Value

The HO-8 policy insures the structure based on its "market value." If your house burns down, the policy will pay no more than it would have sold for on the day before the fire.

If however, the policy period is extended for an additional period of less than twelve months, this additional period will be considered part of the preceding period for the purpose of determining the APL of this endorsement.

Any per occurrence limit shown on the declarations for Coverage M does not apply with respect to this endorsement. Payment under Coverage M will not be deemed an admission of liability under Coverage L.

- a. Occurrences.
- b. Insureds.
- c. Claims made or suits brought.
- d. Persons injured.
- e. Assessments made.

However, this ALL does not apply to coverage provided under Claims and Defense Cost under the Incidental Liability Coverages.

If however, the policy period is extended for an additional period of less than twelve months, this additional period will be considered part of the preceding period for the purpose of determining the APL of this endorsement.

Subject to the ALL of this endorsement, the amount shown on the declarations per person for Coverage M is the most we pay for all medical expenses payable for bodily injury to one person as the result of one occurrence covered under this endorsement.

Any per occurrence limit shown on the declarations for Coverage M does not apply with respect to this endorsement. Payment under Coverage M will not be deemed as an admission of liability under Coverage L.

Our total limit of liability in any one policy year will not exceed the ALL of this endorsement, regardless of the number of:

- Occurrences.
- Insureds.
- Claims made or suits brought.
- Persons injured.
- Assessments made.

However, this ALL does not apply to coverage provided under Claims and Defense Cost under the Incidental Liability Coverages.

How Homeowners Insurance Works

While rebuilding New Orleans and the Gulf Coast after the horrible devastation of hurricanes Katrina and Rita has relied in part on numerous volunteers, aid agencies and donations from the public, insurance agencies have also played an important role. The numbers involved in this disaster, the worst natural disaster the insurance industry has ever dealt with, are astounding: 1.7 million insurance claims were filed for $40.6 billion in damages. Approximately 682,000 insured vehicles were damaged or destroyed. Despite the terrible destruction and the long rebuilding process ahead, insurance companies have largely succeeded in their job. Reports indicate that only 2 percent of claims remain in some form of dispute. Though many people found themselves the victims of a poor FEMA response or lacked adequate insurance coverage, millions of others have been able to return to their lives because of the safety net provided by homeowners insurance.

Of course, homeowners insurance isn't just for victims of major disasters. From water damage to vandalism to someone accidentally injuring himself at your home, homeowners insurance has many applications. In this article, you'll find out why you need homeowners insurance, how it works and how to save money on the best policy for you.

Why Buy Homeowners Insurance?

Given all of the expenses that come with owning a home, it's reasonable to wonder if homeowners insurance is just another seemingly useless expense. The answer is no, it's not useless -- in fact, homeowners insurance is essential. Not only will a good policy save you money in the event that something happens to your home or belongings, an insurance company can also help you with other matters, like making your home more resistant to natural disasters. And though having homeowners insurance isn't required by law, most mortgage lenders require you to have homeowners insurance in order to borrow money from them. If you live in a condominium or co-op, you may also be required by your tenants' association to have homeowners insurance.

Even if you have a relatively new, well maintained house, homeowners insurance can help you in situations that may not be preventable. Say, for example, that you are having a dinner party at your house. A group of guests is gathered on the back patio, and one of the guests trips on a loose tile and breaks his ankle. You, as the homeowner, are potentially liable for the guest's injury. The right homeowners insurance policy should protect you against legal action and pay for the injured man's medical bills.

Now that you know why you need it, let's take a look at what it is you're buying.

What is Homeowners Insurance?

Different policies exist for renters, owners of mobile homes, people seeking bare bones coverage and those living in homes that are very old, but most homeowners will purchase what is called an HO-3 policy. This insurance policy covers your home and its contents against damage and theft, as well as you, the owner, against personal liability if someone is injured while on your property. This coverage also includes damage caused by pets and most major disasters, though floods and earthquakes require separate policies. Homeowners insurance does not cover problems that result from poor maintenance or general wear and tear. A basic homeowners insurance policy should also cover other structures on your property and should provide for living expenses in case you are not able to live at home after a fire or other insured disaster. The amount of coverage provided for each of these items varies depending on the insurer and the type of policy.

One of the first things you need to know about your policy is the liability limit. The liability limit determines how much coverage you have should something happen to your home. These limits usually start at $100,000, but policies can be purchased with much higher limits. Most experts recommend that you have at least $300,000 to $500,000 of coverage, depending on the value of your home.

When someone talks about the amount of coverage they have, or their liability limit, they are probably referring to the coverage for their home -- that is, for the amount of money it would cost to rebuild their home given the price of materials and labor in the area. This amount is not the same as the purchase price of your home, which accounts for factors like the value of the land. A quick estimate of your rebuilding cost can be done by multiplying your home's total square footage by the building cost per square foot.

While your liability limit is a reflection of the amount of coverage for your actual home, other structures on your property, such as a garage, are usually covered for 10 percent of that amount. Coverage for personal belongings usually falls somewhere between 50 percent and 70 percent of the amount of coverage on the structure of the home. And, as mentioned earlier, in case you have to live somewhere else because of damage to your home, most plans cover costs of living away from home -- hotel, restaurants/food, etc. -- up to 20 percent of your home's liability limit. Other policies may provide unlimited coverage for living expenses but only for a limited period of time.

Another option you'll probably be asked to consider is replacement cost versus actual cash value. Here's where you'll really want to consider the contents of your home. Let's say, while you're not a complete luddite, by comparison to most current homeowners, the amount of electronic gadgets in your home is pretty small. You have a television that's almost as old as you are and you wouldn't miss it if it were gone. You also have an inexpensive stereo and the computer you use is an old loaner laptop from work. So which option is right for you? Going with actual cash value would mean that if these items were damaged, you'd get an amount of money equivalent to the current value of those items (accounting for depreciation). The laptop is covered through work; you won't need to replace that. And since you don't really care about the television, you could simply take the money you get and just get a new, cheap stereo. Meanwhile, your neighbor has everything a home theater should have - a plasma TV, a surround sound speaker system, DVD player, etc. in both her living room and the family room. With that kind of equipment, she'd definitely want to consider replacement cost coverage, which pays for a new version of the item that was lost or damaged - there's no accounting for depreciation. Obviously, in the case of electronics, which can depreciate in value rapidly over time, a replacement cost policy can be a big advantage. However, this isn't the only scenario that calls for this option.

Let's go back to your household contents. There are other types of items to consider when making this decision. For example, what about the collection of signed prints you have? And there's also the stamp collection and those original, signed Pearl S. Buck manuscripts. Original pieces of artwork or other costly collectibles can be just as, if not more, valuable than today's pricey electronics. Replacement cost coverage is usually 10 percent more expensive than actual cash value coverage, but under the right circumstances, it's definitely worth the extra coverage.

Is my Policy Special?

Some homeowners may require a higher liability limit than what comes standard with their policy. Getting a higher limit can sometimes be as simple as paying a higher premium. However, in certain cases a special type of policy might be necessary. For example, an umbrella or excess liability policy is a separate policy that pays money to the policyholder after the liability limit on your regular homeowners insurance has been reached. Some umbrella policies defend against things like invasion of privacy, slander and libel. Generally, you have to have $300,000 in regular coverage before you can get an umbrella policy, and the more coverage you have in your regular policy, the cheaper your umbrella policy will be. An umbrella policy of $1 million in extra liability protection can cost $200 to $350 a year.

Other special policies include a special personal property floater/endorsement. This type of policy allows you to insure valuable items individually or together, has no deductible and charges a premium based on what the item is, its worth and where you live. An appraisal or a recent receipt determines the value of the item in question.

Remember that most standard policies do not cover earthquakes or floods. If live in an area prone to these disasters, you'll definitely want to consider special insurance policies that cover earthquakes and/or floods. Many policies do cover other natural disasters such as tornadoes and hurricanes, but it's always best to check with your carrier and, if your area experiences these disasters, consider getting a special policy.

As we have previously discussed, a home is the biggest single investment most of us ever make. Possible loss of that investment requires each homeowner to make an intelligent decision about insurance. In making that decision the homeowner depends on you to help determine risks and to select proper coverages.

The homeowner faces many possible causes of financial loss. Damage to the property to the house itself to the personal property inside, or injury or damage to other people or property are all exposures that can be covered by some form of insurance. Packaged homeowners policies allow the homeowner to cover both property and liability risks in a single policy.

The homeowner's policy is a contract between the insured and the insurance company. It lists the coverages, limits, and premiums selected by the insured, describes what those coverages protect against, and explains through conditions and exclusions when there is coverage and when there is not. There are many options which enable you to customize the policy to the specific needs of your customers.

In this section you will review the different coverages available in the homeowner's policies

You will see some examples that illustrate the insurance terms and concepts presented.

You will see some common sense rules for getting customers and keeping them.

Finally, there will be special emphasis on the customer service skills presented in the video — communicating with the customer via the telephone and the mail.

Property Coverages in the Homeowners Policy

Most of today's homeowner insurance policies combine several coverages into one package. Some coverages are basic and always included in the policy others are optional and allow the insured to select additional protection for additional premiums. All of the coverages selected, with their limits and premiums, are shown on the declaration page.

Property coverage protects the dwelling, other structures on the property, and personal property. The homeowners policy also provides compensation for additional expenses after a loss. Additional payments may also be made for certain stated expenses or losses. Claim payments will not exceed the specified limit of liability for each coverage. Let's take a brief look at each individual property coverage.

Dwelling coverage covers the dwelling, structures attached to that dwelling (such as a garage, carport, or breezeway), and fixtures permanently attached to the house (such as a furnace, wood burning stove, plumbing fixtures, built-in air conditioning system, and certain kitchen appliances). As you can see in the example above, the premium for dwelling coverage includes the premiums for most of the other coverages. That premium will depend upon many factors, including the replacement value of the house, its construction, the deductibles selected, and location.

Coverage for Other Structures covers those buildings and structures that are on the insured premises but completely separated from the house or connected only with a fence or utility line. Such structures as in-ground swimming pools, fences, detached garages, tool sheds, and gazebos are included here. Structures used on a regular basis for business purposes are not covered by homeowner's policies. A builder who stores lumber and tools in a barn behind his home should cover that barn on a commercial policy.

Personal property coverage insures personal property that the insured owns or uses anywhere in the world. Property that is borrowed and damaged by the insured is also covered. Most insurance companies automatically insure furniture and personal possessions at a limit equal to 50% of the amount for which the dwelling is insured, but this amount can be increased for an additional premium.

Personal property coverage is subject to certain exclusions that restrict the limits on certain kinds of property. There are several popular options that increase protection on items not normally covered or covered only up to certain limits. Again, such optional coverages are available for additional premiums.

Personal property replacement coverage extends protection to include the actual cost to repair or replace damaged property. Generally depreciation is taken into account when determining a claim payment. With this option in the policy there is no deduction for depreciation.

Extended theft coverage insures items or property left in unattended motor vehicles or trailers.

Jewelry and fur coverage increases the limit of liability for the loss of jewelry watches, furs, precious and semiprecious stones.

Silverware coverage similarly increases the limits for the loss of silverware, silver-plated ware, gold ware, gold-plated ware, and pewter ware.

There are other options that can further customize the basic homeowner's policy to protect the personal property your customer owns or uses.

Additional expenses coverage is intended to help compensate the insured for additional living expenses after a loss. This does not cover all living expenses — only those in excess of the ones the insured normally pays.

Suppose a family is forced to live in a motel and eat in restaurants for two weeks after their home is damaged in a fire. Their normal living expenses for that period would be $500, but they spend $1200. Additional expenses coverage would reimburse them for the extra $700 expense because of the damage to their home.

Again, the purpose of this coverage is to return insureds to the financial condition they enjoyed before the loss.

Additional payments are also made for specified expenses or property losses the insured incurs. They provide reimbursement for such things as debris removal, removing property from endangered premises, fire department service charges, and glass breakage. Notice that such payments help to limit damage and the need for insurance company to pay higher claim payments.

Just going with the usual homeowner's package may neglect important coverage that your customers need. If a family's silverware worth $3500 is stolen, they will be in for a rude awakening if they have only the standard $1000 coverage. By taking the time to thoroughly determine what property must be protected, you can avoid these unpleasant surprises.

Settlement of Property Losses

The replacement cost is the actual cost of repairing or replacing the home at today's prices. For adequate protection, the amount of dwelling coverage should be based on that replacement cost. It is up to you to keep an eye on your customer's policy — especially when appreciation and improvements constantly push the replacement cost upward. You can obtain a reasonably good estimate of the replacement cost by using construction data from reputable appraisal companies.

Most insurance companies recommend full replacement coverage. This means insuring the dwelling for 100% of its replacement cost and updating that coverage as the replacement cost rises. The insurer will then pay whatever it costs to replace the damaged property or return it to its pre-loss condition—even if that cost exceeds the limit of liability

Suppose our homeowner has kept up with the growing replacement cost of the home and has now upgraded the dwelling coverage from $120,000 to $180,000. The damage will cover any damage to the home in full—even if the house is destroyed and costs more than $180,000 to rebuild.

Your customer may be tempted to save money by underinsuring or buying only the minimum coverage that is required. You can provide value-added service by keeping the homeowner aware of rising replacement costs. When it is time to decide on the amount of property insurance to carry on the home, you should encourage the customer to honestly answer one question — Can I afford to replace my home and possessions at today's prices?

Liability Coverages in the Homeowner's Policy

Where property coverage protects the insured's home and property, liability coverage provides protection when other persons claim the insured damaged their property or caused them bodily injury. The amount the insurance company will pay depends on the amount of coverage your customer selects. This amount is again shown under the Limit of Liability column on the declaration page.

Personal liability coverage applies when the insured is obligated by law to assume responsibility for an action that caused property damage or bodily injury to another party. Liability coverage does not cover damage to the insured's own property—only that of visitors, neighbors, or others in some way affected by the actions of the insured. Two examples will help illustrate personal liability coverage:

This coverage applies for the well-known confrontation between the family dog and the mail carrier. The claim will be paid if the dog bite occurs on the insured property or if the actual biting occurs after a chase down the street.

The insured is burning leaves on his property when a gust of wind sends the fire out of control. His fence and the neighbor's tool shed are damaged in the fire. In this accident only the neighbor's shed is covered by the Personal Liability coverage. The fence will be covered by the Other Structures coverage of his policy under Property Coverages.

Medical payments to others coverage pays for medical expenses of people other than the insured, when those expenses are due to an accident caused in some way by the insured. This coverage provides a way of maintaining neighborly relations without having to prove who is legally responsible for the accident. Medical payments coverage applies to accidents happening on the insured location or off that location if the accident is caused by the insured family and even the pet.

A neighbor's child breaks her arm when she falls from a sliding board in the insured's backyard. The medical expenses resulting from that accident will be covered, regardless of who was to blame for the accident

The insured's liability coverage is thus automatically extended to many locations beyond the insured premises.

As was true with property coverages, there are certain additional payments in the liability section of the homeowner's policy. These payments are made over and above the limits shown on the declaration page.

- ◆ To pay for minor damage to the property of others without regard for legal liability For example, this provides payment for accidentally throwing an object through the neighbor's window.
- ◆ To defend a claim or lawsuit against the insured but only as long as the limit of liability has not been used up in paying settlements or judgments.
- ◆ To pay premiums on appeal bonds when a judgment has gone against the insured and the judgment is appealed. Also to pay premiums on attachment bonds which guarantees payment of the original judgment if the home or property is sold.
- ◆ To reimburse the insured for wages or salary lost when attending hearings or trials at the insurer's request.
- ◆ To reimburse the insured for providing first-aid expenses at the scene of the accident.

Customizing the Homeowner's Policy

Determining your customers' insurance needs and "building" the proper homeowner's policy is much like ordering from a menu. In a good restaurant the menu offers a range of courses—something for every taste. In the same way you can offer your customers a range of coverages — protection that meets their needs and circumstances.

Basic policies provide the specified perils coverage we discussed in Lesson 1. The house and possessions are covered for losses caused by those perils specifically listed in the policy. Perils not listed are not covered. Usually basic policies cover fire and lightning, windstorm and hail, explosion, riot and civil commotion, damage caused by vehicles or aircraft, smoke damage, vandalism, and theft.

Broader policies cover all losses to the house except those specifically excluded in the policy. All the perils in the basic policy are covered and others are added—rupture of steam or hot water systems, falling objects, weight of ice, snow, or sleet, electrical damage to appliances, water damage from plumbing or heating systems, collapse of buildings, and losses to property being conveyed because of collision or upset of the vehicle carrying that property. This coverage applies to the home or other buildings only. Possessions are still covered only for those perils specified in the policy.

The broadest policies cover damage to the house and possessions on an all risk basis — all perils are covered except those specifically excluded in the policy. These policies add such perils as the escape of oil from heaters or tanks, damage by certain wild animals, and the backup of water caused by the buildup of ice on roof surfaces.

Optional coverages extend protection even further. Earlier in this lesson we mentioned personal property replacement, extended theft, jewelry and fur and silverware coverage that provide extended personal property coverage. Earthquake coverage, flood coverage, and mortgage insurance (which pays the mortgage balance when the insured or spouse dies) are also examples of optional property coverages that protect the house. Optional liability coverage is available for watercraft and snowmobiles, certain business pursuits, personal injury, and the business use of the home. All of these optional coverages extend protection and are available for additional premiums.

The point is this: You have many options to choose from in developing the right homeowner's policy for your customer. The policy that is finally written is a contract between the insurance company and your customer.

It is not like a meal which can be sent back because it is under- or over-cooked. Your customers must understand what they are "ordering" when the policy is written. It's too late to customize the policy to their specific needs after a loss has occurred.

Where Do You Fit In?

We have mentioned several things you can do to protect your customers' interests and to keep them as customers. When new customers begin working with your agency, it is important to learn all you can about them. What are their insurance needs? What property do they own? What possessions might require extended protection? What risks do they face that might expose them to liability losses? You must answer all of these questions when developing a homeowner's policy for your customer.

Once the policy is written, review it carefully so the customer understands what is and isn't covered. Make sure the customer understands his or her obligations in the event of a loss:

- ◆ To notify you or the insurance company as soon as possible after a loss or an accident.
- ◆ To make reasonable and necessary repairs or remove endangered property to prevent further damage.
- ◆ To prepare a detailed inventory of damaged property and assist the insurer in investigating the claim. It is a good idea to keep a current list of personal possessions in a safe place outside the home. Prompt and accurate reporting of missing or damaged articles will speed claim settlements.

Continue to provide value-added service to your customers. Eliminate dangerous gaps in their coverage. Keep an eye on the replacement cost of the home. As inflation and home improvements push this cost up, encourage your customer to carry full replacement coverage. In the event of a total loss, homeowners insurance should provide for the rebuilding of the house exactly as it was before the loss. If the value of personal property exceeds the standard coverage, encourage your customer to purchase optional coverage to fully protect that property.

Eliminate expensive overlaps in premiums. While your customer should not eliminate essential coverages to save a few dollars, there are some safe ways to save money on premiums:

Suggest the use of deductibles. The deductible is the amount the insured agrees to pay if a loss occurs. Deductibles significantly reduce the premium but still protect against large losses.

Some insurance companies offer credits for modernizing older homes.

Encourage your customers to install burglar alarms, fire alarms, fire extinguishers, smoke detectors, and deadbolt locks. Homes with these protective devices may qualify for a premium reduction.

For customers owning more than one dwelling, encourage them to insure all with one company. This is more convenient and may save the customer money

Stress the importance of timely premium payments. State laws require insurance companies to send formal notice of their intent to cancel policies for non-payment of premiums. If the amount of the premium makes payment of a lump sum difficult, discuss various installment plans or payment options to make the premium more manageable.

After you have established a good understanding and a solid working relationship with your customer, you are more likely to rely on telephone or mail contact than face-to-face meetings. This is usually more convenient for the customer, and it allows you to complete a great amount of the detail work that is necessary in collecting premiums and renewing policies.

Telephone or letter correspondence demonstrates your product knowledge and ability to represent the agency. As in personal meetings, such correspondence still allows you to solve problems for your customers and to emphasize the benefits as well as the features of the insurance policy and it allows the customer to receive prompt, courteous, value-added service.

Certain common sense rules apply when working with your customers over the phone or through the mail. If you are not sure of something, get the answer and call the customer back. Accuracy is more important than speed. Your “telephone voice” should be friendly and positive. Timing is very important; because it indicates that you are listening and empathizing with the customer. Interrupting and trying to hurry the conversation along only shows that you don’t care about the customer’s specific needs or problems.

Most agencies have standard letters that are sent to customers. Through these letters you thank the customer for choosing your agency, explain enclosed policies, or ask for renewals. In fact letters are often required by law as written documentation of an oral request. Since customers often retain letters in their files, your written correspondence — perhaps more than your personal meetings or your phone conversations — reinforces the agency’s and your own professionalism. Each contact should be carefully documented to protect the agency, to retain all the information you learn about the customer, and to make it easier to sell the account.

The basis of your agency's business — really of any business — is getting and keeping customers. It is important to look at each customer relationship not only in terms of the initial sale but also in terms of the service and continued interest that keeps the customer satisfied. Personal meetings, telephone contact, and written correspondence all contribute to such a relationship.

Owners and Tenants: Protect yourself against liability for accidents that injure other people or damage property.

Homeowners Insurance at a Glance

Homeowners insurance may pay for repairing or rebuilding your damaged home, temporary shelter if your home is uninhabitable, damage to your home's contents and your personal belongings that are damaged or stolen. It may also cover medical expenses of injured guests, damage to someone else's property and legal fees and court judgments if you are found to be liable. But only if a covered "peril" (see glossary) caused the loss and you did not intentionally cause the loss.

Find What You Need: Insurance companies generally offer many policy choices with varying coverages and exclusions. You can add coverage with endorsements to meet your individual needs.

You could lose your insurance and be forced to shop for another policy as a result of non-payment of premiums, poor home maintenance or too many claims.

Homeowners insurance cost is affected by many factors, including

- The type of policy and amount of coverage chosen by you;
- Additional coverages selected, as well as deductible levels;
- Where you live;
- The type, age, and condition of your home; and
- Credit and claim history.

Perils & Policies

Peril is the word the insurance industry uses for any event that could damage your property.

Most policies have two sets of perils:

- (1) Covered Perils
- (2) Excluded Perils (not covered by your insurance policy)

Renter's Insurance

Why You Need Renters Insurance

What if everything you own was damaged, stolen or destroyed? Would you have the thousands of dollars to replace valuable merchandise, such as your clothes, jewelry, computer, DVD player, television, furniture, and stereo equipment?

If you live in a rented apartment, house or condominium, your landlord's insurance doesn't cover your personal property in the event that it is stolen or damaged as a result of a fire, theft or other unexpected circumstance.

If your building burns to the ground, your landlord isn't responsible for replacing the charred contents of your apartment.

Whether you rent an apartment, own a condominium or have any rental property, you need insurance to protect your belongings. While your landlord and condo association might have insurance, it only protects the building and not its contents.

US statistics show that that renters experience higher rates of property crime, theft, and burglary than people who own their home. According to Boston-based Homesite Insurance Group, renters are in danger of losing their belongings from vandalism, water damage, fire, smoke, electrical surge, ice, snow, and other perils. Despite the risks, many renters don't have renters insurance.

A consumer survey conducted for the Independent Insurance Agents & Brokers of America (IIABA) found that nearly two-thirds of those living in US rental properties are currently risking severe financial loss by going without renters insurance. A national consumer telephone survey asked 1,000 people living in rental properties whether they had renters insurance: 64.4 percent said "no" and 2.2 percent answered "don't know."

The top reason most people don't think about getting renters insurance is the mistaken notion that the landlord will be held responsible for a loss. But as Doug Culkin, executive vice president of the National Apartment Association, explains, "The landlord's insurance covers the building and the infrastructure of that building, whether it is the elevators, the air conditioning, or the structure itself." Culkin notes that coverage does not extend into the homes of the individual residents and the possessions they maintain in their units.

So if your building burns to the ground, your landlord isn't responsible for replacing the charred contents of your apartment. Likewise, if your house guest trips over your ottoman and fractures his arm, your landlord's insurance on the property won't protect you from liability.

Your landlord may be liable for injuries outside of your rental property, common areas such as the lobby or stairs. But once your guest crosses your front door, he or she is your responsibility.

Parents with college-bound children can take some comfort in knowing that students who live on campus are probably covered in terms of their belongings under the college's insurance policy. However, if your kid lives off-campus in an apartment, he or she is probably not covered. You'll want to consider buying renters insurance on his or her behalf.

What about roommates? Even if you're sharing a humble abode with someone else, each person is responsible for getting his or her own policy. You need to get joint renters insurance to protect your personal belongings, especially if your roommate moves out leaving you holding the bag. Animal lovers may want to look into renters policies that specifically protect them as far as their pets are concerned — say, should your lovable pooch happen to bite one of your houseguests.

When you look at the trade-off — paying a small premium for coverage against the cost of replacing what has taken you years to accumulate — renters insurance makes perfect sense. Here are some tips to help you with the process of selecting renters insurance:

Basic coverage

In general, there's a homeowners insurance policy HO-4 for renters and HO-6 for condo owners, which cover 17 types of perils. Renters insurance also can provide additional protection, such as living expenses assistance, personal liability and medical payments coverage. For instance, if your apartment or condominium becomes uninhabitable due to a fire, burst pipes or any other reason covered by your policy, insurers could pay for the cost of you to live elsewhere while your home is being repaired.

Another way renters insurance protects you is in the area of liability — if someone were to slip and fall on your rented property, and then sue you, renters insurance could cover some or all of your legal obligations and help pay for that person's medical bills. Say you live in a zone that is prone to earthquakes or floods, you could get additional coverage to protect against hazards not covered by basic renters policy.

Coverage amount

To determine how much you need, you first need an idea of the value of your personal possessions. The idea is to buy enough insurance to replace everything in your apartment if it's stolen, damaged or destroyed. The first step is to take inventory — it helps to take pictures or even videotape each room, closets, open drawers, and so on. Better yet, keep receipts for all major items you purchase. Granted, many insurance companies place limits on what they will pay for specific items, so you may end up paying for additional coverage to make sure those items are completely insured. For example, expensive jewelry and valuable artwork are not covered under a standard renters insurance policy; you'll probably need a rider or floater to cover luxury items.

Actual cash value vs. replacement cost

There are two types of coverage: actual cash value or replacement cost. The former is less expensive. Under this type of coverage, your belongings are valued after depreciation. In other words, the insurance company will take into consideration the age and condition of the stolen or damaged property. A replacement cost policy will pay you to replace your property with the same or similar item at the current market price.

Let's say that you bought your 25-inch television set five years ago for $400; it would be worth less in value today. However, it would cost you that much (or more) to buy a new TV. The insurance company would only pay for what the old one was worth, minus your deductible under a cash value policy. With a replacement policy, an insurer would make an advanced payment to you for the used value of the property, minus your deductible, and then reimburse you the actual price you pay when you replace the property.

Replacement cost coverage, on the other hand, will pay for what it actually costs to replace the items you lost. Usually, you'll have to pay out of your own pocket to replace your damaged items and submit the receipts to the claims adjuster for reimbursement. Even so, you'll still get a bigger chunk of change back than if you bought ACV coverage.

Make sure you also let your agent know about any particularly valuable items you have. Things like jewelry, antiques, and electronics may be covered up to a certain amount, but if you have some items that are unusually expensive, like a diamond ring, you'll probably need to purchase a separate rider. If you don't talk to your agent about an expensive item when you buy the policy, you probably won't be able to recover the loss.

Coverage cost

According to the IIABA, the average cost is about $12 a month ($240 a year) for $30,000 of property coverage or content replacement coverage and $100,000 of liability coverage. Your premium will depend on a number of factors, including where you live, your deductible, and your insurance company. The higher your deductible, the lower your premium. Some financial experts recommend getting a $1,000 deductible. If you install protective devices such as fire detectors, burglar alarms and fire extinguishers, you will be able to reduce your premium.

Convinced renters insurance ensures your peace of mind and your prosperity? The best place to start shopping around is by contacting an insurance company you already do business with, such as your auto insurance carrier.

The Basics Of Renters Insurance

You're moving into a new apartment and you have a lot to do: setting up telephone and cable service, letting people know your new address, deciding how to arrange your living room — the last thing you're thinking about is insurance.

If you live in a condominium or rent an apartment, your landlord's or condo association's insurance should cover damages to the building — meaning the structure itself. But such a policy only covers their building and not your belongings. That's why you should have renter's insurance. Regardless of whether you live in a house, condo, or apartment, replacing your stuff or defending yourself against a liability lawsuit can take a big toll on your bank account.

It's a perilous business

Basic home insurance policies generally protect you from the same disasters. Both renters and condo owner policies cover losses to your personal property from 17 types of perils:

- ◆fire or lightning
- ◆windstorm or hail
- ◆explosion
- ◆riot or civil commotion
- ◆aircraft
- ◆vehicles
- ◆smoke
- ◆vandalism or malicious mischief
- ◆theft
- ◆damage by glass or safety-glazing material that is part of a building
- ◆volcanic eruption
- ◆falling objects
- ◆weight of ice, snow, or sleet
- ◆water-related damage from home utilities
- ◆and electrical surge damage.

Sounds like quite a lot, doesn't it? You may notice, however, that floods and earthquakes aren't on the list. If you live in an area prone to those, you'll need to buy a separate policy or a rider on your renter's policy. In some coastal regions, where hurricanes can cause mass destruction, you may also need to buy a separate rider to cover you from windstorm damage.

Footing the bill when your home is unlivable

If your apartment becomes unlivable due to a fire, burst pipes sending water everywhere, or for any other reason that is covered by your policy, renters insurance will cover your "additional living expenses." Generally, that means paying for you to live somewhere else, such as another apartment that is in a similar price range as your original place.

This coverage has a limit of about 30 to 40 percent of the total value of the policy. So, if you're insured for $100,000 your "additional living expenses" limit will be $30,000 or $40,000, depending on your individual policy. Your insurance company will continue to pay while your home is being repaired or rebuilt, or until you permanently relocate. However, sometimes 12 months is the longest an insurance company will continue paying. Other times, you're limited to what the insurance company considers a "reasonable length of time."

Additional benefits

Renters insurance has additional benefits that might not immediately come to mind. For example, if you own a waterbed, a waterbed liability provision is standard in most policies, according to Mike Binns, personal lines underwriting manager for Farmers Insurance Co. If your waterbed bursts and the water ends up in the apartment below yours, renters insurance will cover the damage.

Liability protection is also standard with most renter's policies. This means that if someone in your apartment slips and falls, you're covered for any costs, up to your liability limit. And if this person should choose to sue you, you're covered for what they win in a court judgment up to your policy's limit, along with legal expenses, too, because, according to Binns, your insurance company agrees to defend you under your liability protection provision.

What's this going to cost me?

Just like any other insurance policy, your premium depends on a number of factors: where you live, your deductible, your insurance company, and if you need any additional coverage. However, if you don't need any extra coverage for expensive jewelry or computers, and you shop around, you probably will pay somewhere between $150 and $300 per year for coverage, according to Jayna Neagle, a spokesperson for the Insurance Information Institute. That will get you about $30,000 to $35,000 worth of coverage for your personal possessions and somewhere between $100,000 and $300,000 worth of liability protection.

Keeping your premium low

Renters and condo policies usually cost less than homeowner's policies. While some factors will be out of your control — where you live or what your building's made of — there are still ways to keep your premium low. Increasing your deductible (the amount you pay before your coverage kicks in) is one way to keep your costs down. However, be sure that you'll be able to afford whatever deductible you choose.

If you're thinking about getting a dog, you may want to think twice. Some insurance companies are skittish about writing policies for owners of certain ferocious breeds: Rottweilers, pit bulls, and Doberman pinschers might make getting renters insurance hard, especially if they've bitten people in the past.

Other Key Issues

- Make a comprehensive list of possessions, including purchase prices, model numbers and serial numbers. It also is a good idea to take photos or video footage of any personal possessions for documentation, making sure it is stored in a secure, off-site location.
- Estimate the value of your personal possessions. This is the amount of insurance you will need to replace the contents of your home if everything were destroyed.
- Research the possibility of purchasing a renters insurance policy together with your roommates. Some policies automatically extend coverage to any resident of a policyholder's household who fits the definition of a "domestic partner." Otherwise, consider carrying separate coverage for each of the adult tenants.
- Install, or have the landlord install, an anti-theft or safety device inside the rental property.

Do You Need Renter's Insurance?

Renter's insurance assures you that you're protected against the damage or loss of personal property when you rent an apartment or house. Your landlord may have insurance that protects the physical building in which you reside, but this insurance will not cover your personal property. In fact, it's not at all uncommon for landlords to require the purchase of renters insurance prior to renting or leasing. This is prudent for both the renter and the landlord, protecting both from the possibility of lawsuit by alleviating each other's respective liability.

In determining whether or not you need renters insurance, the questions you need to ask yourself are:

How much would it cost to replace my belongings if they were damaged or stolen? And can I afford to replace them? Depending on your answer, renters insurance may be an easy choice, providing you with the protection you need. Either way, it's reassuring to have the peace of mind that comes from being protected.

Things to consider before purchasing rental insurance:

How Much Coverage? – The amount of renters insurance you choose will have the biggest impact on price of coverage. It is important to insure against all of your property. Remember, you're not just insuring against theft. In the case of a fire, for example, you could lose everything.

Deductible – The amount of the deductible premium that you're willing to pay will have a major impact on the premium costs. The higher the deductible, the lower the cost of home renters insurance.

Actual Cash Value (ACV) – Type of coverage that will pay for what the item was actually worth at the time of loss. This basic coverage payout is determined by the cost to replace, minus depreciation.

Replacement Cost – Type of coverage that will provide for the actual replacement value of the item with no deduction for depreciation. Although replacement cost coverage comes at an additional premium, it's usually worth the relatively small increase in cost.

Here are a few ways to save on renters insurance. Many insurers will offer discounts, if you have some of the following:

- ◆ Monitored fire or burglar alarms
- ◆ Fire extinguishers
- ◆ Sprinkler systems
- ◆ Dead bolts on all exterior doors
- ◆ Auto insurance with that provider

If you own a dog, however, it may add to your premium. Due to liability issues, some insurers won't even offer insurance if certain dog breeds are owned. This discrimination is exclusive to certain larger working dog breeds. It's unfortunate because many of these breeds are good-natured and provide a great deterrent to theft. Yet, in the eye of the insurer, they're a risk. The insurance companies that do offer coverage for these breeds, will often do so at a premium.

Flood and Earthquake protection is not commonly included on rental insurance policies. If you live in an area where these natural disasters are more common, you may want to purchase an additional rider.

Liability coverage is most often a standard feature with renters insurance. This can prove invaluable in case of an accident, such as a slip or fall by a guest. It provides protection against legal claims that you may be obligated to pay, such as injury, sickness and death. It is, however, limited to the amount of liability coverage provided by your policy.

In order to avoid any disputes with your insurance company, it's recommended that you take an inventory of your personal items before purchasing rental insurance. This can be done by video taping or photographing each room of your house. It is important to keep all receipts for any major purchases, as well. The above should be kept offsite, in a fireproof safe or safety deposit box.

Fortunately, renters insurance is relatively inexpensive. If you're looking for cheap renters insurance, it is not uncommon to see policies with premiums that are less than $20 a month. And, thanks to the internet, you can get a competitive online renters insurance quote with relative ease. Always make sure to go with a reputable renters insurance company when choosing a policy. This eliminates any surprises should the unfortunate need arise.

Q. I am a renter, not a homeowner. Do I still need insurance?

A. Yes. The same rule of thumb that applies to homeowners applies to renters. If a catastrophe struck tomorrow, could you afford to replace everything you own? Or if you were sued, would you have enough money to pay legal fees and possibly settle the suit? If not, chances are you would benefit from the protection that renters insurance brings.

Renters insurance offers the same general personal property coverage and liability protection as a homeowners policy. So, your camera would be insured while you are on vacation, and you would be covered if your sofa were to crash through the wall of your apartment lobby leaving a gaping hole. In fact, most policies are surprisingly extensive and may include additional living expenses (also called loss-of-use coverage), if you are forced by fire or other damage to live elsewhere. Flood coverage is also available to renters as a separate policy.

Q. Isn't my apartment covered by my landlord's insurance policy?

A. No, the landlord's insurance covers damage to the building and the landlord's property-not your personal property or liability. For instance, if you go out and leave the stove on, and an ensuing fire causes extensive damage to the entire building, you may be held liable to the landlord.

Q. How are prices determined for renters insurance?

A. Renters insurance is surprisingly inexpensive. Nationally, the average cost for a renters policy is $193 per year, or about $16 per month. That's because you are not insuring a building. Like all property/casualty policies, the value of your property to be insured and other risk factors are weighed by the insurance company to determine your premium. You may get a discount if you purchase auto insurance and renters insurance from the same company. Your insurance agent or company representative can help you find the best combination of coverage and cost.

Q. I live in an apartment with three roommates. Do we each need a renters policy?

A. Check with your agent or company representative. Usually, it is best if all roommates are on the same policy, although it is possible for each to purchase his or her own coverage. If you do need to "go it alone," you alone receive the security of renters coverage.

Q. Who decides how much my property is worth?

A. State laws may dictate how losses are to be figured, which means the same insurance company may use one method in one state and a different method in another. The common methods are:

Actual Cash Value. The replacement cost of the item minus depreciation. For example, a new television set may cost $500. But if your 7-year-old TV set gets damaged in a fire, it might have depreciated 50 percent prior to the damage. Therefore, you would be paid $250 for that set.

Replacement Coverage. The cost of replacing an item without deducting for depreciation, but limited to a maximum dollar amount. Today's cost for a TV set with features similar to the 7-year-old one damaged by fire would determine the amount of compensation. If it still costs $500 today, that would be the replacement coverage. (It's important to remember that there are limits on this policy and you need to keep up-to-date on your coverage).

Q. How much will I be paid for damage to my personal property?

A. Your policy lists the specific monetary limits for personal property under what is called "Special Limits." Those limits usually are:

- ◆ $200 for money, bank notes, gold and silver (other than gold ware and silverware), platinum, coins and medals.
- ◆ $1,000 on securities, accounts, deeds, evidences of debt, letters of credit, notes (other than bank notes), manuscripts, passports, tickets and stamps.
- ◆ $1,000 on watercraft, including their trailers, furnishings, equipment and outboard motors.
- ◆ $1,000 on trailers not used for watercraft.
- ◆ $1,000 for loss by theft of jewelry, watches, furs, precious and semiprecious stones.
- ◆ $2,000 for loss by theft of firearms.
- ◆ $2,500 for loss by theft of silverware, silver plated ware, gold ware, gold-plated ware and pewter ware.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Study Manual

- ♦ $2,500 on property on the resident premises used for business and $250 on this property damaged or lost away from the premises.

If these limits seem low to you (maybe that engagement ring is worth much more than $1,000), you may wish to talk to your agent about additional coverage for specific items.

Remember that homeowners and renters insurance is designed to cover general personal possessions, not valuable collections like antiques, jewelry or original art. Insurance companies deliberately limit their coverage of expensive possessions so that household premiums are more affordable to everyone. After all, if they had to cover museum-level art collections under standard homeowners policies, we would all end up paying higher premiums to cover those expensive items.

Q. Does my renters insurance cover my possessions even when I go on vacation?

A. Yes. Renters insurance is a package of insurance coverage that extends to all your possessions no matter where they are. If you take a round-the-world vacation and lose a valuable item, as long as the loss is by a covered event or peril, the location does not matter, you're covered.

The liability component also extends well beyond the boundaries of your home. Should you be found legally at fault for injury or loss to another individual, whether you unfortunately and unintentionally cause a tumble down a San Francisco hill or a fall in an Indiana barn, for example, your homeowners policy likely will cover you.

As in the property section of a homeowner's policy, there are limits and exclusions to personal liability. Your business activities, for example, are not covered under your homeowners policy. You also are not covered for injuries or damage you deliberately cause. Your policy lists specific exclusions and limits.

Q. I work out of my apartment. Are my inventory and business property covered by renters insurance?

A. Within certain limits. Both inventory and business property are covered as personal property used for business purposes. However, like all personal property, there are monetary limits on reimbursement. Whether your home business is your primary occupation or a hobby that nets you a few hundred dollars a year, it is still a business, and you should treat it as such. If you've invested quite a bit in equipment (woodworking tools, for example) and sell the occasional decoy, you should consider whether the personal property limits are sufficient. Click here for information on Home-Based Business Insurance.

Also, keep in mind that the personal liability protection in your homeowners policy does not extend to business liability. Check with your agent concerning your business insurance needs.

Q. Help! I've lost everything! Where do I start?

A. The best place to start after a great loss of property is with an inventory of that property. And the best time to make an inventory is before all is lost. If most of us suddenly found ourselves without anything due to some calamity, we would be hard pressed to know all that we had lost.

When was the last time, for example, that you counted the number of shoes or CDs you own, not to mention furniture, dishes, drapes, and audio/video equipment? How much is it all worth, and where would you start if you had to replace it?

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Study Manual

Now is the time to make a list of major house, hold items and possessions. To make the job easier a free home inventory software is available by clicking www.knowyourstuff.org. This software makes creating a home inventory fun and easy. Once you have completed your inventory, it is easy to keep your information up to date. Where possible, it is wise to list the items' serial number, the date and the cost of purchase and the receipt.

Perhaps an even easier way to inventory your home is to use a still or video camera. As you take the video, you also can talk about the items, when you purchased them and how much they cost.

Whatever method you choose, have a copy made. Ask a friend or family member to hold on to it. Store your copy in a safe deposit box. Check with your agent, who may be able to store a copy for you. If the worst happens and your home is destroyed, the inventory will be safe at another location.

Q. Who keeps an eye on the insurance companies?

A. Insurance is a heavily regulated industry. Every state has some sort of department, administration or agency that regulates and monitors every insurer operating within the state's borders. In addition to approving rates, your state's insurance department is involved in all insurance matters on behalf of private citizens and businesses. It also issues operating licenses to insurers and agents, based on their ability to meet the state's requirements for conduct and knowledge about insurance issues.

Your insurance company and agent work closely with your insurance department to make sure you are getting the best and most fair service possible within the state's guidelines. If you ever have difficulty settling a claim, your agent should help resolve the difficulty. You also can contact your state's insurance department, for more information on your options and rights as an insurance consumer.

Q. What do I do when my property is damaged or stolen?

A. Contact your agent or company representative as soon as possible. If there is damage to your home or possessions, make "emergency" repairs to protect yourself and your property from further damage. For example, if some of the windows in your home have been blown out by wind, you may board them up to prevent additional damage. In fact, your policy covers the cost of these emergency measures.

However, before making permanent repairs, call your agent. The insurance company has the right to inspect the property in its damaged condition. They may want to send a claims adjuster or have you get an estimate from an independent contractor.

If your property is stolen, notify the police immediately and call your agent or company representative.

Q. What if I am sued or found responsible for injuring another person?

A. Liability covers bodily injury and property damage to others due to your negligence. The coverage applies to non-auto accidents that occur either at your residence or off the premises. You may owe medical expense payments, such as first aid, to the injured party. Should you be sued as a result of your negligent actions or suspect that you might be sued, contact your agent or company representative immediately.

Q. What should I look for in an insurance company or agent?

A. Agents and companies are there to help you. At the most basic level, any agent or company representative should be able to answer all of your questions about insurance, provide you a thorough assessment of your insurance needs, and offer you a choice of insurance products to meet those needs. Also, any insurance agency or company should provide you with prompt, quality service in the case of a claim.

Just as important is the level of professional confidence and personal comfort you feel with the company representative or agent.

A sometimes overlooked, factor to keep in mind is that there are two kinds of insurance agents and two kinds of insurance companies. There are companies who sell insurance directly to you (i.e. by 800 number or internet) and there are companies who sell insurance through agents. There are also two different kinds of agents: those who represent one insurance company and those who represent more than one insurance company.

Agents offering through their agencies the policies of one insurance company often are referred to as "captive agents." Agents offering through their agencies the policies of more than one insurance company (but limited to companies who sell through independents) are called "independent agents."

Eight Loss Scenarios For Renters- Who Pays?

Fire, water damage, theft, and personal injury lawsuits are common concerns of any homeowner, but the legal and financial burden from a loss of an apartment's contents caused by any of these events can be just as devastating for a renter. But according to the Insurance Research Council, only 24 percent of renters in a 2000 survey had renters insurance. The majority of renters assume that any loss would be covered by the landlord's insurance, which is not true.

Count the obvious items, like furniture, a computer and stereo, and then the less obvious things like clothing and personal effects, and the potential loss quickly adds up.

"Some renters could have from $20,000 to $25,000 worth of contents," says Don Griffin, director of personal and business lines at the National Association of Independent Insurers, a trade association for property-casualty insurers.

If faced with such a loss, would you know where to turn or whether your loss would be covered? Here are several scenarios renters may face and their insurance consequences.

Scenario No. 1: A fire from another apartment destroys much of your apartment and your belongings. Whose insurance (yours or your landlord's) pays for what?

Your policy would cover the loss of your belongings, minus the deductible. Your policy should also cover your expenses for temporary living quarters and some limited amount of money for emergency supplies and clothing you need until you regain access to the apartment. The landlord's insurance covers the loss he suffered to his building, not your property.

Scenario No. 2: You are negligent and leave food on your hot stove, starting a fire. Whose policy pays for what? Are you liable for damage to the apartment?

The loss of your belongings would be covered by your insurance policy. You could be sued by the landlord for damages to the building, in which case your insurer would be expected to defend you in court and pay for any judgment.

Scenario No. 3: A pipe accidentally bursts inside the wall and the water destroys your belongings. What does your policy pay for?

Your policy would cover the loss of your belongings. But then your insurance company may try to recover the money it paid to you from the building owner's insurance.

Scenario No. 4: Your landlord is negligent in not repairing a plumbing problem you've been reporting, and a pipe bursts. Whose policy do you make a claim on?

Your policy would not be the one to cover your loss in a claim based on the landlord's negligence. You would have to make a claim on the landlord's policy and hope the insurer responds favorably without you having to resort to filing a lawsuit.

Scenario No. 5: Someone trips and falls in your apartment and is injured. Does your renters liability pay, or your landlord's?

The claim is made against your liability insurance, which generally is written to cover expenses of from $3,000 to $5,000 per event. The injured person would have to sue if they wanted higher compensation.

Scenario No. 6: Your dog bites a neighbor. How much liability insurance does your renters insurance provide?

The amount of coverage will depend on the liability limit you purchased, but Griffin suggests coverage in an amount of from $300,000 to $500,000 may be needed to protect your assets in a potential lawsuit.

Scenario No. 7: Your apartment is broken into and your stereo, television, and some jewelry are stolen. Are you covered?

The loss would be covered subject to the amount of the limits in your policy. Typical amounts are: $200 for cash; $1,000 for stock and bond certificates; $1,000 for personal property; and $1,000 for jewelry and furs. You can purchase additional coverage for the individual items, a blanket policy, or a combination of both.

Scenario No. 8: Your landlord claims you have damaged the apartment and is keeping part of your security deposit. Will the renters insurance cover this loss?

No. The liability created here is part of the contract you signed under your lease agreement with the landlord and is not an insurance issue.

b. The cost of any necessary testing or monitoring of air or property to confirm the type, absence, presence or level of mold, whether performed prior to, during or after removal, repair, restoration or replacement of covered property.

I. PROPERTY COVERAGES.

A. Insuring Agreement.

We pay for direct physical loss to property covered under Coverages A, B, C or, if provided by this policy, the Incidental Property Coverage for improvements caused by mold pollutants when the presence of any mold pollutants, whether collectively or any one item, is the direct result of any covered peril. All reasonable means must be used to save and preserve the property at and after the time of loss.

However, all consequential damage and subsequent cost arising from mold pollutants and its remediation, meaning any loss caused directly or indirectly by mold pollutants regardless of any other cause or event contributing concurrently or in any sequence to the loss, will be subject to the Aggregate Property Limit (herein "APL") of this endorsement unless the proximate covered cause of loss is the peril of fire or lightning.

This coverage does not otherwise increase any coverage limits shown in the declarations of this policy.

B. Property Exclusions.

This coverage does not apply to damage caused by or consisting of mold pollutants that results directly or indirectly from the following

- Discharge or overflow:
 - Caused by continuous or repeated seepage or leakage, unless hidden or unknown to the insured.

unoccupied, unless you have taken reasonable care to:

- (1) Maintain heat in the dwelling.
- (2) Shut off the liquid supply and drain the system, heater, or domestic appliance.

2. A peril that is not covered under the terms of this policy.

C. Limits of Liability.

Aggregate Property Limit.

The APL of this endorsement is the most we pay for remediation regardless of the number of occurrences, claims or assessments made, or locations insured under this policy. The APL of this endorsement is the most that we pay for each consecutive annual policy period and for any remaining period of less than twelve months, beginning with the inception date of this policy as shown on the declarations. If, however, the policy period is extended for an additional period of less than twelve months, this additional period will be considered part of the preceding period for the purpose of determining the APL of this endorsement.

The APL is the greater of $5,000 or 5% of the Coverage A (Dwelling) limit, and is subject to a per-occurrence deductible of $250. Restoration of Limits under How Much We Pay For Loss Or Claim does not apply.

II. COVERAGE L LIABILITY COVERAGE. COVERAGE M MEDICAL EXPENSES COVERAGE.

A. Insuring Agreement.

Subject to the Aggregate Liability Limit (herein "ALL") of this endorsement, we pay for bodily injury or property damage that results from ingestion of, inhalation of, physical contact with, or exposure to mold pollutants.

- B. Except for claims adjustment expense and any litigation costs incurred thereunder, any coverage provided under these Incidental Liability Coverages for bodily injury, property damage, damages, or legal fees arising from ingestion of, inhalation of, physical contact with, or exposure to mold pollutants is subject to the ALL of this endorsement.

C. Limits of Liability.

Aggregate Liability Limit.

The ALL of this endorsement, as shown on the declarations, is the most we pay for loss for each occurrence covered under this endorsement. This applies regardless of the number of:

- a. Persons insured under this policy.
- b. Parties who sustain injury or damage.
- c. Claims made or suits brought.

Subject to the ALL of this endorsement, the amount shown on the declarations per person for Coverage M is the most we pay for all medical expenses payable for bodily injury to one person as the result of one occurrence covered under this endorsement.

Any per occurrence limit shown on the declarations for Coverage M does not apply with respect to this endorsement. Payment under Coverage M will not be deemed as an admission of liability under Coverage L.

Our total limit of liability in any one policy year will not exceed the ALL of this endorsement, regardless of the number of:

- a. Occurrences.
- b. Insureds.
- c. Claims made or suits brought.
- d. Persons injured.
- e. Assessments made.

However, this ALL does not apply to coverage provided under Claims and Defense Cost under the Incidental Liability Coverages.

The ALL of this endorsement is the most that we pay for each consecutive annual policy period and for any remaining period of less than twelve months, beginning with the inception date of this policy as shown on the declarations. If, however, the policy period is extended for an additional period of less than twelve months, this additional period will be considered part of the preceding period for the purpose of determining the ALL of this endorsement.

The ALL is $50,000. Restoration of Limits under How Much We Pay For Loss Or Claim does not apply.

4. Mobile Homeowners insurance

Companies use a special policy to insure mobile homes (with or without the wheels).

These policies are not as standardized as other home policies, so read them carefully!

Mobile Homes

If you own a mobile or manufactured home, this type of insurance can help protect your home, adjacent structures and personal property.

Your mobile home insurance policy provides coverage for your home and personal property such as:

- ◆ Clothing
- ◆ Cooking appliances
- ◆ TVs
- ◆ Other personal possessions

A mobile home policy includes coverage for damage from fire, lightning, wind or hail, and more. The policy covering your mobile home also provides liability protection against accidents that happen to somebody else for which you are legally responsible.

Your mobile home policy provides:

Coverage for your mobile home.

Mobile home insurance policies provide two basic kinds of coverage: physical damage and personal liability coverage. Choosing the right insurance policy is much like choosing the right mobile home. You want it to fit your needs and lifestyle, but you also want the insurance coverage to fit within your budget.

These coverage options are available for rental mobile homes, commercial mobile homes, mobile homes that are used seasonally, or mobile homes located in a park or on private property. If you already have auto or homeowners insurance, you can try contacting the same insurer to see if you are eligible for a discount.

Your mobile home policy protects your mobile home and adjacent structures (structures on your premises which are not attached to the mobile home) from all forms of loss unless they are specifically excluded in the policy. Coverage is provided for a wide range of perils, including but not limited to fire, windstorm damage or damage from falling objects, lightning, explosion and more. Note: Coverage under the regular policy doesn't apply while the mobile home is in transit.

Protection for your personal effects.

Your policy also includes similar protection against a wide range of perils for your personal property, while on your residence premises or in an adjacent structure. Personal property coverage also applies while your property is away from your home, but with a lower maximum limit and a smaller range of perils insured against.

Physical Damage

Physical damage coverage pays for accidental damage to your mobile home, belongings, or other structures (such as attached patios or decks, garages or storage sheds) resulting from fire, hail, wind, theft and vandalism, or falling objects. The amount and degree of coverage varies from one policy to another, so make sure to compare policies carefully.

Some policies only cover specific causes of loss (named peril policies). This is basic coverage and while the low premiums may seem like a bargain, it could cost you hundreds of dollars in the event of a claim, if the damage is not caused by one of the named perils.

Generally, coverage under a regular policy doesn't apply while the mobile home is in transit. Also, like regular homeowners insurance, flood is not generally covered, so be sure to find out whether you are in a flood zone and can purchase flood insurance through the National Flood Insurance Program.

Personal Liability protection.

Damage to property isn't the only hazard of modern life. Liability insurance coverage applies when there is a claim or a lawsuit against you after someone is injured or their property is damaged because of your activities. That amount may be more than what comes standard with a mobile home insurance policy, so it may be wise to consider purchasing additional liability insurance. Claims might include medical expenses, lost wages, pain and suffering, and even property damage. However, liability coverage does not pay claims for injuries to you or the members of your household.

Accidents can happen, and if you unintentionally cause bodily injury or property damage to someone who doesn't live in your home, you could be faced with large out of pocket expenses due to court costs or damages. Your policy can pay for medical expenses to a non-resident of your home in addition to the damages or defense costs due to a covered accidental circumstance.

whether before or after a loss or claim relating to this insurance.

3. What to Do When You Have a Loss. You or someone on your behalf must promptly report to the police any theft, robbery, or burglary loss after you discover the loss.

When you have a loss, you or someone on your behalf must notify us at once. The quickest way is to phone your insurance representative or us. Please give your name, policy number, how the loss happened, the extent of the damages or injuries, names of witnesses and all other pertinent facts. You must promptly send us any demand, notice, summons or other legal papers you receive.

If we need other information to investigate the loss, we will ask you for it. We may require this information in writing.

If you have a loss, you must protect your dwelling, other structures or personal property from any other further loss. If you fail to do so, any further loss will not be insured by this policy.

We may require that you file with us a notarized statement of loss within 90 days after the loss. You may be required to show us the damaged property and submit to examination under oath. You will be required to cooperate with us in our effort to investigate the accident or loss, settle any claims against you and defend you. If you fail to cooperate, we have the right to deny coverage in this policy.

You may not, except at your own cost, voluntarily make any payment, assume any obligation or incur any expenses. This provision does not apply for First Aid Expenses for others or Emergency Repairs After Loss to your dwelling, other structures or personal property necessary to protect them from further loss.

We will offer to make settlement within 30 days after we receive an acceptable proof of loss from you and the amount of loss is determined as provided in this policy.

4. Other Insurance.

a. SECTION I – Your Property Coverages
If both this and other insurance apply to a loss, we will pay our share. Our share will be the proportionate amount that this insurance bears to the total amount of all applicable insurance.

b. SECTION II – Your Liability Coverages
This insurance is excess over other valid insurance except insurance written specifically to cover excess over the limits that apply in this policy.

c. SECTION I – Your Property Coverages
SECTION II – Your Liability Coverages
If at the time of loss, there is other insurance in the name of a corporation or association of property owners covering the same property covered by this policy, this insurance will be excess over the amount recoverable under such other insurance.

5. Our Right to Recover from Others. After we have paid a claim, except for Medical Payments to Others, we have the right to recover the payment from anyone who may be held responsible for the loss. You will be required to sign any papers and do whatever else is necessary to transfer this right to us. Neither you nor anyone we insure in this policy has the right to do anything to prejudice our right.

6. Appraisals – Your Alternative to the Company Proposed Settlement. If settlement for damage to your property cannot be agreed to, then both you and we have the right to select a competent and disinterested appraiser within 20 days from the day of disagreement. The appraisers will determine the amount of the loss. If they do not agree, the two appraisers will choose an umpire and submit an amount of the loss to the umpire. The agreement of any two will determine the amount of loss for damage to your property. You pay your appraiser and we pay our appraiser. You and we share equally the expenses of the umpire and all other expenses of the appraisals.

7. Legal Action Against Us. You may not bring legal action against us concerning this policy unless you have fully complied with all of the policy terms. Suit must be brought within one year after the loss occurs.

8. Lienholder Interest. If you borrowed money to buy your dwelling, the person or business that loaned you the money is called the lienholder. The designation of a lienholder is considered to be an acknowledgment by you that the entity named has legal interest in the home due to an installment sales contract or other security agreement. Your lienholder may require you to name it on the Declarations Page as a separate insured party, for any insurable interest it may have.

When a lienholder is named on the Declarations Page, Our Payment Method will recognize the lienholder's interest in your property. If we elect to settle your loss or damage in money, both your name and your lienholder's will appear on our payment check. If you have paid off your lienholder, please tell us so that the lienholder's name may be removed from the Declarations Page.

If your interest in the dwelling is terminated, Our Payment Method will recognize only the lienholder's interest in this policy. No change in title or ownership of your dwelling or any acts of yours will cancel the lienholder's interest in this policy.

You or the lienholder must let us know of any change of ownership or any increase in hazard which comes to you or the lienholder's knowledge.

If you fail to pay any premium due for this policy, your lienholder may be requested to pay that premium.

If we require proof of loss and you fail to give it within 90 days, the lienholder is given an additional 30 days to do so.

9. Salvage Rights. If as a result of your loss, we pay you in cash or by replacement an amount equal to the actual cash value of your property before the loss, at our option, we have the right, but not the obligation to take legal title of your property.

10. Change in Your Policy. If any provision of this policy is in conflict with any governmental requirements at the time your policy is written, it is automatically changed to conform to them.

If we broaden the coverages provided by this edition of the policy without additional premium charges during the Policy Period, we will give you the benefit of these broadened coverages.

The only other way this policy can be changed is if we change it in writing. Any changes will be made a part of this policy. Any changes in your premium will be made at that time.

If your policy is renewed, we will furnish you any form revisions applicable to your policy.

11. Bankruptcy. If you become bankrupt or insolvent, we will still insure you for the period of time your premium is paid.

12. Transfer of This Policy. You may not transfer any interest in this policy without our written consent. If you die, we will insure other members of your family entitled to coverage at the time of your death and your legal representative, but only with respect to the property insured by this policy at the time of your death.

13. Abandoned Property. We are not obliged to accept abandoned property.

14. No Benefit to Bailee. This insurance will not benefit any person or organization who may be caring for or handling your property for a fee.

15. Inspections and Credit Reports. We are permitted, but not obligated, to inspect your property and order a credit report. Our inspection does not warrant that the property is safe or healthful or in compliance with any law, rule or regulation.

16. Cancellation. You may cancel this policy by returning it to us or by mailing to us a written notice telling us the advance date that cancellation is to become effective. If a lienholder is named on the Declarations Page, we will mail written notice to the lienholder 30 days prior to cancellation of the lienholder's interest in this policy.

We may cancel this policy for any reason during the first 60 days we insure you. After the first 60 days we may cancel it if:

- a. The risk has changed substantially since the policy was issued; or
- b. If you or your representative:
 - (1) Conceal, omit or misrepresent any material facts or circumstances;
 - (2) Make a false or fraudulent claim;
 - (3) Fail or refuse to eliminate known conditions that increase the potential for loss after notification by us that the condition must be removed; or
 - (4) Have not paid the premium

We will mail a cancellation notice to you at least 30 days (10 days if you have not paid the premium) before this policy is cancelled. We will mail a cancellation notice to your last address known to us and your insurance representative. We will also give the same notice to your lienholder.

Your lienholder may cancel this policy if your dwelling has been foreclosed or your lienholder has otherwise acquired ownership of it. Your lienholder may then cancel this policy on behalf of all parties who have an interest insured by this policy and upon surrender of this policy.

If there is any refund of premium due you, we will refund it with your cancellation notice or as soon as possible after we mail the cancellation notice. If we or your lienholder cancel this policy, we will calculate any return premium on a pro rata basis. If you cancel, we will calculate any return premium on a pro rata basis, subject to any minimum earned premium shown on the Declarations Page.

17. Renewal. We will offer to renew this policy unless we mail to you, at least 45 days but not more than 60 days before the ending policy term date shown on the Declarations Page, written notice of our intention not to renew this policy.

This policy is signed at the Home Office of our President and Secretary. It is countersigned on the Declarations Page by our authorized representative(s) if required.

SECURED INTEREST PROTECTION

For an additional premium YOU can buy Secured Interest Protection.

If YOU borrowed money to buy YOUR mobile home, YOUR lienholder needed some security for that loan. In most cases YOUR mobile home will be the security. YOUR lienholder has a secured interest in YOUR mobile home and may require that Secured Interest Protection Coverage be purchased. The additional premium may have to be paid by YOU.

COLLISION OR UPSET

WE will pay the lienholder for direct and sudden accidental loss to the mobile home caused by collision while the mobile home is being moved from one place to another. Collision which damages only wheels, tires, axles and running gear is not covered.

ALTERATION

WE will pay the lienholder if YOU caused deliberate damage to the mobile home or made substantial changes in its structure with the intention of reducing its value without permission of the lienholder.

Total alteration results when the damage or change reduces the value of the mobile home so that the cost of repair plus the salvage exceed the actual cash value of the mobile home before such damage or change. Damage resulting from neglect or omission to act, or from wear and tear or hard usage will not be considered an alteration.

CONVERSION

WE will pay the lienholder if they are unsuccessful in their efforts to recover possession of the mobile home or its missing parts due to YOUR transfer of ownership without permission of the lienholder.

CONCEALMENT

WE will pay the lienholder if they are unable to locate the mobile home or its missing parts within 120 days after WE receive all of the lienholder's or mobile home dealer's papers, documents and records regarding the loan as long as YOU have not made a loan payment to the lienholder during that 120 days. A policy report must be filed for each loss contained in this paragraph.

REPOSSSESSION EXPENSE

If the mobile home is repossessed by or on behalf of the lienholder, this coverage provides payment by US to the lienholder for an amount equal to the expense of transporting the mobile home from the place of repossession to the shortest of the following:

- The place where it was sold by the lienholder or mobile home dealer; or
- To the nearest business location of the lienholder or mobile home dealer.

Repossession Expense applies only to the expense of returning the entire mobile home but not to the expense of returning only separate parts, equipment or accessories.

OUR PAYMENT METHODS

The amount WE pay the lienholder for loss covered by Secured Interest Protection will be the lowest of:

- The cost without overhead or profit to the lienholder for repairing or replacing the mobile home and parts with property of like kind, quality and value; or
- The amount of interest of the lienholder in any Alteration, Conversion or Concealment loss, measured by the unpaid balance, not more than 60 days past due; less:

Unearned interest, insurance, finance and other carrying charges computed as of the date of claim, and also minus any penalties or other charges which may have been added to the loan after the loan was finalized; or

Replacement of the property with property of like kind, quality and value; or Actual cash value of the mobile home or of the missing parts immediately before the loss.

Repossession Expense is limited to the rate per mile for transportation up to 70 cents per mile. Repossession Expense is subject to a maximum payment of $600.

DEDUCTIBLE

If one claim for loss or damage, Collision or Upset, Alteration, Conversion, Concealment or Repossession Expense is involved, a $100 deductible applies to each, but the total deductible from each such combination of losses shall not exceed $200.

SECURED INTEREST PROTECTION DOES NOT

PROVIDE COVERAGE
If the loan transaction was not entered into in accordance with normal and usual credit standards;

If the lien interest, at the time of its execution, was not legally enforceable and did not represent a bona fide security transaction entered into in good faith by both parties to secure the repayment of the total loan amount;

If at the date this coverage became effective, payment was more than 30 days past due under the lien instrument covering the mobile home;

For the gas bottles, fuel tanks, steps, skirting, beds, curtains, spreads, drapes, furniture or equipment. WE do not pay for appliances that have worn out or have been discarded, even if replaced;

Loss caused by failure of anyone to maintain the mobile home, its parts and equipment in good working order; Unless YOU have defaulted on the loan and the mobile home has been repossessed.

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF SECURED INTEREST PROTECTION

Other Insurance: If there is other collectible insurance for loss by Collision or Upset, the other insurance coverage pays first and Secured Interest Protection will pay next, but only if the entire loss is not covered by the other insurance.
OUR Right to Recover from Others: After WE have made a Secured Interest Protection payment, WE give up the right to recover the payment from the lienholder except for fraudulent actions of the lienholder.

WE give up the right to recover payment from YOU. What to do When a Loss Occurs:

The lienholder must tell US as soon as there is suspicion of or actual knowledge that a loss has occurred. If the mobile home has been repossessed, WE must be told within 30 days after repossession.

The lienholder must give US, as part of the notice of loss or potential loss, the following:

Pacific Specialty Insurance Company GEORGIA MOBILE HOME ENDORSEMENTS

Inspection report prepared at the time of repossession describing the condition of the mobile home and a listing, in detail, of the parts which are missing;

Manufacturer's invoice;

Any letters or other papers detailing their efforts to locate any item(s);

Retail sales contract;

Credit application;

Detailed description of damage and alterations;

All available evidence showing exactly how the mobile home was equipped and sold;

Summary of collection efforts;

Statement from the local law enforcement agency to which the loss was reported.

The lienholder must, at its own expense, use every reasonable effort, including litigation, until settlement of the loss to:

Secure, protect and preserve the mobile home from loss;

Locate YOU, the mobile home and any missing parts;

Declare the loan in default;

Repossess the mobile home for which any claim is to be made;

Collect all amounts.

The lienholder must allow US to review and copy any other books, records and files that will assist US in settling a claim.

All losses must be promptly reported to the police.

The part of the Mobile Home Policy titled WHAT TO DO WHEN YOU HAVE A LOSS does not apply to this coverage.

The day WE receive all the required information will be the effective date of claim and all computations will be made as of that day.

The Policy Conditions of the policy apply to Secured Interest Protection unless WE have already changed it in writing.

IF YOUR lienholder has paid the premium for this coverage, it is understood that any return premium due to cancellation of this coverage shall be paid to the lienholder in accordance with their interest.

ENDORSEMENT No. PM11 (Ed. 2)
INCREASED DEDUCTIBLE FOR LOSS OR DAMAGE CAUSED BY TENANTS

This endorsement changes your policy. Please read it carefully.

It is understood and agreed that if a loss occurs due to an insured peril which is caused by a deliberate act, or is a result of the abuse of the property by a present or past tenant of the property, then that loss is considered to be a "Tenant Caused Loss."

We will only be liable for that portion of a Tenant Caused Loss that exceeds $2,500.00, up to the limits of the policy as stated on the policy declarations page. However, if a policy deductible of $5,000.00 is stated on the policy declarations page, then we will only be liable for that portion of a Tenant Caused Loss that exceeds $5,000.00, up to the limits of the policy as stated on the policy declarations page.

This endorsement does not extend or expand the perils insured under this policy.

All other terms and conditions of the policy remain unchanged.

NATURAL DISASTER PROTECTION COVERAGE FOR MOBILE HOMES

If you borrowed money to buy the home shown on the Declarations Page, Natural Disaster Protection Coverage may increase the amount of Coverage A - Manufactured Home in order to pay off the portion of your loan that is attributable to the home shown on the Declarations Page.

If the home is destroyed by windstorm, flood, earth movement or hail as long as coverage for these perils is in effect under your Manufactured Home Policy, the amount we will pay will be the greater of:

1. The actual cash value of the home;
2. The outstanding principal balance of the loan attributable to the home, we reserve the right to offer to you a replacement home of like kind, quality and value.

ADDITIONAL DEFINITIONS

"Outstanding principal balance" means the unpaid amount you owe your lienholder named on the Declarations Page, minus past due payments, unearned interest, insurance, finance and other carrying charges computed as of the date of loss. Outstanding principal balance does not apply to such items as penalties or charges which may have been added to your loan after the loan was finalized, land, or other loan amounts that have been consolidated into the loan that applies to the home.

"Flood" means:

1. The overflow of inland tidal waters;
2. The unusual and rapid buildup or runoff of surface water from any source;

3. Mud slides or mud flows which are caused by the buildup of water on or under the ground;

4. The collapse or sinking of land along the shore of a body of water as a result of erosion or undermining caused by waves or currents of water exceeding the normal levels, which results in a flood as defined above.

Flood, as defined above, is at least as broad as that offered by the Standard Flood Insurance Policy (NFIA-1 (ED 7-74)).

All other provisions and conditions of your policy apply.

How Much Coverage is Adequate for Me?

Reasons to properly insure your home and contents

- Bank Requirements: If you have a mortgage on a house, the bank will require you to insure the house for at least the amount of the loan which cannot exceed your cost.
- Policy Requirements: Most policies will require you to insure the house for at least 80 percent of the replacement cost. If you have less coverage than 80 percent of the home's replacement cost, the company will pay only part of any repair bill. You may pay much more in out-of-pocket costs in the event of a claim.
- Financial Protection: Liability coverage that pays if you are legally responsible due to bodily injury or property damage to others. The insurance company will negotiate a settlement, defend you in court and pay any judgments, subject to policy provisions.

Guaranteed replacement cost

To protect you against accidentally underinsuring your house, many companies offer guaranteed replacement cost policies. The following demonstrates how these policies work.

- You have your house insured for 100 percent replacement cost and you accept increases in both policy limits and premiums at renewal;
- The company will pay the cost to rebuild or repair your house, even if factors such as inflation have increased cost above the insurance coverage;
- Depending on the policy, you might not be covered for "ordinance and law" - a provision that pays for needed upgrades to meet building code requirements. You may need to add ordinance and law coverage, if available; and
- Total loss homes with replacement coverage must be rebuilt on the same location.

The risk of being underinsured

If you have a claim you may expect that the insurance company will pay the full cost of replacement or repairs. This only occurs when your house is insured for at least 80 percent of the replacement cost to rebuild the structure. If your home is insured for less than 80 percent of the replacement cost, the company will pay only part of any repair bill.

An example of the danger of underinsuring your home

If the replacement value of your home is $100,000, the minimum coverage a policy may require is 80 percent or $80,000. If you are covered for $60,000, the insurance company will pay only 75 percent of the repair costs for any damage. You are responsible to pay the rest. If a storm, for example, causes $1,000 in roof damage, the policy will cover 75 percent, or $750. The company will then subtract the $250 deductible and pay you only $500 for repairs. The remaining $500 will be your responsibility to pay. These percentages hold true as the cost of the claim rises and you remain underinsured.

Personal Liability Coverage

Personal liability coverage is automatically included in all homeowner and tenant insurance policies. This coverage protects you against a claim or lawsuit resulting from bodily injury or property damage to others caused by your negligence. It has a dollar limit on the amount the insurance company will pay on a claim. It covers you and family members residing in the home, including dependents under age 21 that live elsewhere, such as college. This section of the policy also pays when you are legally obligated to cover damages because of something that happened on your property (e.g. someone falls) or as a result of your personal activities (e.g. hit a ball through a neighbor's window). The company will pay to represent you against a liability claim or lawsuit; there are no policy limits on legal expenses.

- Personal liability: $100,000
- Medical payments: $1,000
- Property of others: $500

Medical payments (MedPay)

Regardless of who is at fault, this coverage pays medical expenses for persons accidentally injured on your property by a member of your family or by your pets. MedPay payments do not apply to injuries to you, to family members living with you or to activities involving your at-home business. You should check with your agent or insurance company to determine if the amount of medical payments coverage is sufficient.

Damage to property of others

This type of coverage pays if you lose or damage someone else's property. Typical exclusions include the following:

- Intentional acts that injure someone or damage another's property,
- Claims resulting from business or professional activities, or
- Injuries or damage you cause by operating a car, plane, or motorboat.

How liability coverage works

The insurance company will first try to settle any liability claim. If all goes well, you will probably never hear about the claim again!

If you are sued, you will receive a summons or notice of a lawsuit; you should immediately notify the company, which will appoint a lawyer to represent you. You may find it prudent to consult your own attorney as well. If you lose in court, the company will pay up to the policy limits. If the court settlement is more than your policy limits, you will have to pay the difference. Consult with your own attorney beforehand if it appears that your policy will not cover the entire settlement, or if you are unsure about your possible liability. Also, remember that if you are accused of intentionally injuring someone or intentionally damaging property, the insurance company may refuse to defend you.

For more protection, many companies offer "umbrella" coverage to let you increase your liability protection beyond the homeowners policy limits. You may be able to buy an umbrella to protect yourself from the possibility of a huge negligence lawsuit. However, many companies offer this coverage only if they insure both your car and your home.

When someone is injured on your property

- Immediately write down who, when, what, how it happened and ask any
- witnesses to do the same;
- Call your insurance agent or company and file a report: do not wait for the
- injured person to make a claim;
- Tell the injured person how to contact your insurance company; and
- Cooperate with the claims adjuster.

Insuring Your Personal Property

Personal property is defined for insurance purposes as the tangible assets that fill your home. In other words, it is the contents of your home and other belongings owned by you or family members who live with you. Your policy will have an overall limit on how much it will pay for all personal property involved in a single claim. The typical limit is a minimum of 50 percent of the home's insured value.

Separate Limits: Policies have separate limits on such things as jewelry, computers and fur coats. Your computer may be covered for $2,500, and if the computer is worth more than that, you may increase your coverage by adding a scheduled limit.

Personal Property Claims

There are two different ways that policies will pay for personal property damage:

Actual Cash Value (ACV) or Replacement Cost. Below is an example of ACV versus Replacement Cost using a stolen television set.

Actual Cash Value (ACV)

ACV coverage pays no more than the TV's value on the day it was stolen or destroyed. Usually, ACV equals the current replacement cost minus depreciation. If you paid $500 for the TV five years ago and its value is now $100, a policy with ACV coverage will pay only $100 after you pay the deductible. If your policy has a $250 deductible, you would collect nothing because the TV's current value is lower than the deductible.

Replacement Cost Coverage

After you have paid your deductible, you are entitled to the cost of replacing your lost TV with a comparable new TV at today's price. However, you must have proof that you have bought the new TV. The insurance company may pay you only the actual cash value if you do not have proof of purchase.

After-the-Fact Expenses

Repairing your house is only part of the expense of recovering from a disaster.

Fortunately, insurance policies usually pay for reasonable "after-the-fact" expenses.

- Additional living expenses: room and board (e.g. stay at a hotel or motel) while you are unable to use your house
- Trees & shrubs: a set amount for damage to specified items
- Temporary repairs: boarding up windows or other temporary repairs to minimize additional damage (a reminder - the insurance policy requires the insured to take steps to minimize further damage, such as boarding up windows)
- Fire department charges: some communities charge a fee for emergency response, some policies provide reimbursement for up to $500
- Debris removal: removing damaged property from the premises after a loss.
- Property removed: 30-day coverage for personal property stored at another location while your house is being repaired. (Covers property at stored location, does not cover cost of storing)

Flood Insurance

Because of the potential for catastrophic losses, private insurance companies are reluctant to assume the risk of writing flood insurance which prompted the United States Congress to create the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

You cannot buy flood insurance unless your local government qualifies for the NFIP.

To qualify, a community must adopt flood-plain management regulations to reduce the possibility of floods. Most local governments in potential flood areas qualify, but many homeowners may not be aware they need to buy the coverage. Your insurance agent or company can tell you whether your town qualifies. For a free booklet on flood insurance call the National Flood Insurance Program at 1-800-638-6620.

Buying Flood Insurance

Contact your agent or insurance company. Although flood insurance is a federal government program, private insurance companies sell the policies. If your community qualifies, flood insurance is available on almost any enclosed building and its contents, and you do not have to live in a flood plain to buy flood insurance. If your community has taken necessary steps to control flooding, you can insure a building for up to $250,000 and contents for as much as $100,000. Your home will be covered 30 days after your application and premium are received by the NFIP.

Earthquake Coverage

While there has been no major earthquake in Georgia for many years, there have been numerous small ones. Most companies sell earthquake endorsements and since the risk of a serious earthquake in Georgia is fairly low, coverage is relatively cheap. The deductible, however, is relatively high and typically ranges from two- to five-percent of your home's insured replacement cost. Brick or masonry homes are more likely to be damaged by an earthquake than a frame house, so if you own a brick home you will pay more for earthquake coverage. Without an earthquake endorsement, there is no coverage under your homeowner's policy.

Other Insurance for Homeowners

Protecting your investment

Credit insurance protects you if you are unable to make your mortgage payments due to injury or death. It is usually available at the time you take out your loan. Credit insurance is optional, which means you don't have to purchase it from the lender. In fact, it's against the law for a lender to deceptively include credit insurance (or other optional products) in your loan without both your knowledge and permission.

There are two main types of credit insurance. Credit disability insurance, also known as accident and health insurance, makes payments on the loan if you become ill or injured and can't work. Credit life insurance pays off all or some of your loan if you die.

Credit disability: A credit disability policy promises to pay your loan payment if you are unable to work because of illness or injury. Credit insurance policies spell out what has to happen before they start making your loan payments. Check the policy very carefully to make sure you understand what is covered and what is excluded. For example, coverage may be excluded for health problems you already have when you buy the policy ("pre-existing conditions").

Credit life: Credit life insurance is simply a term life policy written for the same amount as your loan. The amount of the policy decreases every year but premiums might not - so you may find it less expensive to buy a simple term life insurance policy rather than a credit life policy. You do not have to buy credit insurance, but if you choose to do so, you have the right to shop for the policy that best suits you. Banks often sell their customer lists to insurance companies or include credit life sales material in mortgage statements, so you are likely to receive offers for credit life insurance in conjunction with your loan.

Protecting the lender

Title insurance

Title insurance protects the homeowner and lender against possible problems with the deed to a house - missing heirs, old mortgages or easements, etc. A homeowner's worst nightmare is that a stranger shows up some years from now claiming to be the rightful owner of the house. If the stranger has a legal claim to the house, it is the title insurance company's financial responsibility to pay for the mistake.

But, the policy included in your closing costs probably protects only the lender. The title insurance company will pay the lender the balance of your mortgage and you will lose the title (plus any equity you have in your house), unless you also bought owner's title insurance,

Private mortgage insurance (PMI)

If the down payment for your home was less than 20 percent, banks normally require you to buy Private Mortgage Insurance (PMI); premiums are built into your mortgage payments. PMI protects the lender if you default on the loan; PMI does not protect you.

With specific exceptions, after you have made enough mortgage payments to reach 22 percent equity in your home (based on the original property value) and your mortgage payments are current, the PMI premiums should be terminated automatically.

However, you should follow up with your lender to confirm.

Private rating firms

Several private firms specialize in evaluating the finances and services of insurance companies. Each of these firms has its own methods and standards and grades a company based on the firm's judgment of the financial well being of a company.

The phone numbers and web site addresses below will connect you with some of the more well known rating firms. You may be charged for an insurance company report and be sure you understand the firm's grading system before you rely on any report ... one firm might use "A+" as its highest grade, while another could go all the way up to "A+++."

Many private firms that specialize in rating insurance companies also publish books on the subject. You may be able to find this information at your local library.

What determines the amount of your premium?

- Type of construction: frame houses usually cost more to insure than brick
- Age of house: new homes may qualify for discounts
- Local fire protection: how far you live from a fire hydrant and fire station
- Amount of protection: the more you insure, the more you will pay
- Deductible: how much you agree to risk paying from your own pocket for each claim
- Discounts: companies reduce prices for such things as insuring your home and car with the same company
- Claims history and credit score: some companies use factors such as previous claims filed and credit history

Insurance & Discrimination

Prohibited discrimination

It is illegal for an insurance company to charge you more or refuse to insure your home because of your race, color, ancestry, religion, sex, handicap, national origin or because of the racial make-up of your neighborhood.

Red-lining

Insurance companies are sometimes accused of "red-lining." The term comes from the idea that companies would draw a red line on a map around certain parts of town to mark places where they did not want to sell insurance. You should be suspicious of any agent who refuses to talk with you about insuring your home, or states, "We don't write insurance in this part of town".

Report it! If you think you have been the victim of any kind of illegal discrimination by an insurance agent or company, tell us by calling the Department at 1-800-686-1526 and ask for a Property and Casualty Analyst.

Legal discrimination

Discrimination can be legal when it is based on such things as the condition of your home, how you use your home, how you have used insurance in the past or your financial condition. Underwriting standards are rules that insurance companies use to decide whether to insure your property. Every company has its own underwriting standards, but typical ones might include some of the things listed below:

- ◆ The condition of your home:
 - ◆ Old wiring (fire hazard)
 - ◆ Dilapidated roof (could result in a claim for water damage)
 - ◆ Poor maintenance (broken windows, broken gutters)
- ◆ Claims experience: if you have filed numerous claims in the past, a company might not want to take the chance that you will file claims against it
- ◆ Credit report: if your credit report suggests you do not pay your bills on time, the company might not want to take the chance that you will treat them the same way
- ◆ Recent bankruptcy: if you have recently filed bankruptcy, it will be even harder to buy insurance for your home and
- ◆• Dangerous pets: if you have a pet that has attacked someone or qualifies as "vicious", do not be surprised if an insurance company rejects your application.

Cancellation

Your policy goes into detail about which conditions may cause your insurance to be cancelled. However, the company must send you written notice at least 30 days before the cancellation date and that notice must explain procedures for applying to the FAIR Plan.

You are not entitled to a 30-day notice if the company cancels because of your failure to pay the premium, evidence of arson, misrepresentation or fraud.

The insurance company can cancel your homeowner's policy if you file too many claims. You are highly likely to lose coverage if you are a habitual claimant, particularly if your claims are small. If you have two to three claims within five years, the insurance company may choose to cancel or not renew your policy.

Non-renewal

Each year insurance companies have the statutory right to decide whether or not to renew your policy for the next year. If the company does not renew your policy, they must notify you of their decision 30 days in advance of the policy expiring and must explain procedures for applying to the FAIR Plan. You will then have to find coverage elsewhere.

FAIR Plan

If you cannot find insurance coverage for your home, you can apply through the FAIR Plan Underwriting Association. The State of Georgia created the Georgia FAIR Plan to insure property that insurance companies will not cover.

Important points to remember about the FAIR Plan:

- You do not have a guaranteed right to buy FAIR Plan coverage. The FAIR Plan will inspect your house to determine whether you are eligible.
- Every company selling property insurance in Georgia helps fund the FAIR Plan.
- Coverage in the FAIR Plan is likely to cost substantially more than through the standard insurance marketplace so be sure to exhaustively search before resorting to the FAIR Plan.

You can apply to the FAIR Plan through any insurance agent who sells property insurance.

C.L.U.E. Report

A Comprehensive Loss Underwriting Exchange or C.L.U.E. report is an all-inclusive database of personal property information, primarily insurance claims on private property.

C.L.U.E. reports are only available to an individual for the home or property they own and reside in. The reports are available from ChoicePoint over the web at www.choicetrust.com or through regular mail. Someone who has been the subject of adverse action based on the information in the report is entitled to a free copy of the report if it is requested within 60 days of the adverse action. Adverse action can include denial of coverage or an increase in rates. Insurers must notify consumers when adverse actions have occurred.

Credit Scoring

Statistically, people who have a poor insurance credit score are more likely to file a claim.

Insurers use this information when determining the risk someone may pose. Studies reveal that the manner which a person manages his or her finances, is a strong predictor of insurance claims. Insurance scores are used to help insurers differentiate between lower and higher insurance risks and they then can set a premium based on the risk they are assuming.

Information regarding your credit history, such as your bill-paying habits, the number and the types of accounts in your name, collection actions, outstanding debt, and the age of your accounts, is used to determine if you are a responsible borrower.

How to Handle Claims

What should I do when I have a claim?

- Review your policy to make sure you know what is covered.
- Notify your agent or the insurance company immediately.
- Keep damaged property until the company says you can dispose of it, and get that permission in writing.
 - If your home is damaged, make needed temporary repairs to protect it from more damage and keep the receipts.
 - Keep receipts for emergency expenses (things such as repairs and temporary housing).
 - Complete the company's claim form.
 - Cooperate with the claims adjuster's requests for documentation or to conduct damage inspection.
 - Negotiate the final settlement with the adjuster.

Inside the insurance company the adjuster is your first stop. Adjusters evaluate damage and make settlement offers. An adjuster may be an employee of the insurance company or an independent adjuster hired by the company.

If you are not satisfied with the company's handling of your claim, contact the Georgia Insurance Department's Consumer Services Division information about your insurance rights and how to file a complaint. Written complaints are investigated to determine whether the company and agent have acted improperly. The Department cannot settle factual disputes over arguments such as the value of your damaged property.

Your county small claims court may be able to settle disputes involving $3,000 or less; you do not need a lawyer to go to this court. Or, you have the option of consulting an attorney about your legal rights and remedies. The Department of Insurance does not give legal advice.

Claim Disputes

Take These Steps to Resolve Disputes

When It Is a Dispute about Amounts

Claim disputes over homeowners insurance are often about the value of lost or damaged property. The insurance company must first agree that there is damage.

Policies usually have a standard provision to settle disputes of this kind. Here is how this process may work under your policy terms:

Appraisal

- Either you or the company can make a written demand to have the amount of loss set by appraisal.
- Upon that demand you and the company each hire an independent appraiser.
- The two appraisers determine the amount of loss.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Study Manual

- If they agree on an amount, a written report is submitted and the amount agreed upon is set as the amount of loss.

If the appraisers cannot agree

- If the appraisers fail to agree, they select an independent arbitrator.
- If they cannot agree on an arbitrator, you or the company can ask a judge of the court to appoint one.
- A written agreement signed by two of these three people (the two appraisers and the arbitrator) sets the amount of loss.

Who pays what :

- You pay the appraiser you select and the company pays the appraiser it selects.
- You and the company split any costs for other appraisal expenses and the arbitrator's fee.

Consumer Complaints

You should not need a lawyer to resolve the vast majority of disputes you may have with an insurance agent or company. You can resolve your own disputes. If you give the company a chance, you will generally find people willing, if not eager, to straighten out problems. Start with your agent and if that does not resolve the issue, contact the company's customer service office. If customer service falls short of your expectations, ask about the company's procedures for appealing decisions.

- If your efforts with the company fail to provide an adequate solution, the next step should be the Georgia Insurance Department's Consumer Services Division.

- The Department's staff will answer your questions over the phone and explain any further steps you should take to resolve your problem. Department staff gives honest, unbiased answers - if it is apparent the company has done nothing wrong, that is what you will be told. On the other hand, if you raise questions that can only be answered by the insurance company we will send you a complaint form.

If your completed form raises questions we cannot answer, it becomes a "complaint." A complaint does not mean the company or agent has broken the law or done anything wrong.

The Department notifies the insurance company and/or agent each time a complaint is received. We will send the company a copy of your complaint and ask that they resolve it or explain their side of the story. By law, companies must respond to the Department and most companies are very cooperative in resolving consumer complaints. Please know that your complaint and any documents you send may be subject to public disclosure.

Fire Protection and Premiums

How quickly the local fire department can reach your house affects your premium.

- If you live in a city, most companies will charge you the same base rates as people who live on the other side of town.
- If you live in a suburb with full fire protection, your price may be similar or identical to that of the large nearby city.

Practice Quiz #7

Question 1: TRUE or FALSE?

Your policy covers 100% of the Dwelling Coverage of your home. That means even if the cost of rebuilding in your area exceeds the house's market value by 20%, your insurance will still pay to rebuild your home completely if it's destroyed by fire or some other catastrophe.

Question 3: TRUE or FALSE?

Flood and earthquake damage are not covered under most standard homeowners insurance policies.

Question 4: TRUE or FALSE?

Ideally, renters should have the same amount of liability coverage as someone who owns their own home.

B. Inland Marine Insurance

Coverage for property that involves an element of transportation. The property must be actually in transit, held by a bailee, at a fixed location that is an instrument of transportation, or be a movable type of goods that is often at different locations.

Domestic Goods In Transit

Domestic shipments exposed to loss while in transit by rail, motor truck, aircraft, or while in the custody of the U.S. Postal Service. (Imports and exports--nondomestic goods--are not within the scope of inland marine insurance.)

1. Personal Articles Floater

Items of value - including jewellery, furs, silver, guns, stamps, and coins - that are limited by homeowners policies may be scheduled on a personal articles floater. There are many advantages to scheduling.

Personal articles floaters provide extremely broad coverage, usually, with no deductibles. For the most part, you're agreeing on value prior to loss. Floaters are written on an all-risk basis, which means the policy covers against everything except what's specifically excluded.

This coverage is generally written in addition to your unscheduled property, so it provides extra coverage in the event of a total loss. In many cases, personal articles floaters provide coverage for flood and earthquake damage, whereas the homeowner's policy does not.

Under personal articles floaters, territorial limits are extremely broad and usually worldwide. Some floaters also cover newly acquired items even if you haven't had time to notify us of the purchase (provided you already have this type of article scheduled on your policy, a maximum limit applies per item).

Vault coverage is available at considerably reduced rates. If you can't be bothered calling whenever you're removing a piece of jewellery from the vault, it is sometimes possible to have a policy extension that allows you to remove the item for a certain period of time, for instance 72 hours, without notifying the broker or the company.

Some companies provide inflation-guard coverage on scheduled items or allow you the opportunity to increase your schedule by a certain percentage every year or two. However, do not become complacent if you have this type of coverage. You must review your policy regularly to determine if there are any fluctuations in values. Appraisals should be updated periodically.

2. Nationwide Marine Insurance Definition

A statement about the types of coverage that may properly be written on inland marine and ocean marine insurance forms. The National Association of Insurance Commissioners adopted a Nationwide Marine Insurance Definition in 1953 and revised it in 1976. This definition is used principally for classification purposes, rather than as a definition of underwriting powers. The majority of states have adopted the 1976 version, but the 1953 version is still in effect in some states.

C. Other types of property policies

1. Flood

Flood insurance protects you from the financial devastation caused by floods. Even a few inches of water can bring thousands of dollars in repair and restoration costs. Most homeowners insurance does not cover floods. You need flood insurance.

Flood insurance, like earthquake insurance, is “single peril” insurance, sold separately from homeowners insurance. Flood insurance protects against losses to buildings and their contents, not the land surrounding them. The coverage applies whether the flooding results from heavy or prolonged rains, coastal storm surge, snow melt, blocked storm drainage systems, levee dam failure, or other causes. To be considered a flood, the waters must cover at least two acres or affect at least two properties.

Flood insurance is available both within and outside of floodplains. Your property’s flood risk is shown on flood hazard maps. Different types of policies are available depending on your flood risk.

If you live in a high-risk area, you will need a Standard Policy. Most mortgage lenders will require that you have such a policy before they will approve your loan.

Outside of high-risk areas, flood insurance is also available, usually at lower cost. A Preferred Risk Policy covers both a home and its contents, with premiums as low as $119 per year. While you aren’t federally required to have flood insurance in a low-to-moderate risk area, that does not mean you won’t ever need it. Large floods often extend beyond the boundaries of high-risk areas and smaller floods occur outside high-risk areas as well. In fact, a quarter of all flood insurance claims come from low-to-moderate risk areas.

Flood insurance is sold and serviced by private insurers, and backed by the federal government. Flood insurance costs the same wherever you purchase it, because the rates are set by the National Flood Insurance Program.

Flood insurance covers both homes and businesses. With residential coverage you can get up to $250,000 of insurance to protect your home and up to $100,000 to protect its contents. If you are located in (or moving into) a high-risk area, federally regulated or insured lenders will require you to have flood insurance for the amount remaining on your mortgage, or $250,000, whichever is lower.

Different types of policies are available based on your property’s location and flood history.

Standard Flood Insurance Policies - If you live in a community that participates in the NFIP, your building and its contents can be covered. You must apply for building coverage and contents coverage separately.

Preferred Risk Policies - If your home or business is in a low or moderate risk zone, your building may qualify for a low-cost Preferred Risk Policy.

Don’t Wait Until It’s Too Late

Regardless of the type of policy you choose, there is a standard 30-day waiting period, from date of purchase, before a new flood policy goes into effect. The 30-day waiting period does not apply if:

- The initial purchase of flood insurance occurs in connection with the making, increasing, extension, or renewal of a loan in a high-risk zone by a regulated lender; or
- The initial purchase of flood insurance occurs within one year of a map change.

2. Personal Watercraft

Personal watercraft are not generally covered by homeowners or auto insurance, and where they are, the coverage limits can be fairly low. You may need to purchase a specifically designed policy in order to insure these vessels. The personal watercraft policy covers:

- Bodily injury
- Property damage
- Guest passenger liability
- Medical payments
- Theft

Typical policies include deductibles of $250 for property damage, $500 for theft and $1,000 for medical payments, although these may vary from company to company.

Liability limits start at $15,000 and can be increased to $300,000. This coverage will provide financial protection if your personal watercraft is involved in an accident.

Most policies also include water sports liability, which covers risks associated with activities such as waterskiing.

Roaming Charges

Three out of every four boaters surveyed (76 percent) mistakenly believe boat insurance covers them anywhere they decide to go boating in the continental U.S.

All Boat Insurers Are Not Created Equal

Twenty (20) percent of boaters mistakenly believe that all boat insurance companies use the same information in the same way to determine rates. And, 23 percent of boaters surveyed mistakenly believe all boat insurers provide the same level of claims service.

Always Covered ... Maybe NOT

One-third (33 percent) of boaters surveyed mistakenly believe they would be covered in all of the following situations if their boat was added as an endorsement on their homeowners policy - meaning the boat has been listed as an asset, the same way someone would add jewelry or other personal items. Potentially uncovered claims situations include: their fishing equipment or personal belongings are lost or stolen; their vehicle breaks down while towing their boat and needs to be towed; and their boat is destroyed and the wreckage needs to be removed.

In consideration of the additional premium paid – Section D – Watercraft Liability Exclusion 8 is amended to read: While the insured watercraft is being used for watersports, waterskiing, aquaplaning, kneeboarding, or any similar sport where a person or persons are in tow, the coverage under Section D is amended to provide up to $15,000 per occurrence of policy liability limit for watersports liability exposure. This $15,000 coverage is part of the stated policy combined single limit liability and not over and above the stated policy liability limit.
LOSS PAYABLE CLAUSE
If you borrowed money to buy your watercraft, the person or business that loaned you the money is called the loss payee. The designation of a loss payee on the Declarations is considered to be acknowledgment by you that the entity named has a legal interest in the watercraft due to an installment sales contract or other security agreement. Your loss payee may require you to name it on the Declarations as a separate insured party for an insurable interest it may have.
When a loss payee is named on the Declarations, our payment method will recognize their interest in your property. If we elect to settle your loss or damage in money, both your name and your loss payee's will appear on our payment check. If you have paid off your loss payee, please tell us so that their name may be removed from the policy.
If your interest in the watercraft is terminated, our payment method will recognize only the loss payee. No change in title or ownership of your watercraft or any negligent acts of yours will cancel the loss payee's interest in the policy.
You or the loss payee must let us know of any change in ownership or any increase in hazard which comes to your or the loss payee's knowledge. If an increase in hazard requires an additional premium, you must pay the additional premium.
If you fail to pay any premium due for this policy, your loss payee may be requested to pay that premium.
If you fail to give us proof of loss within 90 days, the loss payee is given an additional 30 days to notify us of the loss.
We have the right to cancel this policy as provided in the policy and the cancellation shall terminate this agreement with respect to the loss payee's interest. When we cancel, we will give the same advance notice of cancellation to the loss payee as we give to you.
When we pay the loss payee, we are entitled, to the extent of our payment, to the loss payee's right of recovery.
Nothing herein contained shall be held to vary, alter or extend any of the Agreements, Conditions, Declarations, Exclusions, Limitations or Terms of the policy except as herein provided, forming and a part of this policy.

3. Earthquake

Earthquake insurance is a form of property insurance that pays the policyholder in the event of an earthquake that causes damage to the property. Most ordinary homeowner's insurance policies do not cover earthquake damage.

Most earthquake insurance policies feature a high deductible, which makes this type of insurance useful if the entire home is destroyed, but not useful if the home is merely damaged. Rates depend on location and the probability of an earthquake. Rates may be cheaper for homes made of wood, which withstand earthquakes better than homes made of brick.

As with flood insurance or insurance on damage from a hurricane or other large-scale disasters, insurance companies must be careful when assigning this type of insurance, because an earthquake strong enough to destroy one home will probably destroy dozens of homes in the same area. If one company has written insurance policies on a large number of homes in a particular city, then a devastating earthquake will quickly drain all the company's resources. Insurance companies devote much study and effort toward risk management to avoid such cases.

II. Types of Casualty Policies

A. Personal Automobile

Every insurance company is different—in fact, most companies pride themselves on the distinctions between them and their competitors. In personal insurance, however, these distinctions are not nearly as substantial as they are for business customers. The Personal Auto Policy is one of the most standardized policies in insurance.

But there are differences and informed consumers must distinguish between the coverage offered by various insurers. Price alone should not be the sole determinant in choosing an insurance company or agent. As we said earlier, the personal auto insurance market is very competitive and it is a good idea to shop around and make sure that you are receiving the most value for your insurance dollar. That does not mean that you will change insurance companies or agents for a few dollars of premium savings. Rather, it means that you have given careful evaluation to the protection, service, and price of any insurance product you purchase.

Overview of the Personal Auto Policy (PAP)

The Personal Auto Policy (PAP) was first introduced in 1977. There were other policies prior to that time, and the PAP itself has been revised several times since then. The policy is written in plain language, without a lot of technical terms and is easier to understand than previous versions. The policy is a package, or bundle, of insurance coverages put together in one policy and designed to meet the needs of individuals and families who own automobiles.

The policy we will discuss in this text is the one developed by the Insurance Services Office (ISO). ISO is a non-profit organization that develops policy forms for member insurance companies. Although the policies developed by ISO are used by many companies, you should keep in mind that there are variations among insurers and the specific terms and conditions of any policy must be reviewed before deciding whether or not coverage is provided.

In order to discuss the PAP in more detail, it will first be necessary to review some of the basics of all insurance policies.

Like other insurance policies, the PAP contains sections that combine to provide the necessary coverage. The sections of the PAP are:

Declarations Page

The declarations page is the front page of the policy where you will find the name of the person or persons insured, his or her address, a description of the vehicles covered, and other personal information. It is called a declarations page because it contains information that is declared by an applicant to the insurance company when applying for coverage.

You will hear people refer to this part of the policy as the “dec page.”

Insuring Agreement

All policies contain an insuring agreement, which is a broad statement of the insurance company’s obligations under the policy along with the responsibilities of the insured or policyholder.

It is usually brief, sometimes only a single sentence and may read like this: “If you (the insured) agree to pay your premiums, we (the insurance company) will pay your covered claims.”

Definitions

All modern insurance policies contain a definitions section, or glossary of terms used in the contract. When a term has been defined in a policy, it has been given special meaning. These words are shown in a policy by using italics, bold face type, or quotation marks. Some of the important definitions contained in the PAP are discussed in later parts of this chapter.

Conditions

Insurance policies are conditional contracts. This means that the insurance company is not obligated to pay all losses an insured might suffer. Coverage is provided only under certain conditions. For example, a vehicle is covered while it is operated in the United States, its territories and possessions (e.g., Guam), Puerto Rico, or Canada. Thus, if you drive your car to Mexico and it is damaged or you injure someone, there would be no coverage under your Personal Auto Policy. You can think of conditions as the “strings” attached to the insurance company’s promise to pay as stated in the insuring agreement.

Exclusions

Since the insuring agreement is so broad, the policy contains a list of exclusions that more clearly define the coverage provided by the policy. Insurance companies do not put exclusions in policies simply to get out of paying legitimate claims. Exclusions are designed to eliminate coverage that should be provided by other policies the insured purchases, to eliminate coverage for catastrophic or uninsurable events such as nuclear war, or to keep premiums reasonable by covering only those events that are potentially serious for the insured. There is no reason an insurance policy could not cover absolutely every situation— except for the fact that no one could afford to pay the premium.

Endorsements

Insurance policies are designed with the average policyholder in mind. Since people have special needs, policies must be modified or tailored using endorsements. An endorsement is a policy change.

Who Can Purchase a Personal Auto Policy?

The Personal Auto Policy is intended for individuals and families who own or lease private passenger automobiles. A private passenger automobile is a car, van, station wagon, pick-up truck, or sport utility vehicle (SUV). The PAP has some restrictions on pick-ups and vans. They must weigh less than 10,000 pounds and not be used to deliver merchandise.

The reason for the restriction is simply to ensure that commercial-type vehicles are not covered using a Personal Auto Policy. A separate policy is available for businesses and other organizations that own commercial vehicles.

Individuals and married couples who own or lease private passenger automobiles may be insured under the PAP. Unrelated people who live in the same household and share ownership of a vehicle also may be insured by the PAP, provided each is listed as an individual.

Summary of Coverage in the Personal Auto Policy

In addition to a declarations page, an insuring agreement, and a definitions section, the Personal Auto Policy contains six additional sections or parts:

Part A — Liability Coverage

This section provides protection when you are held legally responsible to others for bodily injury or property damage that is caused by an auto accident. Coverage is generally provided when:

- ◆ You or your family members are using your own car (“your covered auto”)
- ◆ You are using someone else’s vehicle (a non-owned auto)
- ◆ Other drivers are using your car with permission You are covered when you use any auto. You have coverage under your own auto policy while driving your own car, when you borrow a friend’s car, or when you rent a car. Also, people who use your car with your permission are covered by your policy. Let’s say you loan your SUV to a friend who uses it to go skiing. While returning from the ski trip, she has an accident and injures several people who are in another vehicle. She would be insured under your Personal Auto Policy. The insurance policy that covers the car is considered the primary insurance. Any coverage the driver has is secondary.

Let’s look at the definition of some of the terms used in this part of the policy:

Bodily Injury (BI) is bodily harm, sickness, or disease, including death. This coverage applies when your car injures people in other vehicles, pedestrians or bicyclists, or passengers in your vehicle.

Property Damage (PD) is physical injury to or destruction of or loss of use of tangible property.

This coverage does not only apply to other vehicles, but also to buildings, telephone poles, fences, or any other property you might damage with your vehicle. The last part of this definition is important. If you hit someone and it takes 5 days to repair their vehicle, they will probably have to rent a car to get to work or school. The cost of their rental car is covered under your property damage coverage since it represents the “loss of use” of the vehicles.

Your Covered Auto includes four different types of vehicles that are covered under the PAP:

- ◆ The vehicles listed in the declarations (your car)
- ◆ A newly acquired vehicle (subject to certain restrictions), which means a new car you purchase in addition to one you already own or as a replacement for one you own
- ◆ A trailer you own
- ◆ A temporary substitute vehicle, which is one being used by you while your car is out of service due to breakdown, repair, servicing, loss, or destruction. If you take your car to the shop and they loan you a vehicle while yours is being fixed, it is considered a temporary substitute auto.

You means the person whose name is shown on the declarations page and your spouse if they reside with you.

Family Member means a person related to you by blood, marriage, or adoption who lives in your household.

These definitions are also important for the following sections of the PAP.

The limit of coverage under Part A is expressed as a dollar amount per person for Bodily Injury, a total amount of Bodily Injury for each accident (no matter how many people are hurt), and an amount for Property Damage for each accident. The minimum limit under any policy is the state financial responsibility limit.

Let's look at an example of how this coverage applies in the event of an accident. Let's say you live in Georgia, where the minimum limit for an auto policy is $25,000 per person for BI, $50,000 per accident for BI, and $25,000 for PD. One rainy day, while driving your best friend to work, you swerve to avoid a pothole in the road. Unfortunately, you don't notice the car in the next lane until it is too late. You hit the other vehicle, causing it to swerve off the road, striking a fence. There is a mother and her small child in the other car. As a result of your negligence, the following injuries and damage occur:

1. Damage to the fence: $3,000
2. Injuries to your best friend in your vehicle: $2,000
3. Injuries to the small child: $10,000
4. Injuries to the other driver: $35,000
5. Damage to the other vehicle: $28,000

The maximum amount that can be paid to any one person is $25,000. Therefore, the policy will pay your friend's claim for injuries in full. The injuries to the child will also be paid in full. The medical costs for the other driver, however, will only be paid up to the per person limit of $25,000—leaving you to pay the balance of $10,000 out of your own pocket. The total of all injuries payable under the policy ($3,000 + $10,000 + $35,000) is $47,000, less than the per accident limit of $50,000. As far as Property Damage, the total amount available under the policy is only $25,000. The cost of all the damage, however, is $31,000.

This leaves you responsible for $6,000, plus the $10,000 in Bodily Injury you owe. We will discuss the importance of having adequate limits in a later section of this topic.

Part B—Medical Payments Coverage (Med Pay)

Medical payments coverage pays for medical expenses for you, your family members, and passengers in your car that result from auto accidents.

You are also covered when you are a passenger in another vehicle or when you are a pedestrian if a vehicle hits you. This coverage is not based on fault, so you are entitled to the coverage even if you are the cause of the accident.

The limit for Medical Payments applies per person, and there is no limit on the number of persons. Most people purchase a limit of between $1,000 and $5,000 for this coverage, although higher limits are available.

Part C—Uninsured Motorists Coverage (UM)

Uninsured Motorists coverage pays you if you are struck by someone who does not have insurance. It also would pay if you were hit by a hit-and-run driver. The fact that you don't know who hit you means you are unable to determine whether or not they have insurance, so it is assumed they do not. Coverage is also provided if you or your family members are struck as pedestrians by a vehicle that is not insured.

You will collect whatever amount of injuries or damage the other person is legally responsible for. Note that you cannot collect from your insurance company simply because the other person's insurance company refuses to pay your claim. When this happens, it is usually due to the fact that the other party's insurer feels their policyholder was not at fault, and therefore is not legally responsible for the accident. In addition, by definition, they are not uninsured. The limits for UM coverage are usually the same as those under Part A—Liability. They may be increased in most cases. In most states, an insurance company must include UM coverage in every policy that provides liability protection, unless the insured rejects the coverage by signing an acknowledgment that they do not wish to have the coverage. Given the large number of automobiles driven by people who do not carry insurance, it is usually an unwise decision to refuse UM coverage.

Underinsured Motorists Coverage (UIM)

Think about this situation—if you are hit by an uninsured driver, you may be able to collect under your own Uninsured Motorists coverage.

Let's say your UM limits are $50,000 per person, $100,000 per accident. What if the person who hits you is insured, but their liability limits are only $25,000/$50,000. Given the large number of automobiles driven by people who do not carry insurance, it is usually an unwise decision to refuse UM coverage.

You would be better off if they had no insurance at all, because your Uninsured Motorists coverage would pay more than their liability limits! To rectify this situation, insurers also include what is called Underinsured Motorists coverage.

The 2008 Georgia Legislature passed the following legislation and it awaits the Governor's signature to become effective January 1, 2009.

If you are hit by a driver whose liability limits are less than your UM, the UIM coverage will pay the difference between the amount covered under their policy and your UM limit.

An example might be helpful. Let's say you insure your automobile with $50,000 per person and $100,000 per accident Uninsured Motorists coverage. You are struck by a vehicle and the driver carries only the minimum financial responsibility limits required in the state, $25,000 per person, $50,000 per accident. You are seriously injured and your medical bills amount to $35,000. The other driver has only $25,000 in coverage available to pay for your injuries. The balance, $10,000, would be paid by your Underinsured Motorists coverage, since the limit of the other person's insurance is less than yours.

Uninsured Motorists Property Damage (UMPD)

Uninsured Motorists coverage was originally designed to pay for your injuries when struck by an uninsured driver. However, if the other party has no insurance, who will pay for the damage to your car? If you carry insurance for Collision, your policy would pay, but you would be responsible for the first $100, $250, or $500 of the damage due to your deductible.

If you don't carry Collision insurance, as we discussed above, you would have to pay the damages yourself. Since that situation seemed unfair to policyholders, insurance companies began to include UMPD coverage as an option.

Part D-Damage to Your Auto

The final section of the Personal Auto Policy is Damage to Your Auto. There are actually two different coverages provided by this section of the policy:

- ◆ Collision, which covers damage caused by impact with another vehicle or object, or overturn of your vehicle;
- ◆ Other Than Collision, also called Comprehensive coverage, which provides protection from theft, fire, windstorm or hail, flood, falling objects, collision with a bird or animal, and virtually all other types of physical loss to the vehicle EXCEPT:
 - ◆ Road damage to tires (a flat tire or blowout)
 - ◆ Mechanical breakdown (the engine just quits running)
 - ◆ Wear and tear (the car simply gets old)

There is no limit in this section of the policy.

The amount you will receive if your car is damaged is the actual cash value of the vehicle, or the cost to repair the damage. In some cases the amount to be paid by the insurance company is simply the cost to make repairs to the vehicle and a check is usually issued to the body shop. In other cases, the vehicle is "totaled", meaning the cost to repair it is more than the value of the car. In this case the insurance company will pay a sum of money as compensation for the loss of the car.

Determining the actual cash value of an automobile can be tricky. We always think our car is in better shape than the average car and therefore, expect to be reimbursed based on our estimation of what the car is worth. The insurance company will probably determine the value of the car based on what similarly equipped vehicles are selling for in the used car market. That may be more or less than you think is a fair settlement.

Part D of the Personal Auto Policy contains a deductible provision, or an amount you must be responsible for when you have a loss. You must retain $100, $250, or $500 of each loss. You may choose the deductible that represents your ability to pay in the event of a loss. That means that if you have a very small loss, such as a broken window or a scrape on your fender, your insurance company would pay nothing and you would have to absorb the cost yourself.

Section D of the policy is not required and there may be certain situations when your client would decide not to have this coverage under their policy. For example, if you have an old car that has a very low value, you might forego physical damage insurance since the cost of the coverage over time might be more than the value of the car if it is damaged. If you could replace the car for $4,000 and the cost of Comprehensive and Collision coverage was $800 per year, you would probably decide to not have the coverage since in five years the total amount of the insurance premiums would equal the value of the car. You could just save the $800 each year, put it in a savings account, and withdraw the money when you need it to buy another car. Hopefully, you are able to go five years without an accident, so the value of your savings account would be $5,000 plus interest!

Part E and Part F—Duties After an Accident or Loss and General Provisions

The final two portions of the Personal Auto Policy outline certain duties of the policyholder and the company in the event of an auto insurance claim. When you have a claim you must:

- ◆ Notify the company of when and where the accident happened, including the names of any people injured or witnesses to the accident
- ◆ Cooperate with the insurance company as they attempt to settle your claim
- ◆ Notify the police if struck by a hit-and-run driver
- ◆ Notify the police if your vehicle is stolen
- ◆ Allow the insurance company to inspect the damage to your auto before it is repaired

You may cancel your auto insurance at any time you wish by notifying the company or your agent. The insurance company may cancel your insurance if they notify you in writing of their desire to do so. They may do this when you fail to make premium payments or when you have your driver's license suspended or revoked.

We said that insurance offers protection against the risk of financial loss. In this section we will look at the causes of such loss and the kinds of loss that can result. We will also define some frequently used insurance terms.

There are three major kinds of financial loss:

Property Loss

- ♦ Loss of property itself
- ♦ Loss of income from property

Loss of Health or Earning Capacity

- e. Disability
- f. Unemployment
- g. Retirement
- h. Death

Liability Loss

- ♦ If legally liable for the consequences of certain acts or omissions

The chart above summarizes the kinds of financial loss that insurance protects against. Your goal in developing a sound insurance program for your customers is to provide protection in each of these areas. As we examine various personal lines products, you will see how coverages have been included to cover potential losses in each of these areas.

This section deals with the third category: liability loss. Such a loss results when the individual is found legally liable for the consequences of acts or omissions resulting in damages or losses to other parties. Financial losses that result can include legal fees, court costs, fines, the amount of judgments awarded by the court, the costs of out-of-court settlements, and the long-term effect that a lawsuit might have on the person's reputation and earning capacity. Negligence is the most common reason for a liability lawsuit where the defendant is charged with failing to exercise proper care in protecting others.

Personal Liability Coverages

Where property coverage protects the insured's home and property, liability coverage provides protection when other persons claim the insured damaged their property or caused them bodily injury. The amount the insurance company will pay depends on the amount of coverage your customer selects. This amount is again shown under the Limit of Liability column on the declaration page.

Personal liability coverage applies when the insured is obligated by law to assume responsibility for an action that caused property damage or bodily injury to another party. Liability coverage does not cover damage to the insured's own property—only that of visitors, neighbors, or others in some way affected by the actions of the insured. Two examples will help illustrate personal liability coverage:

This coverage applies for the well-known confrontation between the family dog and the mail carrier. The claim will be paid if the dog bite occurs on the insured property or if the actual biting occurs after a chase down the street.

The insured is burning leaves on his property when a gust of wind sends the fire out of control. His fence and the neighbor's tool shed are damaged in the fire. In this accident only the neighbor's shed is covered by the Personal Liability coverage. The fence will be covered by the Other Structures coverage of his policy under Property Coverages.

Medical payments to others coverage pays for medical expenses of people other than the insured, when those expenses are due to an accident caused in some way by the insured. This coverage provides a way of maintaining neighborly relations without having to prove who is legally responsible for the accident. Medical payments coverage applies to accidents happening on the insured location or off that location if the accident is caused by the insured family and even the pet.

A neighbor's child breaks her arm when she falls from a sliding board in the insured's backyard. The medical expenses resulting from that accident will be covered, regardless of who was to blame for the accident

The insured's liability coverage is thus automatically extended to many locations beyond the insured premises.

As was true with property coverages, there are certain additional payments in the liability section of the homeowner's policy. These payments are made over and above the limits shown on the declaration page.

- ◆ To pay for minor damage to the property of others without regard for legal liability For example, this provides payment for accidentally throwing an object through the neighbor's window.
- ◆ To defend a claim or lawsuit against the insured but only as long as the limit of liability has not been used up in paying settlements or judgments.
- ◆ To pay premiums on appeal bonds when a judgment has gone against the insured and the judgment is appealed. Also to pay premiums on attachment bonds which guarantees payment of the original judgment if the home or property is sold.
- ◆ To reimburse the insured for wages or salary lost when attending hearings or trials at the insurer's request.
- ◆ To reimburse the insured for providing first-aid expenses at the scene of the accident.

C. Umbrella / Excess Liability

Umbrella insurance is not just for the wealthy. With the common occurrence of lawsuits, it is a must for every home, auto and watercraft owner. As many Americans are finding out, you don't have to be a millionaire to be sued like one. Umbrella, or excess liability insurance, provides additional liability coverage for specific risks once a policy's coverage limit has been exhausted. It also provides additional liability for certain risks that would not be covered by the primary insurance policy.

The more you have, the more protection you need

The more your earning power and assets increase, the more you have at risk, and therefore, the more you need to protect.

If you think you need at least a million dollars of additional protection above your current homeowners or automobile liability limits, you can purchase something called excess liability. Often referred to as an umbrella policy, excess liability is the additional protection you need in case a judgment against you exceeds the liability limits of your existing auto or homeowners policy. Available in amounts ranging from one to five million dollars, excess liability coverage increases your personal liability limits by adding protection to your current auto, boat or homeowners policies.

Why liability coverage from your homeowners and auto policy may not be enough

Homeowners insurance usually provides a minimum of $100,000 liability coverage (the coverage that protects you when people are injured or property is damaged due to circumstances in which you or your family are responsible). Although it varies widely by state, the typical minimum liability protection for auto insurance is around $25,000 per person and $50,000 per accident.

With both of these coverages you can purchase higher limits (or amounts) of liability protection...but the most that can be purchased is $500,000 for homeowners policies or $250,000 per person, $500,000 per accident for auto insurance. Again, this may not be enough protection in today's lawsuit frenzied environment where million dollar judgments are fast becoming the rule rather than the exception, even for seemingly minor situations.

To understand more about what excess liability coverage is, and how it can help you, please review the following topics:

What is Excess Liability?

Available in amounts ranging up to five million dollars, excess liability coverage increases your personal liability limits by adding protection to your current auto, boat or homeowners policies. Also, if something is not covered in your homeowners policy (like libel), and it's not specifically excluded in the excess liability policy, you're covered.

Coverage provided

Excess liability coverage provides:

- Protection for covered claims by others for personal injury or property damage caused by you, members of your family/household, or hazards on your property for which you are legally liable
- Personal liability coverage for occurrences on or off your premises
- An additional layer of protection above your primary auto policy against auto-related liabilities

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Study Manual

- Protection against non-business related personal injury liabilities such as slander, libel, wrongful eviction or false arrest
- Legal defense costs for a covered loss. Lawyer fees and associated court costs are covered
- Worldwide coverage- no matter where you go, with the only exception being situations involving foreign ownership of dwellings or cars

How it works

Depending on the type of accident, your homeowners, auto or boat policy liability limits are used up first, then the excess liability policy covers all remaining costs (up to the amounts of coverage you purchased). For example, if your neighbor dove into your swimming pool and broke his neck, your homeowners liability coverage would pay for the first $100,000 in damages. Your excess liability policy would cover the rest (including associated legal fees) up to the one million dollar policy amount that you had purchased.

Most companies require that you carry certain limits on your primary insurance policies (homeowners, auto and boat) in order to receive excess liability coverage. For example, a company may require the following primary liability limits: $100,000 for homeowners, $250,000 per person/$500,000 per accident for auto and $300,000 for boat/yacht coverage.

Some Definitions

Insurance products tend to get loaded down with legal-sounding jargon, especially a product that specifically deals with circumstances for which you are legally responsible. Therefore, a few common definitions might help clear up any confusion:

Personal Liability: Coverage for damages that you are legally liable (responsible) for. This includes incidents occurring at your home and/or caused by you, residents of your household or your pets. Here are some common examples: your dog bites someone, a guest falls down your front steps, your teenage son rough-houses with his buddy and accidentally breaks that friend's leg!

Personal Injury: This all-inclusive definition covers many predicaments. Personal injury can take many forms, including: bodily injury, shock, emotional distress, mental anguish, sickness or disease, or death arising from any of the above. Personal injury also means false arrest, detention or imprisonment, malicious prosecution, wrongful entry or eviction, humiliation, libel or slander, defamation of character or invasion of privacy.

Property Damage: Accidental damage to the property of others caused by you, residents of your household, or your pets.

Exclusions

Often, insurance policies are defined not by what they cover, but by what they don't. This is especially true for excess liability products. If something is not specifically excluded, you're covered. Exclusions vary widely by company. Here are some common exclusions:

- damages expected or intended by insured.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Study Manual

- damages arising out of business or professional pursuits.
- liability assumed under contract or agreement.
- liability arising out of ownership, maintenance, use, loading or unloading of aircraft.
- liability arising out of ownership, maintenance or use of non-traditional watercraft such as jet skis, air boats or air cushions.
 - liability arising out of ownership, maintenance or use of most recreational vehicles. Only snowmobiles and golf carts are covered.
- damages to property you take care of, own or use.
- damages covered under a Workman's Compensation policy.
- liability arising out of war or insurrection.

How much is enough?

Obviously, determining how much coverage is right for you is a personal decision. Much depends on the value of the current assets you have to protect. However, there are also other factors to take into consideration. What will the value of your future assets be? Are you involved in activities that put you at greater risk? Do you have teenagers? Do they drive? Your local independent agent can help you determine the coverage amount that works best for you.

1. Errors and Omissions

Professionals that operate their own businesses need professional liability insurance in addition to an in-home business or business owner's policy. This protects them against financial losses from lawsuits filed against them by their clients.

Professionals are expected to have extensive technical knowledge or training in their particular area of expertise. They are also expected to perform the services for which they were hired, according to the standards of conduct in their profession. If they fail to use the degree of skill expected of them, they can be held responsible in a court of law for any harm they cause to another person or business. When liability is limited to acts of negligence, professional liability insurance may be called "errors and omissions" liability.

Professional liability insurance is a specialty coverage. Professional liability coverage is not provided under homeowner's endorsements, in-home business policies or business owner's policies (BOPs).

A Few Tips on Buying Your E&O...

by Curtis M. Pearsall, Vice President, Agents' Errors and Omissions Department

Let me ask you a question. Would you agree that buying the E&O to protect your agency is one of the most important business decisions you will make this year? To really answer that question requires that you think about the ramifications of the other decisions that you will be making. There is no doubt that you, as the agency principle, will make a multitude of major decisions that will impact your agency not only today but for tomorrow as well. However, making the wrong decision on your E&O could mean that your agency will not have a tomorrow.

Make sure that your policy covers what you do. It is important to realize that no two E&O policies are the same. The differences are numerous from the coverage trigger (what constitutes a claim) to the activities that are covered to who is even covered under the policy. So when purchasing this vital coverage for your agency, make sure that you review the policy. If you are switching coverage from one carrier to another, demand a specimen policy so that you can sure to know what coverage the policy provides. Would it rather know right up front what is and what is not covered or would you rather find out at the time of the loss.

If you are involved in selling Life and A&H coverages, make sure that the policy handles this. What about Mutual Funds, Stocks and Bonds? Is there coverage for those activities?

Choosing the right policy limit is critical. Many agency owners may contend that their $2million limit is sufficient but is it really? There is no real magic formula to determine the right limit but there are some things to consider when making this decision. An old wives tale used to state that you should buy a limit equal to the maximum limit of any of the policies you provide. There is a tremendous fallacy to this, which essentially factors in the types of claims that an agent can be exposed to. For my 18 years with Utica, the # 1 cause of claims is "failure to provide the proper coverage." So in essence, it is what you are not providing that is not going to get you into the trouble most of the time. You write the auto with a $500,000 limit and the homeowners with a $300,000 limit and fail to recommend a $1,000,000 personal umbrella. A tragic accident occurs. It is the failure to recommend the personal umbrella that you run the risk of getting sued for.

Before you think that $1,000,000 is not sufficient, I could fill up a book with claim stories involving uninsured underlying losses over $1,000,000 and in fact, there are a lot of uninsured underlying losses over $10,000,000. If memories serves me correctly, one of the biggest that Utica faced involved a claim with a $38,000,000 uninsured exposure! To avoid getting dramatic, let's say that you were sued by one of your customers for $5,000,000. You turn the claim into your E&O carrier and think that everything is fine. You then find out that you have a policy limit of $2,000,000, which means that if a judgment is rendered against your agency for $5,000,000, you are going to be short by $3,000,000. Assuming that you don't have this type of cash lying around, you may be forced to sell your agency. Everything you worked so hard for is now gone. Don't let that happen. Buy sufficient limits to protect your agency. Insure that your assets are protected.

Buy a deductible that you can afford and that makes good business sense. As with the limit, there is no magic formula for the right deductible. A general rule of thumb in the industry is to take your premium volume and multiply it by .001. So a $10,000,000 agency should have a $10,000 deductible. Once again, nothing scientific but generally it accomplishes what many E&O carriers like – for agencies to have some “skin in the game.” There are different types of deductibles – a combined deductible means that claims expenses are part of your responsibility whether you did anything wrong or not while a loss only deductible means that you only have to pay your deductible if you are found negligent. Make sure that you know what you have. Ask your E&O carrier for options so that you can see what the premium difference will be. This will enable you to make an educated decision.

There are additional issues such as “what happens if you have a claim the first year that you are with your new carrier” Many carriers that have not been writing this coverage may non renew you. Now you have a new claim on your record, which is not going to make you very attractive to another carrier. Utica has been writing this class of business for 40 years and there is certainly no way that we would be a market leader if we non-renewed every agency the first year they were with us.

So take the purchase of your E&O seriously – it is one of the most important business decisions you will make.

 - c. Such aggregate deductible amount applies in conjunction with any and all "loss" deductible amounts, whether set forth in the policy Declarations or in endorsements forming a part of the policy.
6. Deductible
 - a. If the block in the Declarations labeled "Deductible Applies To: Loss Only" is checked, the insured shall pay the deductible amount set forth in the Declarations for each "loss." The deductible does not include "claim expense."

- b. If the block in the Declarations labeled "Deductible Applies To: Loss And Litigation Expense" is checked, the insured shall pay the deductible amount set forth in the Declarations for each "loss." The deductible will be applied to payments for both "loss" and "litigation expense" as defined in the policy.
- c. We may pay any part or all of the deductible amount to effect settlement of any "claim" or "suit" and, upon notification of the action taken, you shall promptly reimburse us for such part of the deductible amount as has been paid by us.
- d. Such deductible amounts shall, upon written demand by the company, be paid by the Named Insured within ten days. The total payments requested from the insured with respect to each "loss" shall not exceed the applicable deductible amount stated in the policy.

The determination of the company as to the reasonableness of the "litigation expense" shall be conclusive for all parties.

SECTION VI - CONDITIONS

1. Duties In The Event Of "Wrongful Act," "Claim" Or "Suit"

- a. You must see to it that we are notified in writing as soon as practicable of any "wrongful act" which may result in a "claim." To the extent possible, notice should include:
 - (1) How, when and where the "wrongful act" took place;
 - (2) The names and addresses of persons involved in the "wrongful act" and witnesses; and
 - (3) The nature of the harm resulting from the "wrongful act."
- b. If a "claim" is received by an insured, you must:
 - (1) Immediately record the specifics of the "claim" and the date received; and
 - (2) Notify us as soon as practicable. You must see to it that we receive written notice of the "claim" as soon as practicable.
- c. You and any other involved insured must:
 - (1) Immediately send us copies of any demands, notices, summonses, subpoenas or legal papers received in connection with the "claim" or "suit";
 - (2) Authorize us to obtain records and other information;

- (3) Cooperate with us in the investigation, settlement, or defense of the "claim" or "suit"; and

- (4) Assist us, upon our request, in the enforcement of any right against any person or organization which may be liable to an insured because of "loss" to which this insurance may also apply.

- d. No insured will, except at that insured's own cost, voluntarily make a payment, assume any obligation, or incur any expense without our consent.

2. Settlement - Consent Of The Insured

We shall not settle any "claim" without the consent of the insured. If, however, the insured:

- a. Refuses to consent to any settlement recommended by us and elects to contest the "claim" or continue any legal proceeding in connection with such "claim," then our liability for the "claim" will not exceed the lesser of the amount for which the "claim" could have been settled or the Limits Of Liability plus the incurred "claims expense" up to the time of such refusal.

- b. Cannot be located by us after a search using reasonable diligence, then we will use our best efforts to make such settlement as we deem appropriate considering the circumstances and facts.

3. Other Insurance

This insurance is excess over any other applicable insurance whether such insurance is primary, excess, contributory, contingent, or otherwise and whether such insurance is collectible or not; unless such other insurance is written to be specifically excess over the insurance provided by this policy.

4. Transfer Of Rights Of Recovery Against Others To Us

If the insured has rights to recover all or part of any payment we have made under this policy, those rights are transferred to us. The insured must do nothing after a "wrongful act" to prejudice such rights. At our request, the insured will bring "suit" or transfer those rights to us and help us enforce them. Any amounts recovered will be applied to reduce the amount we paid for "loss" and expense (after application of the deductible) before being applied to reduce your deductible.

5. Cancellation

- a. The first Named Insured shown in the Declarations may cancel this policy by mailing or delivering to us advance written notice of cancellation.
- b. We may cancel this policy by mailing or delivering to the first Named Insured written notice of cancellation at least:
 - (1) 10 days before the effective date of cancellation, if we cancel for nonpayment of premium; or
 - (2) 60 days before the effective date of cancellation, if we cancel for any other reason.
- c. We will mail or deliver our notice of cancellation to the first Named Insured's last mailing address known to us.
- d. The notice of cancellation will state the effective date of cancellation. The "policy period" will end on that date.
- e. If this policy is canceled, we will send the first Named Insured any premium refund due. If we cancel, any refund will be pro rata. If the first Named Insured cancels, the refund may be less than pro rata. The cancellation will be effective even if we have not made or offered a refund.
- f. If notice of cancellation is mailed, proof of mailing will be sufficient proof of notice.

6. Premium

The first Named Insured shown in the Declarations:

- a. Is responsible for the payment of all premiums and deductibles; and
- b. If the premium is not financed, will be the payee for any return premium; but
- c. If the premium is financed the Named Insured authorizes us to pay any return premium to the premium finance company.

7. Nonrenewal

If we decide not to renew this policy, we will mail or deliver to the first Named Insured shown in the Declarations written notice of the nonrenewal not less than 60 days before the expiration date. If notice is mailed, proof of mailing will be sufficient proof of notice.

8. Your Right To "Claim" And "Wrongful Act" Information

We will provide the first Named Insured shown in the Declarations the following information relating to this and any other Insurance Agents and Brokers Errors and Omissions Liability claims-made policy we have issued to you during the previous three years:

- a. A list or other record of each "wrongful act," not previously reported to any other insurer, of which we were notified in accordance with paragraph 1.a. of this Section. We will include the date and a brief description of the "wrongful act" if that information was in the notice we received.
- b. A summary by policy year, of payments made and amounts reserved, stated separately under the applicable Aggregate Limit.

Amounts reserved are based on our judgment. They are subject to change and should not be regarded as ultimate settlement values. You must not disclose this information to any claimant or any claimant's representative without our consent.

If we cancel or elect not to renew this policy, we will provide such information no later than 30 days before the date of policy termination. In other circumstances, we will provide this information only if we receive a written request from the first Named Insured. In this case, we will provide this information within 45 days of receipt of the request.

We compile "claim" and "wrongful act" information for our own business purposes and exercise reasonable care in doing so. In providing information to the first Named Insured, we make no representations or warranties to insureds, insurers, or others to whom this information is furnished by or on behalf of any insured. Cancellation or nonrenewal will be effective even if we inadvertently provide inaccurate or incomplete information.

9. Action Against Company

No action shall lie against us unless, as a condition precedent thereto, there shall have been full compliance with all of the terms of this policy, nor until the amount of the insured's obligation to pay shall have been finally determined either by judgment after actual trial or by written agreement of the insured, the claimant, and us.

Any person or organization or the legal representative thereof, who is signatory to such judgment or written agreement, shall thereafter be able to recover under this policy to the extent of the insurance afforded by this policy. No person or organization shall have any right under this policy to join us as a party to any action against an insured to determine the insured's liability, nor shall we be impleaded by an insured or an insured's legal representative.

10. Bankruptcy

Bankruptcy or insolvency of the insured shall not relieve us of any of our obligations hereunder.

11. Changes

This policy embodies all agreements existing between each insured and us or any of our agents relating to this insurance. Only the first Named Insured shown in the Declarations is authorized to request changes in the terms of this policy. This policy's terms can be amended or waived only by endorsement issued by us and made a part of this policy.

12. Agency Of Named Insured

By acceptance of this policy the first Named Insured agrees to act on behalf of all insureds with respect to the giving and receiving of notices to and from us, the cancellation of this policy, the payment of premiums and deductibles when due, and the receiving of any return premiums that may become due. In addition, all insureds agree that the first Named Insured shall act on their behalf. If the first Named Insured does not comply with the obligations under this policy then each Named Insured agrees that it will be responsible for the payment of premiums and deductibles when due.

13. Sale, Transfer, Or Assignment

The controlling interest of any insured under this policy shall not be assignable to any other person without our written consent. In the event of the death or incompetency of the insured, this policy shall cover the insured's legal representative as an insured as respects any liability of that insured which is covered by this policy.

Coverage under this policy may end on the date ownership of (or stock which comprises a controlling interest in) any Named Insured is sold, transferred, or assigned unless our written consent is obtained before said date.

14. Application

By acceptance of this policy, you affirm as of the effective date of this policy that the statements in the application attached hereto and made a part hereof are each insured's agreements and representations and that we have issued this policy in reliance upon the truth and accuracy of such representations.

15. Conformance To Statute

Any terms of this policy which conflict with the statutes of the state where this policy is issued are hereby amended to conform to such statutes.

16. Liberalization Clause

If, after the effective date of this policy or of the latest renewal certificate attached thereto, we adopt revised provisions for this policy form affording broader coverage with no premium increase, then this policy shall be construed in accordance with the revised provisions as of the effective date of such revision.

17. Notification of Newly Acquired or Formed Organizations

If you acquire or form a new organization, you shall notify us by either the end of the policy period or 90 days after the effective date of such changes, whichever comes first.

SECTION VII - EXTENDED REPORTING PERIODS

1. We will provide an Automatic Extended Reporting Period as described in paragraph 3., or if you purchase it, an Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement as described in paragraphs 4. through 7. below, in the event of any "termination of coverage."

2. a. If we provide an Extended Reporting Period, a "claim" first made during the Extended Reporting Period will be deemed to have been made during the "policy period," provided that the claim is for "loss" from "wrongful acts" which took place before the end of the "policy period" (but not before any applicable Retroactive Date).

b. Extended Reporting Periods

(1) Do not extend the "policy period" or change the scope of coverage provided;

(2) Do not reinstate or increase the Limits of Liability applicable to any "claim" to which this policy applies, except to the extent described in paragraph 7. below;

(3) Apply only to the coverage terminated or reduced; and

3. Automatic 60 Day Extended Reporting Period

The Automatic Extended Reporting Period is provided without additional charge. This period starts with the end of the "policy period" and lasts for sixty (60) days. The Automatic Extended Reporting Period may not be cancelled.

4. Optional Extended Reporting Period

If this policy is subject to any "termination of coverage," then you shall have an option to purchase an Optional Extended Reporting Period according to the schedule in 5. below.

5. Available Options

If you purchase the Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement, the Optional Extended Reporting Period will start sixty (60) days after the end of the "policy period" and will last:

- f. One hundred and twenty (120) months for a premium of 200% of the last full annual premium.

6. Optional Extended Reporting Period Notice and Acceptance.

a. We will notify you in writing within thirty (30) days of the date of "termination of coverage" of the premium for and provisions of the Extended Reporting Period unless we cancel for nonpayment of premium or fraudulent activities of an insured.

If the policy is cancelled for nonpayment of premium or fraudulent activities of an insured, we will only provide a premium quotation for the Optional Extended Reporting Period upon your request.

- b. You will have until the later of sixty (60) days after the date of "termination of coverage," or thirty (30) days after the date of mailing of the Extended Reporting Period notice provided for above, to request the Optional Extended Reporting Period. Your request must:
 - (1) Be submitted to us in writing;
 - (2) Show the length of the period of extension desired; and
 - (3) Include payment of the premium for the requested extension.
- c. If such request and premium payment are not received, the Extended Reporting Period options may not be exercised at a later date.
- d. If, in the event of "termination of coverage" you elect to purchase the Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement:

- (1) Any return premium due you for the "termination of coverage" will be credited to the premium due for the Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement; and

- (2) Any additional premium or deductible amount due us for the period the policy was in force must be fully paid before any payments will be applied to the premium due for the Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement.

e. The Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement will not take effect unless the additional premium is paid when due. If that premium is paid when due, the Endorsement may not be cancelled.

f. The premium for the Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement:

- (1) Is determined as shown above or in any endorsement changing the premium because of any change in the nature or extent of the risk during the "policy period";

- (2) Will be commensurate with the coverage provided; and

- (3) Will be fully earned when the Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement takes effect.

g. The Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement shall set forth the terms, not inconsistent with this Section, applicable to the Optional Extended Reporting Period including a provision to the effect that the insurance afforded for "claims" made during such period is excess over any other valid and collectible insurance available under policies in force after the Optional Extended Reporting Period starts.

7. Optional Extended Reporting Period Aggregate Limit

If you purchase the Optional Extended Reporting Period Endorsement, the each "loss" limit shown in the Declarations will continue to apply. Subject to the each "loss" limit, we will provide a single aggregate limit of liability for the entire Optional Extended Reporting Period equal to the Aggregate Limit of Liability entered in the Declarations.

The Optional Extended Reporting Period aggregate limit of liability described above applies only for "claims" first made during the Optional Extended Reporting Period.

What Is Insurance?

Insurance policies can be difficult to understand and even more difficult to explain to your customers. Few customers are knowledgeable about insurance, and yet they have very real insurance needs—for automobile and homeowners insurance and, in some cases, for extended coverage for personal articles, personal liability and personal boats. They look to you for technical knowledge and guidance when writing and renewing their policies and making claims.

Insurance is a product that offers protection from the risk of financial loss. By paying a relatively small premium, the insured transfers risk to the insurer and is protected from a much larger loss. The insurer shares risk by collecting premiums from many insureds and pooling the premiums in a large reserve fund. While each insured may experience occasional losses, these happen only on an irregular and uncertain basis. Losses that do occur are paid from the reserve.

As a product, insurance is much like other products our customers buy. Insurance companies — like other manufacturers — identify profitable groups of customers, design products with benefits that will attract those customers, and then sell those products through distributors (agents and brokers). Yet most customers fail to recognize the benefits of insurance as readily as they do the benefits of other products.

Car manufacturers design cars with features and styling that will appeal to specific customer groups. Through advertising they highlight those special features and—with the help of car dealers—convince prospects to buy.

Car buyers have little trouble appreciating the benefits of their purchase. Whenever they drive their cars or see them parked in the driveway they are reminded of what the product does for them.

Not so for insurance policies. Insurance customers purchase policies, file them away, and in most cases are reminded of the insurance only when it is time to pay the premium again.

Since actual losses are rare, they equate insurance with the policy—not the protection, the payment of losses, or the good nights' sleep that the policy represents.

This makes your job all the more challenging. You need the technical knowledge to explain the features and terms of insurance policies. But because of the nature of the product, you must go beyond that to explain the benefits of the coverage. You must tell your customers how they will feel once they are covered.

Prospects become insureds because they believe insurance will help them solve a problem or take advantage of an opportunity. They renew their policies because they believe your agency has not forgotten their best interests and because they are getting value-added service. Such service is continuous and repeats itself over policy periods — identifying the prospects' loss exposures, selecting the best coverages, convincing them to use your agency, encouraging them to buy optional insurances, answering questions accurately, resolving billing problems, and addressing their changing insurance needs.

Your answer to the question “What is insurance?” must go beyond policy coverages and features to include those services and benefits your customers will enjoy once they have your product.

Forms of Protection Against Loss

Your customers own property and engage in activities that expose them to loss. Some occurrences causing loss happen on a regular basis, some happen infrequently, some are possible but have not happened yet, some could not happen. By analyzing and identifying the frequency and severity of such risks, the customers' exposure to loss can be reduced or covered.

Insurance is not the only form of protection. In prevention, property or procedures are modified to eliminate any possibility of loss. Giving up skydiving eliminates your liability of falling on someone, not to mention the consequences that fall would have on your own health.

In reduction, measures are taken to minimize the extent of loss, even if the possibility of loss cannot be entirely eliminated. A smoke alarm may not stop a fire in your home and snow tires may not stop your car from skidding, but both reduce the seriousness of accidents that might occur. The insurance company sometimes sends pamphlets and brochures to its customers to advise them on reducing loss.

In retention, the customer decides to retain those risks that are relatively inexpensive. When deciding not to carry collision coverage on an older car, the customer is retaining risk. Any losses resulting from damage to the car will come out of the customer's pocket. The customer might retain only part of that risk by carrying collision coverage but with a deductible.

Some exposures cannot be eliminated or retained, and the risk must be transferred to an insurer. Without insurance few families could afford the property or liability risks of owning a car, a home, a boat, or any other valuable personal property. In some cases the customer does not have a choice. Auto registration is not permitted without insurance, and banks require insurance on automobiles and homes that they finance.

Insurance solutions should only be suggested when there is a clear understanding of the customer's situation. Obviously the final decision about what insurance to purchase rests with the customer. But in many cases that customer is looking to you for advice. That is what an analysis of the customer's risks provides—a sound basis for recommending a program of insurance.

Certain risks must be protected against because the loss would cause severe suffering. These risks call for essential coverages. Auto coverages required by law and mortgage coverage are in this category. Some risks may result in considerable loss which might jeopardize the financial condition of the customer. These call for desirable coverages.

Other risks may have only a remote chance of occurring or may cause only a financial inconvenience. These risks call for optional coverages — insurance that would be nice to have but only if the customer's budget permits.

Insurance packages today have been designed to meet the varied needs of most individuals. In many cases your customer's needs for essential, desirable, and optional coverages are available in those packaged policies which can then be customized through the use of deductibles and endorsements. Analyzing the needs of the customer and selecting the appropriate coverages and loss control measures is the first step to providing value-added service for your customers.

What Does Insurance Protect Against?

We said that insurance offers protection against the risk of financial loss. In this section we will look at the causes of such loss and the kinds of loss that can result. We will also define some frequently used insurance terms.

There are three major kinds of financial loss:

1. Property loss
2. Loss of health and earning capacity
3. Liability loss

Let's look at each a little more closely.

Property losses can involve tangible property, which includes real property and physical property, and intangible property. Real property is land and buildings, while physical property includes possessions and items found inside those buildings.

Tangible property is easy to identify; these are assets that clearly exist and have value for the owner.

Intangible property includes such things as copyrights, patents, or the right to use something—things that cannot be touched or seen but that still have a definite value for the owner

Consider the following accident to see the kinds of property loss that can result:

A house that is owned by Mrs. Jones and rented to the Smith family burns to the ground. Most of the furniture is owned by Mrs. Jones, while the rest of the items in the home belong to the Smiths. All are destroyed in the fire.

In this accident, Mrs. Jones has experienced a loss to her real property—the house itself. She has also suffered a loss to her physical property—the furniture burned in the fire. The Smiths too suffered a loss to their physical property—their personal possessions—and a loss to their intangible property—the right to occupy the space they rented in the home. And the property loss goes beyond this. Mrs. Jones will lose future income—her revenues will stop because the Smiths will no longer pay rent and her expenses will increase if she decides to rebuild the house.

A direct loss results when the property comes into direct contact with the cause of the loss. An indirect loss results as a consequence of the direct loss. In the above example, the direct loss is the loss of the home, the physical property, and the right to occupy the rental space, all of which resulted directly from the fire. The indirect loss is the loss of net income that Mrs. Jones will experience as a consequence of the fire.

What then are property losses? As you can see, the answer is not as simple and straightforward as you would expect. Property losses include the obvious loss to the property itself, but also the loss of future income resulting from the loss of that property. That loss of income may result from decreased revenues or from increased expenses to repair or replace the damaged property.

Loss of health and earning capacity is the second kind of financial loss. Disability, unemployment, retirement, and death all have the potential of eliminating sources of income and draining a family's bank account. There are many forms of protection against the loss of health or earning capacity, including life and health insurance, unemployment and disability compensation, financial services (such as individual retirement accounts), and specific coverages in personal lines products.

The third category is liability loss. Such a loss results when the individual is found legally liable for the consequences of acts or omissions resulting in damages or losses to other parties. Financial losses that result can include legal fees, court costs, fines, the amount of judgments awarded by the court, the costs of out-of-court settlements, and the long-term effect that a lawsuit might have on the person's reputation and earning capacity. Negligence is the most common reason for a liability lawsuit where the defendant is charged with failing to exercise proper care in protecting others.

Property Loss

- ◆ Loss of property itself
- ◆ Loss of income from property

Loss of Health or Earning Capacity

- ◆ Disability
- ◆ Unemployment
- ◆ Retirement
- ◆ Death

Liability Loss

- ◆ If legally liable for the consequences of certain acts or omissions

The chart above summarizes the kinds of financial loss that insurance protects against. Your goal in developing a sound insurance program for your customers is to provide protection in each of these areas. As we examine various personal lines products, you will see how coverages have been included to cover potential losses in each of these areas.

What causes such losses? There are many possible accidents, events, and conditions that can result in financial loss. When customers suffer a loss, they will usually notify you of the accident. You must get the facts and verify coverage. You must analyze the cause of the loss to determine whether the specific circumstances of the accident or event are covered in their policies.

Some coverages (specified peril) protect only against causes that are actually named in the policy. If the loss is caused by a peril that is not named in the policy the loss is not covered. Other coverages (all risk) protect against all perils except those excluded in the policy. This may seem like saying the same thing in two different ways — much like describing a partially-filled glass as half full or half-empty. Actually the kind of coverage will have an important effect on whether or not your customer is covered.

A peril is a potential cause of loss — an event that may take place and create a financial loss. There are many kinds of perils. Fire, lightning, windstorm, vandalism, theft, explosion, and collision are all perils that can cause loss. A hazard is a condition, activity operation, material, or combination of these which creates or increases the chance of a loss. Hazards and perils are often related. Ice on the highway is a hazard which increases the chance of the peril of collision.

Not all hazards are physical. A moral hazard is a deliberate attempt to cause a loss or even to intentionally overvalue property to collect the insurance. Arson is an excellent example of moral hazard. A morale hazard is not a deliberate action but rather an indifference to loss because the property is insured. Failing to lock your car because you know it is insured is an example of morale hazard.

As you will see, personal lines policies combine coverages that protect against perils and hazards. Generally coverages against property loss insure against perils, while coverages against liability loss insure against hazards. Yet the terms peril and hazard both define cause of possible loss, for which insurance provides protection.

A. Insurable Interest

A right, benefit, or advantage arising out of property that is of such nature that it may properly be indemnified.

In the law of insurance, the insured must have an interest in the subject matter of his or her policy, or such policy will be void and unenforceable since it will be regarded as a form of gambling. An individual ordinarily has an insurable interest when he or she will obtain some type of financial benefit from the preservation of the subject matter, or will sustain pecuniary loss from its destruction or impairment when the risk insured against occurs.

In certain jurisdictions, the innocent purchaser of a stolen car, who has a right of possession superior to all with the exception of the true owner, has an insurable interest in the automobile. This is not the case, however, where an individual knowingly purchases a stolen automobile.

Insurable interest is not dependent upon who pays the premiums of the policy. In addition, different people can have separate insurable interests in the same subject matter or property.

B. Risk

The potential danger that threatens to harm or destroy an object, event, or person. A risk that is specified in an insurance policy is a contingency which might or might not occur. The policy promises to reimburse the person who suffers a loss resulting from the risk for the amount of damage done up to the financial limits of the policy.

C. Hazard

A specific situation or condition that creates or increases the probability of a loss, such as a poor driving record increasing the likelihood of an automobile accident.

Physical hazard

A hazard arising out of the use, condition or occupancy of the insured property.

Moral hazard

Effect of personal reputation, character, associates, living habits, financial responsibility, criminal history and environment on the risk to be insured.

Morale hazard

The general indifference to loss.

D. Peril

Event insured against; cause of a possible loss. See Hazard.

E. Loss

A reduction in the quality or value of a property, or a legal liability.

1. Direct loss

Loss resulting immediately and directly from a hazard insured against.

2. Indirect loss

Contingent loss; loss resulting from a peril, but not directly and immediately caused by it.

F. Proximate cause

Immediate causes that in a natural and continuous sequence, unbroken by any intervening cause brings about the loss and without which the loss would not have happened.

G. Deductible

Provision in a policy whereby the insured is required to pay a specific amount or percentage of a loss, the insurance company paying on an excess basis over the deductible amount.

H. Indemnify

To restore the one who suffers a loss, in whole or in part, by payment, repair, or replacement, to the same condition they were in prior to the loss.

Indemnity

Payment of an amount to offset all or part of an insured loss.

I. Actual cash value

Insurance under which the policyholder receives compensation equal to the cost of replacing damaged or stolen property minus an amount for depreciation for age and use. For example: A tree falls through your roof destroying your eight-year-old sofa that cost $1,200 when it was new, but is now only worth $400. With an actual cash value policy, you will receive $400.

J. Replacement cost

Insurance that pays the dollar amount needed to replace damaged personal property or dwelling property without deducting for depreciation but limited by the maximum dollar amount shown on the declarations page of the policy.

K. Limits of liability

Maximum amount an insurance company is willing to insure under a given form of insurance on any particular risk. The maximum amount payable for a given loss or occurrence or aggregate limit.

L. Pair or set clause

A provision that indicates that the loss of one item of a pair or set does not represent the loss of the entire set. The method of valuing the claim may vary between contract, but it is usually based on the reduced value of the set, when a single piece of that set was damaged or lost.

M. Extensions of coverage

Additional, broader protection against loss or damage to property, offered in conjunction with fire insurance, and usually covering against the perils of windstorm, hail, smoke, explosion, riot, civil commotion, vehicles, and aircraft.

N. Additional coverages

Additional coverage is a provision in an insurance policy that provides an additional amount of coverage for specific loss expense, at no additional premium. Examples: Claim related expenses; Reasonable expenses incurred by an insured to protect damaged property from further loss; Defense expense.

O. Accident

A sudden and unexpected event that results in a financial loss. See Occurrence.

Act of God

Accident or event resulting from natural causes, without any human intervention such as flood, lightning, earthquake, or storms.

P. Occurrence

A happening taking some length of time; series of accidents, including exposure to injurious conditions, that can be connected through common cause. See Accident.

Occurrence coverage

A policy providing liability coverage only for injury or loss that occurs during the policy period regardless of when the claim is actually made.

Q. Vacancy and Unoccupancy

An insured structure in which no people have been living or working and no contents have been stored for the period of time required, as stated in the policy (usually 60 days), constitutes vacancy. Unoccupancy refers to an insured structure in which no people have been living or working within the required period of time, but the structure contains contents.

R. Right of salvage

Damaged property an insurer takes over to reduce its loss after paying a claim. Insurers receive salvage rights over property on which they have paid claims, such as badly-damaged cars. Insurers that paid claims on cargoes lost at sea now have the right to recover sunken treasures. Salvage charges are the costs associated with recovering that property.

S. Abandonment

Abandonment is the abdication of insured property into the hands of another, or into the possession of no one in particular. Most property insurance policies prohibit an insured from abandoning insured property following a loss, and require that the insured protect the property from further loss.

T. Liability

Condition of being bound by law or contract to do something that may be enforced in the courts; obligation, usually financial; probable cost of meeting an obligation.

U. Negligence

Failure to use all reasonable means to save and preserve property at and after a loss or when property is endangered.

Not acting as a reasonable and prudent person, under the same circumstances with the same knowledge, to prevent an accident or injury.

V. Theft

Any illegal act of taking or stealing, or attempting to take or steal, of someone else's property, including such crimes as larceny, burglary, and robbery.

W. Burglary

IV. PROPERTY AND CASUALTY POLICY PROVISIONS AND CONTRACT LAW

What's in an Insurance Policy?

Insurance policies can be difficult to understand and even more difficult to explain to your customers. Few customers are knowledgeable about insurance, and yet they have very real insurance needs—for automobile and homeowners insurance and, in some cases, for extended coverage for personal articles, personal liability and personal boats. They look to you for technical knowledge and guidance when writing and renewing their policies and making claims.

Insurance is a product that offers protection from the risk of financial loss. By paying a relatively small premium, the insured transfers risk to the insurer and is protected from a much larger loss. The insurer shares risk by collecting premiums from many insureds and pooling the premiums in a large reserve fund. While each insured may experience occasional losses, these happen only on an irregular and uncertain basis. Losses that do occur are paid from the reserve.

As a product, insurance is much like other products our customers buy. Insurance companies — like other manufacturers — identify profitable groups of customers, design products with benefits that will attract those customers, and then sell those products through distributors (agents and brokers). Yet most customers fail to recognize the benefits of insurance as readily as they do the benefits of other products.

The Insurance Marketplace

The analogy between insurance and other products goes beyond customer needs, products, and benefits. In every industry products must be manufactured and distributed to the consumer through retail channels. Often it is not the product itself but the service and distribution that make the sale.

Each insurance company—like other manufacturers—offers product lines (insurance policies and packages) with many of the same features (coverages) and benefits (protection and service) as the competition.

Insurers — like other manufacturers — have little direct contact with their consumers. The link between insurers and their customers — the point-of-sale contact—is the agency. You evaluate the needs of the customer, you guide their choices, you select from competing products that best meet their needs.

Advising Your Customers

Selecting proper coverages is only part of the job in putting together a policy for your customers. Coverages are affected by conditions listed in the policy that spell out the responsibilities of the insured and the insurance company. There are choices your customers can make that will save them money on premiums without sacrificing protection. You must carefully explain these choices and responsibilities.

An insurance policy is a contract between the insured and the insurer. Like other contracts, it has a number of conditions that carefully specify when coverage applies and when it does not. Let's briefly discuss a few of those conditions that most often come into play

In another section of this course we said that personal property coverage in the homeowners policy insures personal property owned or used by the insured anywhere in the world. On the other hand, the auto policy is not a worldwide policy.

If your customers travel outside the U.S. or Canada, advise them that they may not be covered when driving in a foreign country. They may need insurance from a local insurer in that country or some special handling by the insurance company.

Within the United States and Canada, the auto policy does conform with the laws and insurance requirements. Although different states have different no-fault plans and compulsory insurance requirements, the policy automatically complies with the regulations of any state or province the vehicle is driven in.

Policy Provisions & Conditions

Conditions listed in the policy explain cancellation of the policy. The insured can cancel at any time by sending written notification and stating the date the cancellation is to become effective. On the other hand, the insurance company can cancel auto policies only under the following circumstances:

- within the first sixty days of the policy period
- upon failure to pay the premium
- if the driving license of the named insured or another member of the household is suspended or revoked.

In the case of an accident or loss, the insured has certain responsibilities. As soon as possible, the insured or someone on behalf of the insured must notify your agency or the insurance company and supply the following information:

- name, address, and policy number of the insured
- details of the accident or loss
- names of witnesses or persons involved or injured in the accident.

If a claim or lawsuit results, the insured must attend hearings or trials when requested, secure and give evidence, permit medical examination by doctors the insurance company specifies, and authorize the insurer to obtain medical reports or records.

Conditions establish the circumstances that must be met by the insured and the insurance company for coverage to apply. Your customers must be familiar with their responsibilities. Both you and the insured are at a disadvantage if a loss occurs and there is no coverage because the conditions were misunderstood.

A. Declarations

Part of a property or liability insurance policy that states the name and address of policyholder, property insured, its location and description, the policy period, premiums and supplemental information. Referred to as the 'dec page.'

B. Insuring agreement

Clause in a policy defining and describing the scope of the coverage provided and limits of indemnification. See Conditions, Declarations, and Exclusions.

C. Conditions

Part of an insurance policy detailing the rights and duties of the insured and the insurance company in the policy. See Declarations, Insuring Agreement, and Exclusions

D. Exclusions

Provision in an insurance policy eliminating coverage for certain risks or otherwise limiting the scope of coverage; certain causes and conditions listed in the policy that are not covered. See Conditions, Declarations, and Insuring Agreement.

E. Definition of the Insured

Insured

One for whom insurance is written. See Named Insured

Named insured

One specifically designated by name as the insured on the declarations page of a policy.

F. Duties of the insured after a loss

The insureds, under the terms of a policy, are required to cooperate with the insurer in the investigation, settlement, or defense of a claim covered under the policy.

G. Obligations of the insurance company

In case of a claim, the insured is obligated to notify the insurer and protect insured property from further loss.

H. Mortgagee rights

When a mortgagee is named in a mortgagee clause attached to a policy, the loss reimbursement shall be paid to the mortgagee as their interest may appear; and, the mortgagee's rights of recovery shall not be defeated by any act or neglect of the insured. The mortgagee is also given other rights such as bringing in a suit in their own name to recover damages.

Mortgagee clause

Provision in or attached to fire policies covering mortgaged property, defining the mortgagee's rights and privileges under the policy.

Mortgagee

One who holds a mortgage (loan) on property.

I. Proof of loss

Documents showing the insurance company that a loss occurred.

J. Notice of claim

A written notice required by insurance companies immediately after an accident or other loss. Part of the standard provisions defining a policyholder's responsibilities after a loss.

K. Appraisal

A survey to determine a property's insurable value, or the amount of a loss.

L. Other insurance

Other Insurance provision is a clause in property & casualty policies outlining how a policy's benefits will be paid if more than one policy covers the same risk.

Pro rata liability clause

Property insurance clause that makes each company insuring the same interest in a property liable according to the proportion that its insurance bears to the total amount of insurance on the property.

Apportionment

The dividing of a loss proportionately among two or more insurers that cover the same loss.

M. Assignment

An agreement under which one party 'the assignor' transfers some or all of his ownership rights in a particular property, such as a life insurance policy or an annuity contract, to another party the assignee.

N. Subrogation

Assigning or substituting rights of one party to another in collecting a debt or claim, as an insurance company is assigned an insured's rights of recovery from a third party who has caused a loss.

O. Elements of a contract

Because an insurance policy is a legal contract, all of the essential elements of a contract must be present:

- ♦ Legal contract – The parties must be legally capable of contracting.
- ♦ Offer and acceptance – The contract must be based on an offer by one party and acceptance of that offer in the same terms by the other party.
- ♦ Consideration – Each party to the contract must give something of value.
- ♦ Legal form – The contract must be legal in form.
- ♦ Legal purpose – The contract must be for a legal purpose.

P. Sources of underwriting information

A part of the underwriting process is to determine the insurability of the applicant. Insures have several resources for gathering information, most of which must be agreed to by the insured in writing before the insurer can use them:

- ♦ Application form
- ♦ Motor vehicle reports
- ♦ Interviews with neighbors, friends and employers
- ♦ Inspection of property Inspection of insurance history
- ♦ Credit reports

Underwriter

A person employed by an insurance company to determine which risks to insure and which to reject.

Underwriting

Process of researching, evaluating and determining the insurability of a risk.

Underwriting guidelines

The documents developed by an insurance company to provide underwriters with an idea of the type of customers the company wishes to insure.

Q. Compliance with provisions of Fair Credit Reporting Act

The Fair Credit Reporting act became law on April 25, 1971, and is administered by the Federal Trade Commission. The purpose of the law is to protect consumers against the circulation of inaccurate or obsolete information, and to ensure that consumer reporting agencies are fair and equitable in their treatment of consumers.

R. Cancellation and Nonrenewal provisions

Insured may cancel the policy by returning it to the insurer and stating in writing the future date wanted for it to be cancelled.

Insurer may cancel the policy by written notice to insured at the address shown on the declaration page or last known address. Cancellation by insurer shall be effective as of the date and time shown on the Cancellation Notice, but not less than ten (10) days after the date of mailing the notice. The mailing of the notice is sufficient proof of notice of cancellation. Delivery of notice shall be equivalent to mailing.

When cancellation is requested by the insured, the return premium may be based upon short-rate tables. When the policy is cancelled by the insurer, the return premium shall be pro-rata.

S. Additional (supplementary) payments

Supplementary Payments: A provision in most liability policies under which the insurer agrees to pay defense costs, premiums on various bonds, interest accruing after a judgment, and other reasonable expenses in addition to the limit of liability.

T. Loss settlement provisions including consent to settle a loss

Covered property losses are settled at actual cash value at the time of loss but not more than the amount required to repair or replace.

U. Limitations

The insurer's total liability for all damages resulting from one occurrence will be no more than the limit of liability as shown in the Declarations.

V. Representations and misrepresentations

Statement of material fact that is reasonably accepted as substantially true. See Warranty.

Warranty

Literal promise and guarantee, either expressed or implied (i.e., concerning the condition of property to be insured), made for the purpose of risk evaluation by the insurance company; if found to be untrue, may provide the basis for avoidance of the policy.

Misrepresentation

A false or misleading statement. (1) In insurance sales, a false or misleading statement made by a sales agent to induce a customer to purchase insurance is a prohibited sales practice. (2) In insurance underwriting, a false or misleading statement by an insurance applicant may provide a basis for the insurer to avoid the policy.

W. Concealment

Coverage is not provided for an insured who has:

- a. Intentionally concealed or misrepresented any material fact or circumstance; or
- b. Made false statements or engaged in fraudulent conduct relating to the insurance.

X. Arbitration

Procedure in which an insurance company and the insured or a vendor agree to settle a claim dispute by accepting a decision made by a third party.

Y. Coinsurance

In property insurance, requires the policyholder to carry insurance equal to a specified percentage of the value of property to receive full payment on a loss. For health insurance, it is a percentage of each claim above the deductible paid by the policyholder. For a 20 percent health insurance coinsurance clause, the policyholder pays for the deductible plus 20 percent of his covered losses. After paying 80 percent of losses up to a specified ceiling, the insurer starts paying 100 percent of losses.

Z. Endorsements

Written amendment attached to a policy with the insurance company's approval making a change to the policy's terms. A written form attached to an insurance policy that alters the policy's coverage, terms, or conditions. Sometimes called a rider.

Rider

An attachment to an insurance policy that alters the policy's coverage or terms.

AA. Premium Payments

Designated amount payable by the insured to the insurance company and required to keep the contract in force. See Consideration. The price of an insurance policy, typically charged annually or semiannually. (See Direct premiums, Earned premium, Unearned premium)

Direct premiums

Property/casualty premiums collected by the insurer from policyholders, before reinsurance premiums are deducted. Insurers share some direct premiums and the risk involved with their reinsurers.

Earned premium

The portion of premium that applies to the expired part of the policy period. Insurance premiums are payable in advance but the insurance company does not fully earn them until the policy period expires.

Unearned premium

The portion of a premium already received by the insurer under which protection has not yet been provided. The entire premium is not earned until the policy period expires, even though premiums are typically paid in advance.

Consideration

Inducement for completion of a contract; the premium paid by the insured and the promise to pay by the insurer. See Contract.

Contract

Another name for an insurance policy. Chief requirements for formation of valid contract are: (1) parties having legal capacity to contract; (2) offer and an acceptance of the offer; (3) valuable consideration (premium and promise to pay); (4) the absence of any statute or other rule making the contract void (legal reason); and (5) the absence of fraud or misrepresentation by either party. An insurance contract meeting these requirements qualifies as a contract.

Contract of adhesion

Contract prepared by one party, without negotiation with the other party, and either accepted or rejected by the other party. An insurance policy is an example, as the insured has little control over the terms. Also a unilateral contract.

Contract of insurance

Legal and binding unilateral contract whereby an insurance company agrees to indemnify an insured for losses, provide other benefits, or render services to or on behalf of an insured. This is often called an insurance policy, but the policy is merely the evidence of the agreement.

BB. Effective dates of coverage

Date on which a policy is put in force and protection is furnished. Also called the inception date.

(b) The mere investigation and adjustment of any claim in this state arising under an insurance contract and litigation in connection therewith shall not be deemed to constitute the transacting of insurance in this state.

(c) An insurer not transacting new insurance business in Georgia but continuing collection of premiums on and servicing of policies remaining in force as to residents of or risks located in Georgia is transacting insurance in Georgia for the purpose of premium tax requirements only and is not required to have a certificate of authority therefor.

(d) As to an insurance coverage on a subject of insurance not resident, located, or expressly to be performed in Georgia at time of issuance and solicited, written, and delivered outside Georgia, no certificate of authority shall be required of an insurer as to subsequent transactions in Georgia on account of such insurance; and this title shall not apply to such insurance or insurance coverage, except for the purpose of premium tax requirements.

§ 33-23-5. Qualifications and requirements for license

(a) For the protection of the people of this state, the Commissioner shall not issue, continue, or permit to exist any license, except in compliance with this chapter and except as provided in Code Sections 33-23-3, 33-23-4, 33-23-12, 33-23-13, 33-23-14, 33-23-16, 33-23-17, 33-23-29, 33-23-29.1, and 33-23-37. The Commissioner shall not issue a license to any individual applicant for a license who does not meet or conform to qualifications or requirements set forth in paragraphs (1) through (8) of this subsection:

(1) The individual applicant must be a resident of this state who will reside and be present within this state for at least six months of every year or an individual whose principal place of business is within this state; provided, however, in cities, towns, or trade areas, either unincorporated or comprised of two or more incorporated cities or towns, located partly within and partly outside the state, requirements as to residence and principal place of business shall be deemed met if the residence or place of business is located in any part of the city, town, or trade area and if the other state in which the city, town, or trade area is located in part has established like requirements as to residence and place of business. The individual applying for an agent, adjuster, or counselor license must be at least 18 years of age;

(2) If applying for an agent's license for property and casualty insurance, the applicant must not use or intend to use the license for the purpose of obtaining a rebate or commission upon controlled business; and the applicant must not in any calendar year effect controlled business that will aggregate as much as 25 percent of the volume of insurance effected by such applicant during such year, as measured by the comparative amounts of premiums;

(3) If applying for an agent's license, the applicant must have been appointed an agent by an authorized insurer subject to issuance of the license;

(4) The individual applicant must be of good character;

(5) The individual applicant must pass any written examination required for the license by this article, provided that:

(A) An individual who applies for an insurance agent's license in this state who was previously licensed for the same lines of authority in another state shall not be required to complete any prelicensing education or examination. This exemption is only available if the individual is currently licensed in that state or if the application is received within 90 days of the cancellation of the applicant's previous license and if the prior state issues a certification that, at the time of cancellation, the applicant was in good standing in that state or the state's producer data base records maintained by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, its affiliates, or subsidiaries indicate that the agent is or was licensed in good standing for the line of authority requested;

(B) An individual licensed as an insurance agent in another state who moves to this state shall make application within 90 days of establishing legal residence to become a resident licensee pursuant to Code Section 33-23-8. No prelicensing education or examination shall be required of that individual to obtain a license for any line of authority previously held in the prior state except where the Commissioner determines otherwise by rule or regulation;

(6) If applying for a license as counselor, the applicant must show that he or she either has had five years' experience as an agent, subagent, or adjuster or in some other phase of the insurance business or has sufficient teaching or educational qualifications or experience which, in the opinion of the Commissioner, has qualified the applicant to act as such counselor; and the applicant shall pass such examination as shall be required by the Commissioner unless the applicant is exempted by the Commissioner, based on the applicant's experience and qualifications and pursuant to a regulation adopted by the Commissioner;

(7) If applying for an agent's license, subagent's license, or adjuster's license, no applicant shall be qualified therefor or be so licensed unless he or she has successfully completed classroom courses in insurance satisfactory to the Commissioner at a school which has been approved by the Commissioner; and

(b) An individual who was licensed as an agent, counselor, subagent, surplus line broker, or adjuster at the time such individual was employed by the Commissioner and who while so employed was employed in responsible insurance duties as a full-time bona fide employee shall be permitted to reinstate his or her license upon termination of employment if written request is made within 90 days after the date of termination of employment with the Commissioner.

§ 33-23-25. Place of business

Every licensed agent, subagent, counselor, and adjuster shall have and maintain in this state or, if a nonresident licensee, in the state of domicile, a place of business accessible to the public. (a) Each insurer authorized to transact insurance in this state shall obtain an agent's certificate of authority for each agent representing such insurer in the selling, soliciting, or negotiating of contracts of insurance in this state. For the purposes of this subsection, the insurer will be deemed to have obtained a certificate of authority for its designated agent immediately upon submission of the appointment request to the Commissioner; provided, however, that the initial certificate of authority for an applicant for licensure shall not become effective until the date such applicant is finally granted a license by the Commissioner.

(b) All agents' certificates of authority shall be renewed by the insurer in such form and manner as the Commissioner may prescribe by rule or regulation.

(c) The fee for each agent's certificate of authority or renewal thereof shall be as provided in Code Section 33-8-1.

authorized by law. Upon the written request of the Commissioner, the insurer shall provide additional information, documents, records, or other data pertaining to the termination or activity of the agent.

(e) If an agent's certificate of authority is terminated, the insurer promptly shall give notice of said termination and the effective date of the termination to the Commissioner and to the agent where reasonably possible. The Commissioner may also require the insurer to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the insurer has made a reasonable effort to give notice to the agent.

(f) An insurer or authorized representative of the insurer that terminates the appointment, employment, or contract with an agent for any reason not set forth in Code Section 33-23-21 shall notify the Commissioner within 30 days following the effective date of the termination, using a format prescribed by the Commissioner. Upon written request of the Commissioner, the insurer shall provide additional information, documents, records, and other data pertaining to such termination.

(g) The insurer or the authorized representative of the insurer shall promptly notify the Commissioner in a format acceptable to the Commissioner if, upon further review or investigation, the insurer discovers additional information that would have been reportable to the Commissioner in accordance with subsection (d) of this Code section had the insurer known of its existence.

(h) No certificate of authority shall be required for an agent who places surplus lines insurance with or through a surplus lines broker only with respect to such surplus lines insurance.

§ 33-23-27. Subagent's certificate of authority

(a) Each agent licensed in this state shall obtain a certificate of authority for each subagent representing such agent in this state.

(b) Each subagent's certificate of authority shall be renewed by the agent not more than once every three years in such form and manner as specified by the Commissioner by rule or regulation.

(c) Each agent shall also be required to inform the Commissioner of any termination of or change to any certificate of authority for each subagent in such form and manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner by rule or regulation.

(d) The fee for each subagent's certificate of authority or renewal or duplicate thereof shall be as provided by law.

(e) The subagent's certificate shall be held by the agent and shall be returned to the Commissioner upon termination of the subagent's authority along with an explanation of the reason for such termination in such form and manner as the Commissioner may specify by rule or regulation.

§ 33-23-28. Scope of subagent's authority; record of transactions

(a) A subagent's certificate of authority shall not cover any kind of insurance for which the sponsoring agent and subagent are not licensed.

(b) A subagent shall not have power to bind an insurer.

(c) All business transacted by a subagent under such subagent's license shall be in the name of the agent by whom the subagent is employed; and the agent shall be responsible for all the acts or omissions of the subagent within the scope of his or her employment.

§ 33-23-34. Records of transactions

(a) Every agent, subagent, counselor, and adjuster under this chapter shall keep at the address as shown on his or her license or at the insurer's regional or home office situated in this state a record of all transactions consummated under such license. The record shall be in organized form and shall include:

(1) In the case of an agent or subagent, a record of each insurance contract procured or issued together with the names of the insurers and insureds, the amount of premium paid or to be paid, and a statement of the subject of the insurance; and the names of any other licensees from whom business is accepted and of persons to whom commissions or allowances of any kind are promised or paid;

(2) In the case of an adjuster, a record of each investigation or adjustment undertaken or consummated and a statement of any fee, commission, or other compensation received or to be received by the adjuster on account of the investigation or adjustment; and

(3) Such other and additional information as may be customary or as may be reasonably required by the Commissioner.

(b) All records as to any particular transaction shall be kept for a term of five years beginning immediately after the completion of the transaction or the term of the contract, whichever is greater, provided that records of losses adjusted by an independent adjuster may be kept at the office of the insurer for whom the adjuster acted.

(c) In the case of agents or subagents, the maintaining of the records required by this Code section at the insurance agency licensed under this chapter for which agency the transaction was undertaken shall be deemed to comply with the requirements of subsection (a) of this Code section.

§ 33-23-35. Reporting and disposition of premiums

(a) An agent, subagent, or any other representative of an insurer or of any other person in the effectuation of an insurance contract shall report to the insurer or its agent the premium for the contract and the amount shall be shown in the contract. Each willful violation of this subsection shall constitute a misdemeanor.

(b) All funds representing premiums received or return premiums due the insured by any agent or subagent shall be accounted for in the licensee's fiduciary capacity, shall not be commingled with the licensee's personal funds, and shall be promptly accounted for and paid to the insurer, insured, or agent as entitled to such funds. Nothing contained in this Code section shall be deemed to require any agent or subagent to maintain a separate bank deposit for the funds of each principal, if the funds so held for each principal are reasonably ascertainable from the books of accounts and records of the agent or subagent.

(c) Any violation of this Code section shall constitute grounds or cause for action by the Commissioner, including, but not limited to, probation, suspension, or revocation of the license. Each and every act by a licensee shall also constitute grounds for fines and penalties, which amounts shall be set by rule or regulation of the Commissioner. Any willful violation of this Code section shall constitute a misdemeanor unless such amounts involved exceed $500.00, whereby such violation shall constitute a felony.

4. Unfair Trade Practices and Frauds

Pinklining

In the state of Washington, a woman's claim under her homeowner's insurance coverage was denied (and the denial upheld in court) when her ex-husband "torched" her house. An insurance agent in the same state told her representative in the United States Senate that she had been instructed by her employer not to issue policies to women whose medical records indicated domestic abuse.

In Minnesota, when a battered woman's program was denied automobile insurance for its company car, the insurance agent defended his denial, stating he could not be sure that the employees driving it were not being followed, presumably by vindictive batterers.

A Pennsylvania woman, who had sought emergency room treatment twice when her husband abused her (though she accurately reported the cause of the injury only on the second occasion), discovered four years later that she could not get life insurance because domestic violence was documented in her medical record.

A Georgia resident, attacked and beaten so badly by her ex-husband that she suffered a stroke, was unable to reinstate homeowner and car insurance policies that her ex-husband had canceled the day before he attacked her. Although he was arrested and eventually sentenced to twenty years in prison, the insurance company told her that if her ex-husband were released, he could drive her car off the road or set her house on fire; as a result, she was judged to have a risky lifestyle and denied coverage.

These are examples of a practice that has been dubbed "pinklining." Insurance companies sometimes deny coverage, refuse to pay claims, cancel policies, or increase the insurance rates charged to battered women once the insurer knows that a woman has been the victim of domestic abuse. While insurers insist that evidence of such discrimination is rare, others believe that women are often not told the reason, or do not realize why they are being dropped from insurance policies or otherwise treated unjustly by the insurance industry.

An anti-pinklining bill was proposed in the Georgia General Assembly in 1997, but the initiative languished for the next three years. The insurance lobby in Georgia was said to have "quashed" these bills. Meanwhile, critics charged insurance companies across the nation with unjustly comparing battered women to diabetics who neglect to take their insulin, or to race car drivers, smokers, and skydivers.

Governor Roy Barnes made the anti-pinklining legislation one of the first bills he approved after the legislative session, signing the bill into law on April 6, 2000.

The Act

The Act amends Code section 33-6-4 on unfair insurance practices by adding a new paragraph to the section that prohibits discrimination against victims of family violence. It was specifically designed to prevent insurance companies from using family violence as a basis to deny, limit, or charge more for coverage, or to deny or limit claims.

The Act defines 'family violence' by reference to other Code sections, thereby defining 'family' as: present and past spouses, parents and children (including stepparents and stepchildren), persons who are parents of the same child, and other persons living or formerly living in the same household, and thereby including 'violence' activities such as battery, assault, unlawful restraint, stalking, damage to property, criminal trespass, and criminal damage to property. The Act specifically does not apply to "reasonable discipline administered by a parent to a child in the form of corporal punishment, restraint, or detention." The Act's non-discrimination provisions apply to health, life, disability, property, and casualty insurance.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

The Act prohibits insurers from discriminating against a victim of family violence by denying or terminating insurance, limiting coverage or denying claims, charging higher premium rates, or terminating health coverage for a victim of abuse when coverage was originally issued in the abuser's name, and the acts or the omissions of the abuser would otherwise cause the victim to lose coverage. The Act further prohibits insurers from improperly using, disclosing, or transferring "confidential family violence information," which is defined as information about acts of family violence, the status of family violence victims, medical conditions related to family violence, and the work and home telephone numbers and addresses of family violence victims.

The Act also extends its non-discrimination provisions to anyone who harbors or helps a victim of domestic abuse. For example, the Act prohibits an insurer from using abuse-related information against a shelter serving victims of abuse. For twenty-four months after the passage of the Act, insurers must provide a specified notice to policyholders whenever insurance policies are issued or renewed that informs them of the new anti-discrimination provisions of Georgia law.

The Act falls under Chapter 6, Unfair Trade Practices, of Title 33, Insurance, of the Code, in which the Insurance Commissioner is authorized to fine insurers up to $1000 for each violation or up to $5000 in the case of repeat offenders. Individuals who suspect discrimination under the Act may call the Consumer Division of the State Insurance Commissioner's Office for assistance and to provide the Commissioner with leads on insurance companies that may need to be investigated for non-compliance.

(b) If, by his own inquiries or as a result of information received, the Commissioner has reason to believe that a person has engaged in, or is engaging in, a fraudulent insurance act, the Commissioner may administer oaths and affirmations, request the attendance of witnesses or proffering of matter, and collect evidence. The Commissioner shall not compel the attendance of any person or matter in any such investigation except pursuant to subsection (d) of this Code section.

(c) If matter that the Commissioner seeks to obtain by request is located outside the state, the person so requested may make it available to the Commissioner or his representative to examine the matter at the place where it is located. The Commissioner may designate representatives, including officials of the state in which the matter is located, to inspect the matter on his behalf, and he may respond to similar requests from officials of other states.

(d)(1) The Commissioner may request that an individual who refuses to comply with any such request be ordered by the superior court to provide the testimony or matter. The court shall not order such compliance unless the Commissioner has demonstrated to the satisfaction of the court that the testimony of the witness or the matter under request has a direct bearing on the commission of a fraudulent insurance act or is pertinent or necessary to further such investigation.

(2) Except in a prosecution for perjury, an individual who complies with a court order to provide testimony or matter after asserting a privilege against self-incrimination, to which he is entitled by law, may not be subjected to a criminal proceeding or to a civil penalty with respect to the act concerning which he is required to testify or produce relevant matter.

(3) In the absence of fraud or bad faith, a person is not subject to civil liability for libel, slander, or any other relevant tort by virtue of filing reports, without malice, or furnishing other information, without malice, required by this Code section or required by the Commissioner under the authority granted in this Code section, and no civil cause of action of any nature shall arise against such person:

Commissioner would not be unnecessarily hindered by such subpoena. The Commissioner or his employees or agents shall not be subject to subpoena in civil actions by any court of this state to testify concerning any matter of which they have knowledge pursuant to pending investigations of fraudulent insurance acts.

(f) Any person, other than an insurer, agent, or other person licensed under this title, or an employee thereof, having knowledge of or who believes that a fraudulent insurance act is being or has been committed may send to the Commissioner a report of information pertinent to such knowledge of or belief and such additional information relative thereto as the Commissioner may request. If prosecution by the prosecuting attorney is not begun within 90 days of the report, the prosecuting attorney shall inform the Commissioner of the reasons for the lack of prosecution.

(g) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (f) of this Code section, when an insurer or an insured knows or has reasonable grounds to believe that a person committed a fraudulent insurance act and which the insurer reasonably believes not to have been reported to a law enforcement agency in this state, then, for the purpose of notification and investigation, the insurer or an agent authorized by an insurer to act on its behalf or the insured may notify such law enforcement agency of such knowledge or reasonable belief and provide such information relevant to the fraudulent insurance act, including, but not limited to, insurance policy information, including the application for insurance; policy premium payment records; history of previous claims made by the insured; and other information relating to the investigation of the claim, including statements of any person, proofs of loss, and notice of loss. In the absence of fraud or bad faith, no insurer or agent authorized by an insurer to act on its behalf, law enforcement agency, or their respective employees or an insured shall be subject to any civil liability for libel, slander, or related cause of action by virtue of filing reports or for releasing or receiving any information pursuant to this subsection. The general laws applicable to arrests by peace officers of this state shall also be applicable to such personnel. Such personnel shall have the power to execute arrest warrants and search warrants for the same criminal violations; to serve subpoenas issued for the examination, investigation, and trial of all offenses determined by their investigations; and to arrest upon probable cause without warrant any person found in the act of violating any of the provisions of applicable laws. performance of their duties. It is unlawful for any person to resist an arrest authorized by this Code section or in any manner to interfere, either by abetting or assisting such resistance or otherwise interfering, with personnel employed by the Commissioner under this Code section in the duties imposed upon them by law.

5. Miscellaneous Georgia insurance laws

The Georgia Insurers Insolvency Pool

(a) The Georgia Insurers Insolvency Pool is a nonprofit legal entity with the right to bring and defend actions and such right to bring and defend actions includes the power and right to intervene as a party before any court in this state that has jurisdiction over an insolvent insurer as defined in this chapter. The pool shall adopt, and the Commissioner shall approve, a reasonable plan which is not inconsistent with this chapter and which is fair to insurers and equitable to their policyholders, pursuant to which all admitted insurers shall become members of the pool. All members of the pool shall adhere to the rules of the plan. The plan may be amended by an affirmative vote of a majority of the Insurers Solvency Board.

(b) If, for any reason, the pool fails to adopt a suitable plan within six months following July 1, 1970, or if at any time after July 1, 1970, the pool fails to adopt necessary amendments to the plan, the Commissioner shall adopt and promulgate, after a hearing, such reasonable rules as are necessary to effectuate this chapter. The rules shall continue in force until modified by the Commissioner or superseded by a plan of operation adopted by the pool and approved by the Commissioner.

(c) The plan as provided for in subsection (a) of this Code section shall:

(1) Establish the procedures whereby all the powers and duties of the pool under this chapter will be performed;

(2) Establish procedures for handling assets of the pool;

(3) Mandate that procedures be established for the disposition of liquidating dividends or other moneys received from the estate of the insolvent insurer;

(4) Mandate that procedures be established to designate the amount and method of reimbursing members of the board of trustees under Code Section 33-36-4;

(5) Establish procedures by which claims may be filed with the pool and establish acceptable forms of proof of covered claims. Notice of claims to the receiver or liquidator of the insolvent insurer shall be deemed notice to the pool or its agent and a list of claims shall be periodically submitted to the pool or insolvency fund or its equivalent in another state by the receiver or liquidator;

(6) Establish regular places and times for meetings of the board of trustees;

(7) Mandate that procedures be established for records to be kept of all financial transactions of the pool, its agents, and the board of trustees;

(8) Establish the procedures whereby selections for the board of trustees will be submitted to the Commissioner; and

(9) Contain additional provisions necessary or proper for the execution of the powers and duties of the pool.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

(d) In accordance with the plan, the pool may designate insurers to act on behalf of the pool to carry out the purposes of this chapter, but a member may decline such designation. The Commissioner may disapprove such designation. The plan may provide a procedure under which pending claims or judgments against the insolvent insurer or its insureds are assigned to the member companies designated to act for the pool. The assignee-insurer is authorized to appear and defend a claim in a court of competent jurisdiction or otherwise and to investigate, adjust, compromise, and settle a covered claim or to investigate, handle, and deny a noncovered claim, and to do so on behalf of and in the name of the pool. If an assignee-insurer pays the covered claim, it shall be reimbursed by the pool or be entitled to set off said payment against future assessments. The unreimbursed claim of such an insurer against the pool shall be an admitted asset of the insurer. Insureds entitled to protection of this chapter shall cooperate with the pool and the assignee-insurer.

(e) The pool as a legal entity and any of its individual members shall have no cause of action against the insured of the insolvent insurer for any sums it has paid out except such causes of action as the insolvent insurer would have had if such sums had been paid by the insolvent insurer and except as otherwise provided in this chapter. The pool shall be subrogated to the rights of any insured or claimant, to the extent of a covered claim, to participate in the distribution of assets of the insolvent insurer to the extent that the pool has made payment. Any claimant or insured entitled to the benefits of this chapter shall be deemed to have assigned to the pool, to the extent of any payment received, his or her rights against the estate of the insolvent insurer. After determination of insolvency of any insurer, the pool shall be a party in interest in all proceedings involving policies insured or assumed by the pool with the same rights to receive notice and defend, appeal, and review as the insolvent insurer would have had if solvent. All moneys recovered under this Code section or any other Code section shall be added to the assessments collected under Code Section 33-36-7.

(f) Except for actions by member insurers aggrieved by final actions or decisions of the pool pursuant to Code Section 33-36-18, all actions relating to or arising out of this chapter against the pool must be brought in the courts in this state. Such courts shall have exclusive jurisdiction over all actions relating to or arising out of this chapter against the pool.

(g) Exclusive venue in any action by or against the pool is in the Superior Court of DeKalb County. The pool may, at the option of the pool, waive such venue as to specific actions.

6. Residual Markets

The residual market exists to ensure coverage is available when insurance companies in the regular market reject an applicant as too risky.

In a normal competitive market, insurers are free to select from among people applying for insurance those drivers, property owners, and commercial operations they wish to insure. They do this by evaluating the risks involved through a process called underwriting.

Applicants who are considered "high risk" may have difficulty obtaining insurance through the regular "voluntary" market channels. (The term "high risk" applies to individuals or individual businesses with a poor loss record due to inadequate safety measures; certain kinds of businesses or professions where the nature of the work is hazardous or where the risk of lawsuits is high; and specific locations where the risk of theft, vandalism or severe storm damage is substantial.) To make basic coverage more readily available to everyone who wants or needs insurance, special insurance plans, known as residual, shared or involuntary markets, have been set up by state regulators working with the insurance industry.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

Residual market programs are rarely self-sufficient. Where the rates charged to high-risk policyholders are too low to support the program's operation, insurers are generally assessed to make up the difference. These additional costs are typically passed on to all insurance consumers. However, in a few states, insurers are not able to recoup their residual market losses and political pressure prevents rates from rising to the level they should be actuarially.

The number of drivers and properties insured in the residual market fluctuates as lawmakers and regulators change laws or address availability, rate adequacy and other factors that influence underwriting decisions.

a. Fair Access To Insurance Requirements Plans / Fair Plans

Insurance pools that sell property insurance to people who can't buy it in the voluntary market because of high risk over which they may have no control. FAIR Plans, which exist in 28 states and the District of Columbia, insure fire, vandalism, riot and windstorm losses, and some sell homeowners insurance which includes liability. Plans vary by state, but all require property insurers licensed in a state to participate in the pool and share in the profits and losses. (See Residual market)

b. Georgia Automobile Insurance Plan

The Georgia Automobile Insurance Plan was created to provide automobile insurance coverage to eligible risks who seek coverage and are unable to obtain such coverage through the voluntary market (For complete eligibility requirements, see Section 20 and 36 of the Plan Manual). Eligible Georgia Automobile Insurance Plan risks are shared among companies writing automobile insurance in the state of Georgia. This Plan became effective February, 1949.

Any insurance agent holding a valid Property & Casualty license for the state of Georgia can write business through the GAAIP.

Consumers possessing a valid Georgia driver's license and a vehicle registered in Georgia are eligible to be assigned through GAAIP. For further information consumers should consult their agent or broker.

Georgia Workers Compensation Assigned Risk Plan

The Georgia Workers Compensation Assigned Risk Plan exists to provide required Workers Compensation coverage for employers who do not qualify for coverage in the voluntary market. Liability is apportioned among all insurers authorized to write Workers Compensation and Employers Liability in the state.

B. Georgia Laws, Rules, And Regulations Pertinent To Property Insurance Only

1. Cancellation and nonrenewal of policies

§ 33-24-44. Cancellation of policies generally

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, cancellation of a policy which by its terms and conditions may be canceled by the insurer or its agent duly authorized by the insurer to effect such cancellation shall be accomplished as prescribed in this Code section.

(b) Written notice stating the time when the cancellation will be effective, which shall not be less than 30 days from the date of mailing or delivery in person of such notice of cancellation or such other specific longer period as may be provided in the contract or by statute, shall be delivered in person or by depositing the notice in the United States mails to be dispatched by at least first-class mail to the last address of record of the insured and of any lienholder, where applicable, and receiving the receipt provided by the United States Postal Service or such other evidence of mailing as prescribed or accepted by the United States Postal Service. For the purposes of this subsection, notice to the lienholder shall be considered delivered or mailed if, with the lienholder's consent, it is delivered by electronic transmittal or facsimile. Any irregularity in the notice to the lienholder shall not invalidate an otherwise valid cancellation as to the insured.

(c)(1) Any unearned premium which has been paid by the insured shall be refunded to the insured on a pro rata basis as provided in this Code section. If the return does not accompany notice of cancellation, then such return shall be made on or before the cancellation date either directly to the named insured or to the insured's agent of record. In the event the insurer elects to return such unearned premium to the insured via the insured's agent of record, such agent shall return the unearned premium to the insured either in person or by depositing such return in the mail within ten working days of receipt of the unearned premium, or within ten working days of notification from the insurer of the amount of return of unearned premium due, or on the effective date of cancellation, whichever is later. If the insured has an open account with the agent, such return of unearned premium may be applied to any outstanding balance and any remaining unearned premium shall be returned to the insured either in person or by depositing such return in the mail within ten working days of receipt of the unearned premium, or within ten working days of notification from the insurer of the amount of return of unearned premium due, or on the effective date of cancellation, whichever is later.

(2) Paragraph (1) of this subsection shall not apply if an audit or rate investigation is required or if the premiums are financed by a premium finance company. If an audit or rate investigation is required, then the refund of unearned premium shall be made within 30 days after the conclusion of the audit or rate investigation. If the premiums are financed by a premium finance company, any unearned premiums shall be tendered to the premium finance company within ten working days after cancellation.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

(3) Any insurer or agent failing to return any unearned premium as prescribed in paragraphs (1) and (2) of this subsection shall pay to the insured a penalty equal to 25 percent of the amount of the return of the unearned premium and interest equal to 18 percent per annum until such time that proper return has been made, which penalty and interest must be paid at the time the return is made; provided, however, the maximum amount of such penalty and interest shall not exceed 50 percent of the amount of the refund due. Failure to return any unearned premium shall not invalidate a notice of cancellation given in accordance with subsection (b) of this Code section.

(d) When a policy is canceled for failure of the named insured to discharge when due any of his obligations in connection with the payment of premiums for a policy or any installment of premiums due, whether payable directly to the insurer or indirectly to the agent, or when a policy that has been in effect for less than 60 days is canceled for any reason, the notice requirements of this Code section may be satisfied by delivering or mailing written notice to the named insured and any lienholder, where applicable, at least ten days prior to the effective date of cancellation in lieu of the number of days' notice otherwise required by this Code section. For the purposes of this subsection, notice to the lienholder shall be considered delivered or mailed if, with the lienholder's consent, it is delivered by electronic transmittal or facsimile. Any irregularity in the notice to the lienholder shall not invalidate an otherwise valid cancellation as to the insured.

(d.1) The notice requirements of this Code section shall not apply in any case where a binder or contract of insurance is void ab initio for failure of consideration.

(e) Notice to the insured shall not be required by this Code section when a policy is canceled by an insurance premium finance company under a power of attorney contained in an insurance premium finance agreement which has been filed with the insurer in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 22 of this title. However, the insurer shall comply with the provisions of subsection (d) of Code Section 33-22-13 pertaining to notice to a governmental agency, mortgagee, or other third party. Such notice shall be delivered in person or by depositing the notice in the United States mails to be dispatched by at least first-class mail to the last address of record of such governmental agency, mortgagee, or other third party and receiving the receipt provided by the United States Postal Service or such other evidence of mailing as prescribed or accepted by the United States Postal Service.

(f) Cancellation by the insured shall be accomplished in accordance with Code Section 33-24-44.1.

(g) Any unearned premium which has been paid by the insured may be refunded to the insured on other than a pro rata basis if:

(1) The cancellation results from failure of the insured to pay, when due, any premium to the insurer or any amount, when due, under a premium finance agreement;

(2) The policy contains language which specifies that a penalty may be charged on unearned premium; and

(3) The method of computing such penalty is filed with the Commissioner in accordance with Chapter 9 of this title.

§ 33-24-46. Cancellation or nonrenewal of certain property insurance policies

(a) This Code section shall apply only to policies of insurance against direct loss to residential real property and the contents thereof, as defined and limited in standard fire policies insuring natural persons as the named insured.

(b) As used in this Code section, the term:

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

(1) "Claim against a policy" means a contact with an insurer by the insured under the policy or an affected third party for the express purpose of seeking payment of proceeds under the terms of the policy in question. A report of loss or a question relating to coverage shall not independently establish a claim against a policy nor be considered as a claim under Article 2 of Chapter 6 of this title.

(2) "Nonrenewal" or "nonrenewed" means a refusal by an insurer or an affiliate of an insurer to renew. Failure of an insured to pay the premium as required of the insured for renewal after the insurer has manifested a willingness to renew by delivering a renewal policy, renewal certificate, or other evidence of renewal to the named insured or his or her representative or has offered to issue a renewal policy, certificate, or other evidence of renewal or has manifested such intention by any other means shall not be construed to be a nonrenewal.

(3) "Policies" means a policy insuring a natural person as named insured against direct loss to residential real property and the contents thereof, as defined and limited in standard fire policies as approved by the Commissioner.

(4) "Renewal" means issuance and delivery by an insurer or an affiliate of such insurer of a policy superseding at the end of the policy period a policy previously issued and delivered by the same insurer and providing no less than the coverage contained in the superseded policy or issuance and delivery of a certificate or notice extending the term of a policy beyond its policy period or term or the extension of the term of a policy beyond its policy period or term pursuant to a provision for extending the policy by payment of a continuation premium. Any policy with a policy period or term of less than six months shall, for the purposes of this Code section, be considered to have successive policy periods ending each six months following its original date of issue and, regardless of its wording, any interim termination by its terms or by refusal to accept premiums shall be a cancellation subject to this Code section. Any policy written for a term longer than one year or any policy with no fixed expiration date shall be considered as if written for successive policy periods or terms of one year and any termination by an insurer effective on an anniversary date of such policy shall be deemed a refusal to renew.

(c)(1) No notice of cancellation of a policy as to which this Code section applies shall be effective unless mailed or delivered as prescribed in Code Section 33-24-44. The insurer shall provide the reason or reasons for such cancellation as required by Chapter 39 of this title.

(2) After coverage under a policy to which this Code section applies has been in effect more than 60 days or after the effective date of a renewal policy to which this Code section applies, a notice of cancellation may be issued only for one or more of the following reasons:

(A) Nonpayment of premium;

(B) Discovery of fraud, concealment of material fact, or material misrepresentation made by or with the knowledge of the insured in obtaining the policy, continuing the policy, or presenting a claim under the policy;

(C) The occurrence of a change in the risk which substantially increases any hazard the policy insures against; or

(D) The insured violates any of the material terms or conditions of the policy.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

(d) No insurer shall refuse to renew a policy to which this Code section applies unless a written notice of nonrenewal is mailed or delivered in person to the named insured. Such notice stating the time when nonrenewal will be effective, which shall not be less than 30 days from the date of mailing or delivery of such notice of nonrenewal or such longer period as may be provided in the contract or by statute, shall be delivered in person or by depositing the notice in the United States mails to be dispatched by at least first-class mail to the last address of record of the insured and of the lienholder, where applicable, and receiving the receipt provided by the United States Postal Service or such other evidence of mailing as prescribed or accepted by the United States Postal Service. The insurer shall provide the reason or reasons for nonrenewal as required by Chapter 39 of this title.

(e) When a policy is canceled other than for nonpayment of premium or in the event of a refusal to renew or continue a policy, the insurer shall notify the named insured of his possible eligibility for insurance through the Georgia Fair Access to Insurance Requirements Plan. The notice shall accompany or be included in the notice of cancellation or the notice of intent not to renew or not to continue the policy and shall state that such notice availability of the Georgia Fair Access to Insurance Requirements Plan is given pursuant to this Code section. Included in the notice shall be the address by which the Georgia Fair Access to Insurance Requirements Plan might be contacted in order to determine eligibility.

(f) There shall be no liability on the part of and no cause of action of any nature shall arise against the Commissioner or his employees or against any insurer, its authorized representatives, its agents, its employees, or any firm, person, or corporation furnishing to the insurer information as to reasons for cancellation or nonrenewal for any statement made by any of them and in written notice of cancellation or nonrenewal or in any other communication, oral or written, specifying the reasons for cancellation or nonrenewal or providing information pertaining thereto or for statements made or evidence submitted at any formal or informal hearing conducted in connection therewith.

(g) Return of unearned premium, if any, due to cancellations as to which this Code section applies shall be processed in accordance with Code Section 33-24-44.

(h) Notice to the insured shall not be required by this Code section when a policy is canceled by an insurance premium finance company under a power of attorney contained in an insurance premium finance agreement if notification of the existence of the premium finance agreement has been given to the insurer in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 22 of this title. However, the insurer shall comply with the provisions of subsection (d) of Code Section 33-22-13 pertaining to notice to a governmental agency, mortgagee, or other third party. Such notice shall be delivered in person or by depositing the notice in the United States mails to be dispatched by at least first-class mail to the last address of record of such governmental agency, mortgagee, or other third party and receiving the receipt provided by the United States Postal Service or such other evidence of mailing as prescribed or accepted by the United States Postal Service.

(i) Cancellation by the insured shall be accomplished as provided in Code Section 33-24-44.1.

(j) No notice refusing the renewal of a policy issued for delivery in this state shall be mailed or delivered by an insurer or its agent duly authorized to effect such notice of nonrenewal for the following reasons:

(1) Lack of, lack of potential for, or failure to agree to a writing of supporting insurance business;

(2) A change in the insurer's eligibility rules or underwriting rules, provided that this paragraph shall not apply to a change in such rules if the change applies uniformly within a specific class or territory and such change has been approved by the Commissioner under subsection (k) of this Code section; and

(3) Two or fewer claims against the policy within the preceding 36 month period if such claims are not attributable to the negligent or intentional acts of the insured or of persons residing at the insured premises.

(k) If the insurer demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that renewal would violate the provisions of this title or would be hazardous to its policyholders or the public, paragraph (2) of subsection (j) shall not apply.

(l)(1) If the insurer complies with subsection (d) of this Code section, no claim or action may be maintained with respect to a policy which is not renewed unless the named insured files a written notice with the insurer before the time at which nonrenewal becomes effective. The notice shall specify the manner in which the failure to renew is alleged to be unlawful under this subsection. In any subsequent action asserting a violation of subsection (c), (j), or (k) of this Code section, no violation may be alleged other than the specific allegations contained in the notice filed by the named insured.

(2) In addition to other requirements, a notice of nonrenewal shall contain the provisions of paragraph (1) of this subsection in substantially the form which follows:

"NOTICE

Code Section 33-24-46 of the Official Code of Georgia Annotated provides that this insurer must, upon request, furnish you with the reasons for the failure to renew this policy. If you wish to assert that the nonrenewal is unlawful, you must file a written notice with this insurer before the time at which the nonrenewal becomes effective. The notice must specify the manner in which the failure to renew is alleged to be unlawful.

If you do not file the written notice, you may not later assert a claim or action against this insurer based upon an unlawful nonrenewal."

(m)(1) Notwithstanding subsection (j) of this Code section, the termination of an agency relationship shall be valid as a reason for a failure to renew a policy. In such case, if the named insured wishes to retain the policy with the particular insurer, the insured shall locate another agent of the insurer and apply for the policy with another agent of the insurer before the time at which the nonrenewal becomes effective. Upon receipt of the application, the insurer shall treat the application as a renewal and not as an original writing. Nothing in this paragraph shall abridge or supersede contractual rights of the terminated agency or the insurer, provided that these contractual rights do not adversely affect the privilege of the named insured to apply for renewal through another agent of the insurer.

(2) A notice of nonrenewal based upon the termination of an agency relationship shall contain the provisions of paragraph (1) of this subsection, in substantially the form which follows:

"NOTICE

Your policy has not been renewed because your present agent no longer represents this insurer. You have the option of procuring coverage through your present agent or retaining this policy by applying through another agent of this insurer. Code Section 33-24-46 of the Official Code of Georgia Annotated provides that if you will locate another agent of the insurer and apply for this policy before the time at which the nonrenewal becomes effective, this insurer will treat the application as a renewal and not as an application for a new policy."

2. Miscellaneous Georgia insurance laws

§ 33-32-1. Standard fire policy

(a) No policy of fire insurance covering property located in this state shall be made, issued, or delivered unless it conforms as to all provisions and the sequence of the standard or uniform form prescribed by the Commissioner, except that, with regard to multiple line coverage providing other kinds of insurance combined with fire insurance, this Code section shall not apply if the policy contains, with respect to the fire portion of the policy, language at least as favorable to the insured as the applicable portions of the standard fire policy and such multiple line policy has been approved by the Commissioner.

(b) The Commissioner shall file and maintain on file in his office a true copy of the standard fire policy designated as such and bearing the Commissioner's authenticating certificate and signature and the date of filing. The standard fire insurance policy shall not be required for casualty insurance, marine and transportation insurance, or insurance on growing crops. Insurers issuing the standard fire insurance policy are authorized to affix to or include in such policy a written statement that the policy does not cover loss or damage caused by nuclear reaction or nuclear radiation or radioactive contamination, whether directly or indirectly resulting from an insured peril under the policy; provided, however, that nothing contained in this Code section shall be construed to prohibit the attachment to any such policy of an endorsement or endorsements specifically assuming loss or damage caused by nuclear reaction or nuclear radiation or radioactive contamination.

§ 33-32-4. Refund of premium payments where insured sustaining total loss of property receives less than maximum amount payable under policy

In the event of a total loss of property, if an insurer shall pay to the insured an amount less than the maximum amount authorized to be paid under an insurance policy covering the property, the insurer shall refund to the insured the difference between the amount of premiums actually paid for the insurance policy and the amount of premiums which would have been charged for a property insurance policy having a maximum amount payable equal to the amount actually paid by the insurer to the insured.

§ 33-32-5. Amount of insurance in certain fire policies deemed conclusive as to value of property covered

(a) Whenever any policy of insurance is issued to a natural person or persons insuring a specifically described one or two family residential building or structure located in this state against loss by fire and the building or structure is wholly destroyed by fire without fraudulent or criminal fault on the part of the insured or one acting in his behalf, the amount of insurance set forth in the policy relative to the building or structure shall be taken conclusively to be the value of the property, except to the extent of any depreciation in value occurring between the date of the policy or its renewal and the loss, provided that, if loss occurs within 30 days of the original effective date of the policy, the insured shall be entitled to the actual loss sustained not exceeding the sum insured. Nothing in this Code section shall be construed as prohibiting the use of coinsurance or as preventing the insurer from repairing or replacing damaged property at its own expense without contribution on the part of the insured.

(b) Subsection (a) of this Code section shall not apply where:

(1) The building or structure is not wholly destroyed by fire;

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

(2) Insurance policies are issued or renewed by more than one company insuring the same building or structure against fire and the existence of the additional insurance is not disclosed by the insured to all insurers issuing policies;

(3) Two or more buildings or structures are insured under a blanket form for a single amount of insurance; or

(4) The completed value of a building or structure is insured under a builders' risk policy.

§ 33-32-6. Tobacco crop insurance coverage

Any insurer issuing on or after April 28, 1999, a policy providing crop insurance coverage, other than federal crop insurance pursuant to 7 U.S.C. Section 1501, et seq., for tobacco crops grown in this state against loss or damage due to wind, hail, or both shall make available such coverage for a term extending until such time as the tobacco crop is harvested, either as a part of or as an optional endorsement to such policy of crop insurance.

120-2-66-.03 Prohibited Practices.

(1) No insurer, broker or agent shall use underwriting criteria or guidelines to determine an applicant's or insured's acceptability for policy issuance or continuation of coverage which result in the fictitious grouping of risks and result in unfair discrimination.

(2) An insurer, broker or agent engages in the grouping of risks when a determination is made concerning an applicant's or insured's acceptability for policy issuance or continuation thereof based upon, but not limited to, any of the following:

(a) Marital status of the applicant, insured or anyone residing in the applicant's or insured's household;

(b) The applicant's or insured's length of time at an address;

(c) Employment status or lawful occupation of the applicant or insured, including the length of time employed with present employer;

(d) Level of education of the applicant or insured;

(f) Age of dwelling without proper consideration of updated mechanical and structural systems;

(g) The individual's status as a member of the United States Armed Forces, the Reserves of the United States Armed Forces or the National Guard. Nothing herein shall prohibit the use and enforcement of a war exclusion clause if included in the policy at time of issuance.

(3) Any grouping specified in the foregoing subparagraph (2) is fictitious and results in unfair discrimination if:

(a) it is:

1. not actuarially supported;

2. not relevant to risk; and

3. not based on a reasonable consideration allowed under O.C.G.A. § 33-9-4(7); or

(b) it is based in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, upon race, creed or ethnic extraction.

(E) Has changed in shape or condition during the policy period so as to increase substantially the risk.

(d) No notice of cancellation of a policy to which this Code section applies shall be effective unless mailed or delivered as prescribed in Code Section 33-24-44. The insurer shall provide the reason or reasons for such cancellation as required by Chapter 39 of this title.

(e)(1) No insurer shall refuse to renew a policy to which this Code section applies unless a written notice of nonrenewal is mailed or delivered in person to the named insured. Such notice stating the time when nonrenewal will be effective, which shall not be less than 30 days from the date of mailing or delivery of such notice of nonrenewal or such longer period as may be provided in the contract or by statute, shall be delivered in person or by depositing the notice in the United States mails to be dispatched by at least first-class mail to the last address of record of the insured and of the lienholder, where applicable, and receiving the receipt provided by the United States Postal Service or such other evidence of mailing as prescribed or accepted by the United States Postal Service.

(2) The insurer shall specify in writing the reason or reasons for such nonrenewal as required by Chapter 39 of this title.

(3) No notice refusing the renewal of a policy issued for delivery in this state shall be mailed or delivered by an insurer or its agent duly authorized to effect such notice of nonrenewal for the following reasons:

(A) Lack of, lack of potential for, or failure to agree to a writing of supporting insurance business;

(B) A change in the insurer's eligibility rules or underwriting rules, provided that this subparagraph shall not apply to a change in such rules if the change applies uniformly within a specific class or territory and such change has been approved by the Commissioner under subparagraph (B) of paragraph (4) of this subsection;

(C) With respect to any driver or with respect to any automobile or its replacement, except when the replacement is such that together with other relevant underwriting or eligibility rules it would not have been insured as an original policy risk of the insurer, for two or fewer of the following within the preceding 36 month period:

(ii) Uninsured or underinsured motorist coverage claims;

(F) Military service, provided that the named insured has no change of legal residence from this state;

(G) Number of years of driving experience of a named insured or of any other operator who is either a resident in the same household or customarily an operator of an automobile insured under such policy;

(H) Accidents or violations which occurred more than 36 months prior to the expiration date or anniversary date of the policy or solely for claims paid or payable pursuant to the policy during the preceding 36 month period which did not aggregate in an amount in excess of $750.00;

(I) One claim against the policy based on fault if such coverage has been in effect continuously for at least 36 preceding months;

(J) Notwithstanding subparagraph (I) of this paragraph, two claims against the policy based on fault if such coverage has been in effect continuously for at least 72 preceding months; and

(K) Factors not relating to the claims record, driving record, or driving ability of the named insured or of any other operator who is either a resident in the same household or customarily an operator of an automobile insured under such policy.

(4)(A) Notwithstanding paragraph (3) of this subsection, any reason set forth in subsection (c) of this Code section, relating to cancellation, shall also constitute a reason for nonrenewal.

(B) If the insurer demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that renewal would violate the provisions of this title or would be hazardous to its policyholders or the public, subparagraph (B) or (K) of paragraph (3) shall not apply.

(5)(A) If the insurer complies with paragraph (1) of this subsection, no claim or action may be maintained with respect to a policy which is not renewed unless the named insured files a written notice with the insurer before the time at which nonrenewal becomes effective. The notice shall specify the manner in which the failure to renew is alleged to be unlawful under this subsection. In any subsequent action asserting a violation of this subsection, no violation of this subsection may be alleged other than the specific allegations contained in the notice filed by the named insured.

(B) In addition to other requirements, a notice of nonrenewal shall contain the provisions of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, in substantially the form which follows:

"NOTICE

Code Section 33-24-45 of the Official Code of Georgia Annotated provides that this insurer must, upon request, furnish you with the reasons for the failure to renew this policy. If you wish to assert that the nonrenewal is unlawful, you must file a written notice with this insurer before the time at which the nonrenewal becomes effective. The notice must specify the manner in which the failure to renew is alleged to be unlawful.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

If you do not file the written notice, you may not later assert a claim or action against this insurer based upon an unlawful nonrenewal."

(6)(A) Notwithstanding paragraph (3) of this subsection, the termination of an agency relationship shall be valid as a reason for a failure to renew a policy. In such case, if the named insured wishes to retain the policy with the particular insurer, the insured shall locate another agent of the insurer and apply for the policy with another agent of the insurer before the time at which the nonrenewal becomes effective. Upon receipt of the application, the insurer shall treat the application as a renewal and not as an original writing. Nothing in this subparagraph shall abridge or supersede contractual rights of the terminated agency or the insurer, provided that these contractual rights do not adversely affect the privilege of the named insured to apply for renewal through another agent of the insurer.

(B) A notice of nonrenewal based upon the termination of an agency relationship shall contain the provisions of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, in substantially the form which follows:

"NOTICE

Your policy has not been renewed because your present agent no longer represents this insurer. You have the option of procuring coverage through your present agent or retaining this policy by applying through another agent of this insurer. Code Section 33-24-45 of the Official Code of Georgia Annotated provides that if you will locate another agent of this insurer and apply for this policy before the time at which the nonrenewal becomes effective, this insurer will treat the application as a renewal and not as an application for a new policy."

(f) Subsection (e) of this Code section shall not apply in case of:

(1) Nonpayment of premium for the expiring policy;

(2) Failure of the insured to pay the premium as required by the insurer for renewal; or

(3) The insurer having manifested its willingness to renew by delivering a renewal policy, renewal certificate, or other evidence of renewal to the named insured or his representative or by offering to issue a renewal policy, certificate, or other evidence of renewal or having manifested such intention by any other means.

(g) Notwithstanding the failure of an insurer to comply with this Code section, termination of any coverage under the policy either by cancellation or nonrenewal shall be effective on the effective date of any other policy providing similar coverage on the same motor vehicle or any replacement of coverage.

(h) Renewal or continuation of a policy shall not constitute a waiver or estoppel with respect to ground for cancellation which existed before the effective date of the renewal or continuance.

(i) When a policy is canceled other than for nonpayment of premium or in the event of a refusal to renew or continue a policy, the insurer shall notify the named insured of his possible eligibility for insurance through the Georgia Automobile Insurance Plan. Such notice shall accompany or be included in the notice of cancellation or the notice of intent not to renew or not to continue the policy and shall state that such notice of availability of the Georgia Automobile Insurance Plan is given pursuant to this Code section.

20 Hour Pre-Licensing for Property & Casualty Limited Subagent Manual

(j) There shall be no liability on the part of and no cause of action of any nature shall arise against the Commissioner or his employees or against any insurer, its authorized representatives, its agents, its employees, or any firm, person, or corporation furnishing to the insurer information as to reasons for cancellation or nonrenewal for any statement made by any of them in any written notice of cancellation or nonrenewal or in any other communication, oral or written, specifying the reasons for cancellation or nonrenewal or providing information pertaining to the reasons for cancellation or nonrenewal or for statements made or evidence submitted at any formal or informal hearing conducted in connection with the reasons for cancellation or nonrenewal of the insured's policy.

(k) This Code section shall not apply to any policy which has been in effect less than 60 days at the time notice of cancellation is mailed or delivered by the insurer unless it is a renewal of a policy. Such policies shall be canceled in accordance with Code Section 33-24-44.

(l) Return of unearned premium, if any, due to cancellations as to which this Code section applies shall be processed in accordance with Code Section 33-24-44.

(m) Notice to the insured shall not be required by this Code section when a policy is canceled by an insurance premium finance company under a power of attorney contained in an insurance premium finance agreement if notification of the existence of the premium finance agreement has been given to the insurer in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 22 of this title. However, the insurer shall comply with the provisions of subsection (d) of Code Section 33-22-13 pertaining to notice to a governmental agency, mortgagee, or other third party. Such notice shall be delivered in person or by depositing the notice in the United States mails to be dispatched by at least first-class mail to the last address of record of such governmental agency, mortgagee, or other third party and receiving the receipt provided by the United States Postal Service or such other evidence of mailing as prescribed or accepted by the United States Postal Service.

(n) Cancellation by the insured shall be accomplished as provided in Code Section 33-24-44.1.

(o) An insured may request a review by the Commissioner if the insured believes that his or her policy has been canceled or nonrenewed in violation of this Code section. Such request must be filed with the Commissioner within 15 days of receipt of a notice of cancellation or nonrenewal. A review of the cancellation or nonrenewal shall be conducted within 30 days of said request. The Commissioner shall notify the insured and the insurer of his or her decision within the 30 day period. During the pendency of such review, the policy shall continue in full force and effect and the Commissioner shall specify by rule or regulation the method of payment of premium due and the disposition of premium refunds, if any. The Commissioner shall either require that the policy be reinstated or renewed or may uphold the nonrenewal or cancellation. In the event the Commissioner determines that an insurer's cancellation or nonrenewal action constitutes an unfair act or practice, the Commissioner may take action as authorized by this title. Following the completion of any review provided by this subsection, an insured may request a hearing pursuant to Code Section 33-2-17, and nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to waive an insured's right to request such a hearing.

§ 33-34-6. Selection of motor vehicle repair facility

(a) Subject to the provisions of subsection (b) of this Code section, no insurer shall represent to a person making a claim under a motor vehicle insurance policy that the use of or the failure to use a particular repair facility or particular repair facilities may result in the nonpayment of a claim.

(b) No insurer shall require a person making a claim under a motor vehicle insurance policy to use a particular repair facility or particular repair facilities in order to settle a claim if the person making the claim can obtain the repair work on the motor vehicle at the same cost from another source.

TRUE. Replacement coverage assures your insurance will pay what it costs (up to policy limits) to rebuild the house at today's prices.

FALSE A valued coverage agreement means the insurer will pay you exactly the amount for which an item is insured. If the item or items increase in value, you'll still only get the agreed-upon coverage amount.

TRUE These potential disasters are area-specific and not included in most standard policies. Flood insurance is usually a separate policy, while earthquakes can be covered by purchasing an endorsement to an existing policy.

TRUE Most experts agree that renter's liability coverage should be comparable to that of a homeowner in today's lawsuit-filled society.

FALSE. Any damage or liability arising from a home-based business pursuit will likely not be covered under a standard policy. Additional coverage, called "incidental office occupancy" coverage can help in this situation.

D - All of the Above Many homeowners think about home insurance only at settlement or annual renewal, so they often forget to evaluate changing coverage needs. Others simply fail to read their policy in its entirety.

A - The Living Room Although more fires start in the kitchen than any other room, more fatal fires begin in living rooms or family rooms. And careless smoking is often the culprit, according to The Journal of American Insurance.

C - Size of Lot The land under your house isn't at risk from fire, windstorm, lightning, theft, and the other perils covered in your policy. Its value should not affect the amount of insurance you buy.

E - A & C Above. This according to a survey of professional burglars published in Boardroom Classics' The Big Black Book of Secrets.

GEORGIA LICENSING REQUIREMENTS

GENERAL LICENSING QUALIFICATIONS

The Official Code of Georgia Annotated, Title 33, Chapter 23, and Chapter 120-2-3 of the Rules and Regulations of the Office of the Commissioner of Insurance cover the licensing of insurance agents, subagents, adjusters and counselors. Other license types are covered in specific code and rule sections.

The information in this section is provided as a general guide for new resident applicants qualifying by examination and answers the most commonly asked licensing questions. For specific authoritative information, applicants should contact their insurance company or refer to the appropriate code and/or rule sections.

PROCEDURES FOR APPLYING FOR A LICENSE

The general procedure for applying for a license is to register and pass the required examination and then submit a complete application package to the Georgia Insurance Department. The chart on page 7 contains more information. Examination reservations are described beginning on page 8.

PLEASE NOTE: All new resident applicants, excluding active licensees and individuals who apply for reinstatement within six (6) months of expiration date, shall be required to submit electronic fingerprints for a criminal background check. The applicant shall bear the cost for electronic fingerprinting. Information regarding fingerprint requirements can be found on the Department's website.

Upon issuance of the agent license, the licensee must obtain a certificate of authority from each insurer that they will represent. Sponsorship by an insurer is still required for all temporary license applicants.

Electronic online application services are available at www.sircon.com/georgia.

Effective July 1, 2012, the Georgia Insurance Department will transition to a two-year agent license that expires on the last day of the licensee's birth month. As a result, new applicants for an agent's license will receive a license with an initial term ranging between 18 to 29 months, depending on the applicant's birth month. The new agent license will expire on the last day of the licensee's birth month.

New license applicants are also required to submit a notarized Citizenship Affidavit Form (GID-276-EN) attesting to either United States citizenship or lawful presence. A copy of the required form, along with instructions for completing the form, can be down loaded from the Georgia Insurance Department's website at http://www.oci.ga.gov/ExternalResources/Forms/AllForms/GID-276-EN%20JAN2012_Citizen%20Affidavit%20Form.pdf, www.oci.ga.gov or can be found in the back of this handbook.

Once the Georgia Insurance Department has processed a completed application package, it will issue a license for a qualified candidate. If the applicant has been issued a temporary license, he/she must send a copy of the prelicensing course certificate, along with the passing score report and $50 license fee to the Insurance Department for Licensure.

The Georgia insurance license application found in this handbook may be used to apply for a license; however, it is recommended that applicants use the online service available at www.sircon.com/georgia. All license application packages must be sent to the Georgia Insurance Department at the address on the inside front cover of this handbook and on the application.

A nonresident licensee who wishes to become a resident licensee must:

- Complete a resident license application.
- Pay the appropriate fees.
- Obtain and submit a clearance letter from his/her home state within 90 days. In lieu of a clearance letter the applicant may include prior state license information and the Insurance Department will verify prior license via PDB. CERTIFICATE OF AUTHORITY (CA) REQUIREMENTS

In order to conduct insurance business, all agents must obtain a certificate of authority (CA) directly with an insurance company or companies. CA appointments will cover all classes of insurance held in common by the agent and the insurer. New CA's for previously licensed agents will be valid the date submitted to the Department by the insurer. The insurer has the responsibility of verifying that the CA has been issued. CA's for new licensees are valid only upon the issuance of a permanent license.

Certificates of authority will be renewed annually by the insurance company. CA's will terminate automatically upon the expiration or cancellation of the license. CA's may also be terminated at the written request of the insurer or agent

NON-RESIDENT LICENSES

A nonresident must be licensed as an agent, surplus lines broker, counselor, or adjuster with respect to any insurance activities in Georgia. A nonresident Agent must also be appointed in Georgia. Nonresident licenses hold only license classes that are in common with those classes held on the licensee's home state resident license.

Nonresident licenses are renewed biennially. A PDB check will be processed by the Georgia Insurance Department to verify home state licensure. A renewal fee is due upon submission of the renewal application.

Individuals holding a nonresident license who are required to meet continuing education requirements in their state of residence will be considered in compliance with the continuing education requirements under this chapter.

LICENSE RENEWAL QUALIFICATIONS

Renewal of licenses can be done online in real time at www.sircon.com/georgia. All renewal notices will be emailed 45 days before the start of the license expiration month. Renewal notices are due at Georgia Insurance Department by the renewal due date. If filing a paper renewal, licensees should plan extra time to submit the applications by mail to account for postal delivery time. Renewals received after the required renewal date must include a $15 late fee.

Continuing education providers will submit course completions at www.sircon.com. Incomplete paper renewal applications will be returned for completion. In the event an online renewal filing is incomplete or CE noncompliant, a notice will be sent advising the licensee of the error(s).

All bonds required for license renewal should be sent directly to the Georgia Insurance Department at the address listed inside the front cover of this handbook.

CONTINUING EDUCATION (CE) REQUIREMENTS

The completion of continuing education (CE) courses is mandatory for the renewal of all resident licenses (other than for licensees exempt from CE requirements). Continuing education completed during the current biennium is required to renew a license for the following biennium. The requirements for renewal of a license vary based on license type, membership in professional organizations, and other factors. If the licensee holds more than one license type and meets the requirements of the license with the maximum CE required, the licensee will also meet the requirements of the other license types. The following chart contains specific information about CE requirements.

Individuals licensed less than 20 years must obtain 30 hours (with 6 hours of Ethics) of continuing education from approved education providers. Individuals licensed 20 years or more are required to complete 20 hours with 6 hours in Ethics.

LICENSE TYPE	STANDARD REQUIREMENT	EXCEPTIONS
All Licensees	30 Hours/ biennium (min. 6 in Ethics)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Professional Designations Licensees holding a professional designation of CLU, BBA in insurance, PHD, CFP, CPCU, AAI, CEBS, ChFC, CIC, FLMI, CRM, or CISR are required to obtain 12 hours/ biennium (min. 6 in Ethics) • 20 Years of Service Licensees with 20 years of licensure agent must complete 20 CE hours/ biennium (min 6 in ethics). • Credit License Only Licensees with the Credit line of insurance only must complete 10 CE hours every biennium. • Limited Subagents Licensees with a Ltd. Subagent license must complete 10 CE hours every biennium. • Workers Compensation Must take 30 hours of CE credits; however, if courses are taken through the Workers Compensation Board Providers, must take only 20 hours. No ethics are required.

Licensees Exempt from Continuing Education Requirements

- Holders of agent licenses with only travel ticket and/or travel accident classes
- Temporary agents
- Foreign military representatives
- Fraternal agents
- Title

Course Content Requirements

Continuing education requirements may be completed in any subject area (line of insurance) for which the licensee is licensed. Each licensee requires six (6) hours of ethics credit each biennium.

Exceptions:

- For a multiple lines license where one of the lines is credit no more than 5 hours may be taken in the credit subject area.
- The ethics requirement is waived for limited subagents and credit licensees, and for Workers Compensation adjusters.

A course may not be repeated within two (2) years of the original completion date, with the exception of courses in ethics, current issues or legislative updates.

Continuing Education Carryover Provisions

Carry over credits are calculated based upon the number of hours required. Up to 50% of the biennium CE requirement may be carried over from the previous cycle, as long as the credits had not been allocated to that previous biennium.

Continuing Education Completion Dates

All CE requirements are to be met by the renewal due date on or before licensee's expiration date. Renewals received within 15 days after the license expiration date require a $15 late fee to be included.

To view your current continuing education transcript, please utilize online services available at www.sircon.com/georgia.

AGENCY LICENSING REQUIREMENTS

An agency is defined as a business entity which represents one or more insurers in the business of selling, soliciting, or negotiating insurance. By definition every agent is an agency. The Georgia Insurance Department requires that every agency with a Georgia business address be licensed.

To become licensed as an agency, a licensee must submit a complete GID-130 form for a Resident Georgia Agency or the Uniform Application for Nonresident Business Entity. This must include the appropriate fee to the Georgia Insurance Department and any required supporting documentation. Nonresident applicants may also apply online at www.sircon.com/georgia

LICENSE PROCESSING FORMS

Forms may be obtained from the GID website at www.oci.ga.gov . All forms may be photocopied, but original signatures and notary seals are required for most submission. Those who do not have access to a fax machine or to the Internet may call the Georgia Insurance Department. Requestors should allow 10 to 15 days for delivery.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Pearson VUE complies with the provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act as amended. The purpose of accommodations is to provide candidates with full access to the test. Pearson VUE provides reasonable and appropriate accommodations to individuals with documented disabilities who demonstrate a need for accommodations.

Test accommodations may include things such as:

- A separate testing room
- Extra testing time
- A Reader or Recorder, for individuals with mobility or vision impairments and cannot read or write on their own

Test accommodations are individualized and considered on a case-by-case basis. All candidates who are requesting accommodations because of a disability must provide appropriate documentation of their condition and how it is expected to affect their ability to take the test under standard conditions. This may include:

- Supporting documentation from the professional who diagnosed the condition, including the credentials that qualify the professional to make this diagnosis
- A description of past accommodations the candidate has received

The steps to follow when requesting test accommodations vary, depending on your test program sponsor. To begin, go to <http://pearsonvue.com/accommodations>, and then select your test program sponsor from the alphabetized list. Candidates who have additional questions concerning test accommodations may contact the ADA Coordinator at accommodationspearsonvue@pearson.com.

Candidates should not attempt to make a reservation until after they have been notified by Pearson VUE via email that their request for additional time has been approved. The length of the examination will be equal to 1-1/2 times the length of the examination. For example, a 2 hour examination will be extended to 3 hours. NOTE: NO OTHER accommodations will be granted for ESL, i.e. separate testing room, reader, marker, etc. These accommodations are for individuals who qualify under the American's with Disability Act (ADA) only.

Candidates who have additional questions about ESL examinations should contact the Special Examination Coordinator at (800) 466-0450.

Acceptable Forms of Candidate Identification

Candidate must present two forms of current signature identification. The name on the identification must exactly match the name on the registration. - Primary ID (photograph and signature, not expired)

Pearson VUE does not recognize grace periods. For example, if a candidate's driver's license expired yesterday and the state allows a 30-day grace period for renewing the ID, the ID is considered to be expired.

Candidates who do not present the required items will be denied admission to the examination, will be considered absent, and will forfeit the examination fee.

Suggested Materials

- Prelicensing education certificate (optional)
- A valid Georgia life insurance license or a passing Georgia life examination score report (Variable Product candidates only)

EXAM PROCEDURES

Candidates should report to the test center thirty (30) minutes before the examination and check in with the test center administrator. The candidate's identification and other documentation will be reviewed and they will be photographed for the score report.

Candidates are required to review and sign a Candidate Rules Agreement form. If the Candidate Rules Agreement is not followed and/or cheating or tampering with the examination is suspected, the incident will be reported as such and the appropriate action will be taken. The examination fee will not be refunded, the exam may be determined invalid, and/or the state may take further action.

Candidates will have an opportunity to take a tutorial on the PC on which the examination will be administered. The time spent on this tutorial will not reduce the examination time. The examination administrators will answer questions, but candidates should be aware that the administrators are not familiar with the content of the examinations or with the state's licensing requirements. Examination administrators have been instructed not to advise candidates on requirements for licensure. Candidates are responsible for determining which examinations they need to take.

Once candidates are familiar with the examination unit, they may begin the examination. The examination begins the moment a candidate looks at the first question. The time allotted for each examination is detailed on the back cover of this handbook. After the examination time has expired, the examination unit will automatically turn off. Candidates will leave the test center with their official scores in hand.

ABOUT THE EXAM

The content of the general examination is based upon information obtained from a job analysis performed by Pearson VUE. Responses from insurance professionals were analyzed to determine the nature and scope of tasks they perform and the knowledge and skills needed to perform them. This information is the basis upon which examination questions are written and ensures that examinations reflect the practice of insurance. The examination has been developed to reflect the laws, statutes, rules, and regulations for the practice of insurance in Georgia, and has been reviewed and approved by Georgia insurance professionals.

The passing score for the examination is determined by the Georgia Insurance Department (GID). Through standardization and control, Pearson VUE ensures that no individual has an unfair disadvantage or advantage because of a particular examination format.

Pearson VUE maintains examination administration and examination security standards designed to ensure that all candidates are given the same opportunity to demonstrate their abilities and to prevent some candidates from gaining an unfair advantage over others because of irregularities or misconduct. Pearson VUE routinely reviews irregularities and examination scores believed to be earned under unusual or nonstandard circumstances.

Pearson VUE maintains the right to question any examination score whose validity is in doubt because the score may have been obtained unfairly. Pearson VUE first undertakes a confidential review of the circumstances contributing to the questions about score validity. If there is sufficient cause to question the score, Pearson VUE will refer the matter to the state licensing agency, which will make the final decision on whether or not to cancel the score.

The performance of all candidates is monitored and may be analyzed statistically for the purpose of detecting and verifying fraud. If it is determined that a score has questionable validity, the GID will be so notified and will determine whether the candidate's scores will be released.

Each examination is given in a multiple-choice format. The examination covers basic insurance product knowledge and insurance laws, rules, regulations and practices that are unique to Georgia.

Scores on each examination are based on the number of questions answered correctly. Those who are uncertain about the correct answer to a question may be able to eliminate one or more of the answer choices as incorrect. It is always better to guess at the correct answer than to not answer a question.

EXAMINATION QUESTIONS

All examination questions, each form of the examination, and any other examination materials are copyrighted and are the property of Pearson VUE. Consequently, any distribution of the examination content or materials through any form of reproduction or oral or written communication is strictly prohibited and punishable by law.

SCORE EXPLANATION

Percent Score

There are multiple versions of each of the licensing examinations. These versions are known as forms. All forms of an examination are developed based on the content outlines. To ensure that no candidate is put at an unfair advantage or disadvantage due to the particular form of an examination that he or she is given, a statistical procedure known as equating is used to attain comparable form difficulty.

The passing score of an examination was set by the Georgia Insurance Department (GID) after a comprehensive study was completed for each examination. The examination score is reported as a percent score on a scale of 0%-100%. It is the percentage of questions answered correctly on the examination. You need to answer 70% of questions correctly in order to pass the examination.

SCORE REPORTING

When candidates complete the examination, they will receive a score report marked “pass” or “fail”. Examination results will not be given by phone. Candidates who pass the examination will receive a score report that includes information on how to apply for a license.

Candidates who fail the examination will receive a score report that includes a numeric score and diagnostic information as well as information about reexamination. Appointments for reexamination are not made at the test center. Candidates must wait 24 hours before scheduling a reexamination. Candidates who receive a failing score must wait two weeks before retesting.

Candidates who fail the examination three (3) times and had taken a prelicensing course through an independent provider will be required to retake a prelicensing course from a different provider prior to retaking the examination.

Candidates who fail the examination three (3) times and had taken a prelicensing course via a virtual classroom will be required to retake an in-classroom prelicensing course prior to retaking the examination.

REVIEW OF EXAMS

For security reasons, examination material is not available to candidates for review.

QUESTIONS OR COMMENTS ABOUT THE EXAM

There are no provisions for allowing failing or passing candidates to review their examination results. Pearson VUE insurance licensing examinations are secure examinations and are not available for general distribution. Those who have questions, comments, or concerns about the examinations, or who wish to verify any data held in Pearson VUE files, should direct written inquiries to:

Pearson VUE/Insurance Licensing Program

Attn: Regulatory Program Coordinator

5601 Green Valley Drive

Bloomington, MN 55437

In all correspondence, candidates should give their name and address. If questions or comments concern an examination already taken, they should also include the name of the examination, the date the examination was taken, the location of the test center, and their confirmation number.

DUPLICATE SCORE REPORTS

Candidates may request a duplicate score report from Pearson VUE by completing the form in the back of this handbook and submitting it along with the correct fees.

TEST CENTER POLICIES

The following policies are observed at each test center. Candidates who violate any of these policies will not be permitted to finish the examination and will be dismissed from the test center, forfeiting the examination fee.

- No personal items are allowed in the testing room. Personal items include but are not limited to: cellular phones, hand-held computers/personal digital assistants (PDAs) or other electronic devices, pagers, watches, wallets, purses, firearms or other weapons, hats, bags, coats, books, and/or notes, pens or pencils.
- Candidates must store all personal items in a secure area as indicated by the administrator, or return items to their vehicle. All electronic devices must be turned off before storing them in a locker. The test center is not responsible for lost, stolen, or misplaced personal items.
- Studying is not allowed in the test center. Visitors, children, family or friends are not allowed in the test center.
- Dictionaries, books, papers (including scratch paper), and reference materials are not permitted in the examination room (unless permitted by the exam sponsor), and candidates are strongly urged not to bring such materials to the test center. Upon entering and being seated in the testing room, the test administrator will provide the candidate with materials to make notes or calculations and any other items specified by the exam sponsor. The candidate may not write on these items before the exam begins or remove these items from the testing room.
- Eating, drinking, chewing gum, smoking, and/or making noise that creates a disturbance for other candidates is prohibited during the exam.
- Break policies are established by the exam sponsor. Most sponsors allow unscheduled breaks. To request an unscheduled break, the candidate must raise their hand to get the administrator's attention. The exam clock will not stop while the candidate is taking a break.
- Candidates must leave the testing room for all breaks. However, candidates are not permitted to leave the floor or building for any reason during this time, unless specified by the administrator and the exam sponsor. If a candidate is discovered to have left the floor or building they will not be permitted to proceed with the examination and may forfeit the exam fees.
- While taking a break, candidates are permitted to access personal items that are being stored during the exam only if necessary—for example, personal medication that must be taken at a specific time. However, a candidate must receive permission from the administrator prior to accessing personal items that have been stored. Candidates are not allowed access to other items, including but not limited to, cellular phones, PDAs, exam notes, and study guides, unless the exam sponsor specifically permits this.
- Any candidate discovered causing a disturbance of any kind or engaging in any kind of misconduct—giving or receiving help; using notes, books, or other aids; taking part in an act of impersonation; or removing examination materials or notes from the examination room—will be summarily dismissed from the examination and will be reported to the state licensing agency. Decisions regarding disciplinary measures are the responsibility of the state licensing agency.

PREPARING FOR THE EXAM

CONTENT OUTLINES

Each examination is based on a detailed content outline of topics, subtopics, and references to applicable state laws, statutes and regulations. These content outlines are provided to publishers of study materials and to state-approved education providers for their use in developing and updating their educational materials and programs. Content outlines are updated periodically to reflect changes in practice, state laws and regulations. Georgia offers these content outlines as part of the handbook.

They list the topics covered in each examination, and candidates should be sure their program of study covers all the topics listed in these content outlines. The content outlines are not meant to include everything that appears on the examinations. The state-specific study materials for a chosen area(s) of insurance will provide the most complete review of the information that candidates will be expected to know.

Candidates may obtain additional copies of the content outlines either by calling (800) 274-0488 or visiting www.pearsonvue.com.

STUDY MATERIALS

Other study materials besides the content outlines include:

- The Georgia Agents' Licensing Study Manual (Life and Accident and Sickness or Property and Casualty)

PRETEST QUESTIONS

Many of the examinations will contain "pretest" questions.

Pretest questions are questions on which statistical information is being collected for use in constructing future examinations. Responses to pretest questions do not affect a candidate's score. Pretest questions are mixed in with the scored questions and are not identified.

The number of pretest questions are listed in the content outline heading of each examination for which they are available. If a number is not present then there are no pretest questions for that particular examination.
